A New Word, Banksters.
Gullible, Emotional.
Correct.
We Are All Prisoners.
The Rockefeller Name.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS receives from Paris information that American bankers are called "banksters," in high French financial circles.

A "bankster" is supposed to be a combination of banker and gangster, expressing French opinion of American bankers.

New York bankers may reply that in dealing with the more clever of the distinguished French bankers, a little of the gangster quality would not come amiss, for purposes of self defense.

IT IS NO secret that gentlemen came here from the Bank of France with threats to withdraw all French gold from New York, as they had drawn all gold from London. They thought this would frighten American bankers, and were surprised when told:

"The sooner you take that gold out, the better we shall be pleased. It doesn't mean anything to us."

A BRITISH newspaper says Americans are "gullible and emotional," an accurate description. They were emotional when they sent 3,000,000 men and $10,000,000,000 to Europe, and VERY gullible when they were silly enough to imagine that they would get the money back.

CABLES FROM England report disappointment caused by our refusal to postpone debt payments indefinitely. It is suggested that Britain and France, combined, notify the United States that they will not pay what they owe.

Many Britishers will object to that suggestion for the word "welcher" is unpopular in a country much addicted to race track gambling.

THE UNITED STATES hereafter might remember Benjamin Franklin's sound advice against borrowing and lending, or go farther back and take two lines from the excellent English author of Hamlet:

"Neither a borrower nor a lender be;
"For loan oft loses both itself and friend."

We lost our friends in Europe, if they were friends, which is extremely doubtful, on the day we lent them the money.

THE DEATH of a guard in the government penitentiary at Leavenworth reminds us that we are all prisoners. William Suberkrup, guard in the prison, was a free man, able to go out when he chose and do what he liked. Prisoners thinking only of the liberty outside prison walls were amazed to hear that the guard had killed himself, with freedom and the world before him.

But nobody is free. We are all prisoners, tied to this little earth by the power of gravitation, sailing with it around the sun, going Heaven knows where.

MAGNIFICENT BUILDINGS that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is erecting in the heart of New York City will mean an expenditure of $200,000,000, fortunately for workers and contractors in these dull times.

This Rockefeller enterprise, parks with growing trees on the roofs of tall buildings, would have amazed ancient Babylon and its hanging gardens. It will be a city within a city, and tenants in the city will be glad to hear that Mr. Rockefeller has consented to the use of his name. "Rockefeller City" in business will be a name more valuable to them than "Radio City."

SLOW GOING Army and Navy gentlemen who think the airplane would be "merely an auxiliary weapon in war" should read the news from Manchuria. The Chinese send a large force marching on foot against Mukden, "60,000 regular bandits and irregulars."

Gen. Honjo, Japanese commander-in-chief, sends a flock of airplanes roaring southward to meet the attack with aerial machine gun fire and bombs.

Airplanes "raining death" and out of reach are discouraging to those on foot.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS says British metal circles announce an agreement to reduce copper production in 1932 by 26 per cent.

This is good news for the industry, if somebody can be found to buy the remaining 74 per cent.

Tariffs are the latest fashion. England is trying one, that, by the way, disturbs the French a great deal.

Why not decide in America to use copper produced in America, and build around it one of the tariff walls that Europe is constructing?

IMPORTANT WARS hereafter will be tariff wars undoubtedly. And since the great copper production in South as well as North America is financed, engineered, developed and owned by the United States, why not have a tariff to protect the copper of North and South America against the rest of the world?

That this country should be protected against the gigantic copper fields of Africa, where they measure copper deposits by the square mile, may be offensive to our good friend Britain. But if protection for American workers was ever needed, it is needed in that case, considering that African copper is produced by colored "boys" that work for $5 a month.

Not much chance for American producers or workers in competition with wages of that sort.

MRS. GIFFORD PINCHOT

Governor's Wife to Seek Seat in Congress

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of Gov. Pinchot, today announced her candidacy for Congress to oppose Louis G. McFadden, representative of the Fifteenth Pennsylvania District, who recently made a bitter attack on President Hoover's moratorium plan and the motives which he said were behind it.

Mrs. Pinchot is a resident of Milford, Pike County; McFadden of Canton, Bradford County.

PLEAS FROM FRIENDS

The Governor's wife said she was announcing her candidacy as a result of the pleas from hundreds of her friends. She refused to comment on McFadden's criticism of Hoover except to say:

"Everyone must resent an unsubstantiated attack on the President."

Mrs. Pinchot, in her statement, said:

"If I am elected, I pledge myself to initiate and push measures promoting the welfare

County Votes $2,500 For Helping Hand

The County Commissioners today appropriated $2,500 to keep the Helping Hand, haven of the unemployed, in operation. Oliver M. Kaufmann, appearing for the Helping Hand, answering questions of Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, said:

"There is only $50 in the fund now. The city has given $35,000 and the county $15,000. Ninety per cent of the money goes for food."

Strike of Theater Musicians Settled

KIDNAPED GIRL FOUND DEAD

MUSICIANS' WALKOUT SETTLED

Theaters Here Resume Stage Shows on Christmas; Pay Dispute Compromised

Pittsburgh's major motion picture theater patrons will have stage shows again, Christmas Day.

Settlement of the musicians' strike, affecting moving picture houses with stage productions, was achieved today with the houses employing the same number of men at a compromise wage. The settlement ended a strike of 14 weeks' duration.

One hundred and fifty men will return to their posts Friday. This is an increase of 90 over the number employed a year ago. The tie-up did not affect stage hands, production staffs and stage units.

The difference arose over the demands of Local No. 60, American Federation of Musicians, that theaters employ 25 men with a basic wage of $83. The theaters held out for a renewal of the annual contract for 18 men at an $83 basic wage or 25 men at a lower basis. Acceptance of the 25 men indicates a lower basis on compromise.

Musicians playing pit, stage and rehearsals will continue to average more than $100 a week.

The final meeting was attended by M. E. Johnston, president of the union; John H. Harris, acting for the theater managers; Michael Cullen, manager of the Penn Theater, and J. O. Hooley, manager of the Sheridan Square Theater. The Penn, Stanley, Sheridan Square, Enright, Harris and McKeesport Harris theaters are affected.

The agreement means a return of masters of ceremonies to local houses.

ASKS SENATE TO AMEND DEBT PLAN

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—A reservation specifically requiring that both conditional and unconditional German reparations be included in the provisions of the Hoover one-year moratorium was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California.

France forced President Hoover to exempt Germany's unconditional reparations payments, Johnson charged, and he offered his amendment to "restore" the moratorium to its original form.

He contended that the President gave way before French resistance on the unconditional reparations. He charged members of Congress pledged themselves to a different form of moratorium than the one now before Congress for ratification.

CONSTITUTION 'VOIDED'

Senator Johnson introduced his reservation after a biting speech in which he charged that President Hoover had "torn the Constitution of the United States to shreds in negotiating a secret treaty on the debt moratorium with France and the Allies."

Resuming his attack on the Hoover debt plan, the California Senator asserted it really is of French design, rather than American, because the completed plan represents what France insisted upon and got. He shouted:

"The Constitution of the United States was utilized as a mere scrap of paper, torn to bits and scattered to the heavens for the aid of Europe."

CRESCENDO OF IRONY

In mounting crescendo of irony, Johnson told his attentive colleagues he did not care to discuss "the superior qualifications" of President Hoover, but he would allow no man to "violate the spirit" of the Constitution to go

Postoffice Contract Awarded

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Contract for construction of the Pittsburgh postoffice today was awarded to Aronberg-Fried Company, New York City, by the Treasury.

The company's bid of $4,596,000 was low of 13 submitted. The company has 720 calendar days in which to complete the work.

Stillman Gives Son Plane for Christmas

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—James A. Stillman, of New York, chose an airplane for his son's Christmas present. The $8,500 custom built job is expected at Boston airport in time for Alexander Stillman, Harvard freshman, to hop off for Chicago.

According to plans revealed today Stillman will first use his new plane on a trip to visit his mother, Mrs. Fowler McCormick, over the holidays.

U. S. Gold Rumor Hits Tokio 'Change

TOKIO, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—A flood of new rumors that the United States government was considering abandonment of the gold standard descended on the Tokio Stock Exchange today, causing such excitement and confusion that opening of the afternoon session was postponed for three hours.

SPREAD HOLD-UP ALARM

Allderdice High School Girl Saw Bandits

DOROTHY FARRELL, 16

Miss Farrell, 5235 Gertrude street, pictured at her studies today in Taylor Allderdice High School, after she had, on her way to school, spread the alarm when bandits robbed Haberdasher Nathan Newman of $2,300 in checks and cash.

GIRL TOO LATE TO BALK HOLDUP

A 16-year-old Hazelwood high school girl sounded the warning of a holdup early today, but it was too late—three armed, masked bandits escaped after taking $2,300 from Nathan Newman, haberdasher, at the garage in the rear of his home at 215 Winston street.

The girl, Dorothy Farrell, of 5235 Gertrude street, was entering the Newman home when she saw three men crowding Newman as he was taking his car from the garage. To Newman's wife she called:

"Something's happening to your husband."

Mrs. Newman ran to the back porch in time to see the bandits leaping into their automobile and speeding away with $1,258.80 in cash and $1,073.95 in checks. The wife's screams proved futile.

Newman explained he was carrying such a large sum because yesterday in his store at 67 Vespucius street he had cashed the pay checks of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employes.

With an exciting story to tell her classmates, Dorothy Farrell—and Newman's daughter, Sylvia, 16—went on to Taylor Allderdice High School.

This afternoon Newman was trying to get in touch with the railroad men whose checks he had cashed.

HUNDREDS JOIN HUNT FOR MURDERER IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Thrown across several boards, the body of little 6-year-old Marian McLean, who had been kidnaped, mistreated and murdered, was found today in the basement of a tenement building near her home in the slum district. The child was abducted last Thursday.

Shock and hemorrhage super-induced by mistreatment, caused the death, Deputy Coroner J. M. Patterson said after conducting a post-mortem examination. He said she had been dead 15 hours.

Coroner M. Scott Kearns said:

"Marian's eyes were bloodshot, indicating she had been crying. Tear drop streaks were plainly seen on her cheeks."

The body was discovered in the basement of a building at 411 West Twelfth street by Charles Bischoff, who occupied a room on the third floor. Bischoff, dumbfounded and dazed, was barely able to stand as he was questioned.

CLOTHES TORN

The cellar is very dark and is accessible only by a narrow stairway. The child was lying on her back close to the stairway. Marian was clad in the blue chinchilla coat which she wore when she last was seen on Thursday.

Marian's clothes were torn and there was a small blue mark on her forehead.

Bischoff said he had been in the basement as late as last night to fix a furnace fire but had not seen the body at that time. He went to the cellar to chop kindling when he came upon Marian's body.

SEEK MURDER SCENE

Coroner Kearns was of the opinion Marian was killed at some other spot than where the body was found. He believed the abductor, knowing all buildings near the girl's home were to be searched, flung the body into the West Twelfth street building to keep the scene of the slaying a secret.

No trace had been found of the child's killer. All the city's manhunting power renewed the inten-

Grief-Crazed Mother Cries For Revenge

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—"My baby! My baby!"

With an intuition that only mothers can understand, Mrs. Mildred McLean, mother of Marian McLean, shrieked these words today when the telephone rang to inform her that the body of her child had been found.

She knew, she said, even before the telephone had been answered, what message it conveyed.

PREMONITION OF DEATH

Mrs. McLean had been staying with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Joe Dedens, at Elsmere, Ky., and had gone next door to the home of a neighbor, Miss Eula Yelton, who has a telephone.

Police called the news to Miss Yelton, asking her to break it gently to the mother. Mrs. McLean cried to Miss Yelton:

"Oh, I know she's dead! I can tell from your face. I've always felt they never would find Marian alive.

"Oh, I hope they found the monster who was so horrible to my baby. I hope they torture him till he writhes in agony. The electric chair would be too good for him—much too good for him.

MESSAGE FOR SANTA

"The last thing Marian said to me before she went out to play on the day she was kidnaped, was 'Mother—I love you! Please tell Santa to bring me lots of toys!' I never saw her again.

"Marian was a bright little girl. Why, when she was only four years old she won a gold piece for guessing the number of bottle caps that were contained in a big glass jar.

"Marian could count all the way up to 100, and she knew her alphabet, too."

Then memories of her little girl faded and Mrs. McLean cried out for revenge.

ASK MORE TIME FOR ASSEMBLY

By MARK SHIELDS

The Allegheny County legislative delegation will meet in the Bar Association rooms in the City-County Building at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night to discuss unemployment relief, including action on the Talbot bill should it be vetoed by Gov. Pinchot.

In calling the meeting, Senator Morris Einstein, chairman of the delegation, said it would be open to all citizens who might have any suggestions for legislative relief. Meeting of the delegation is predicated on the possibility that the Legislature may extend its session when it reconvenes next week after a Christmas recess. A resolution demanding this extension probably will be offered.

CALLED ILLEGAL

So far the Talbot bill, appropriating $10,000,000 for direct relief through poor boards, is the only tangible gesture toward aiding the needy, and Attorney General William A. Schnader has held the measure unconstitutional. Despite this opinion, it is possible Gov. Pinchot will not veto the

THUNDERSTORM GREETS WINTER

Thundershowers, rare at this season, ushered in winter today, the shortest day of the year.

Lightning flashed shortly before noon, followed by a rumble and downpour as Christmas shoppers filled the streets.

The advent of winter was officially scheduled for 2:30 p. m. Mild weather is likely for the next several days, Forecaster W. S. Broxman indicated. No severe cold is reported from the Northwest.

Europe Snowbound, Wolves Kill Soldiers

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Winter showed no signs of relaxing its grip on Europe today, and weather reports told of more snow and frost.

Heavy snowfalls and intense cold prevailed throughout Southern Siberia and wolves prowled around the towns and villages in search of food, causing great alarm. Two soldiers were killed by wolves and a peasant was killed by a bear.

Hitler Hurts Finger In Crash of Auto

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Adolf Hitler, leader of Germany's Fascists, suffered a broken finger today when his automobile crashed into a tree near Pritzwalk. The chauffeur of Hitler's car was injured seriously. Hitler continued his journey in a hired car.

Taxi Driver Loses Eye From Stoning

Fred Heisler, 31, of 21 Rostock street, injured taxicab driver, was improving in Allegheny General Hospital today, following an operation to remove his eye. Heisler was knocked unconscious when his cab was stoned, December 14, in Galveston and Ridge avenues.

Loaded Gun Kills Boy in Church Play

SHELTON, Conn., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Francis Russell, 21, was dead today because law triumphed over crime too realistically at the First Methodist Church.

Russell played the part of a "bad man" in the Boy Scouts' annual Christmas skit. Norman Smithson, 23, upholding the law in the final scenes, drew his "unloaded" gun, pointed it at Russell and pulled the trigger. Russell, fatally wounded, dropped to the stage crying:

"Hey, that was real!"

Cousin of Schwab Weds Colombia Girl

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Arthur M. Schwab, 47, who said he was a second cousin of Charles M. Schwab, eastern steel magnate, and Miss Delfine M. Munoz, 23, said to be a member of a titled Colombia (South America) family, were married yesterday. Schwab, who gave his occupation as financier, and Miss Munoz said they resided in Los Angeles.

2 Men Shot to Death In Boston Building

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Two unidentified men were shot and fatally wounded in a downtown office building today. One of them staggered into the office of Julius H. Wolfson, an attorney, and collapsed in front of Wolfson's secretary, who became hysterical. The other victim of the murderers died instantly in the corridor of the building.

Woman Sues Rich Indian Over Wedding

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Wilson Clinton, Creek Indian who lived in a board shanty and went without shoes only to come into an oil fortune that for a time netted $10,000 daily, was sued today for divorce and $125,000 by Mrs. Ridenour Clinton. She alleged Clinton wed her while already married to another.

Huge Wave Batters Liner, Woman Killed, 35 Hurt

GLASGOW, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—An American woman was killed and 35 other passengers were injured, some seriously, when a giant wave struck the liner Tuscania in mid-Atlantic, it was revealed today when the ship docked here.

The ship was struck Wednesday at the height of a fierce storm, during which she heeled over, waves sweeping down her alleyways and rushing into staterooms, the third-class dining room, a lounging saloon and into other public rooms.

Passengers and members of the crew were swept off their feet and hurled against furniture and the walls. In addition to those hurt bodily, hundreds were terrified from the shock. Many passengers believed the ship was going to sink.

The woman passenger who died was Mrs. Sarah Rodgers, 55, a cook and native of County Derry, who was returning home for the first time in 40 years.

Babe Ruth Plays Santa To 250 Sick Children

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Babe Ruth lost a couple of pounds today to make 250 kids from the city's hospitals happy. Garbed in a heavy Santa Claus outfit, with perspiration trickling down his beard, he shook hands with every tot, handed out presents, carved turkeys, and generally made himself the hit of the party. He said with a grin:

"Whew, this is tougher than a doubleheader, but more fun."

The party was at a restaurant in West Forty-second street, where it is an annual affair.

The Babe, who was an orphan himself, carved a huge leg off a huge bird for little crippled George Meixner and watched George go at it. Then he listened enraptured while Dorothy Nixon, 10, sang some grand old songs.

Afterwards there was a movie party.

Carmel Myers Plans Adoption of Baby

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Carmel Myers, film star, and her husband, Attorney Ralph H. Blum, today planned to adopt a baby—as soon as Miss Myers decided whether she wanted a girl or boy.

Who'll Cook Pinchot Turkey? Help Quits

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—Who's going to cook the Governor's Christmas turkey?

Just as the festive bird arrived by air express from Kansas City, the steward and kitchen maid in the executive mansion resigned. Official announcement of the resignations came from the Governor's office today.

CHINESE NATIONALIST CABINET QUITS; FACTIONS IN SPLIT

EX-PRESIDENT FLEES NANKING IN PLANE

Action Makes Formation of New Government Remote; Tokio Troops Push Drive

NANKING, China, Dec. 22 —(AP)— Chinese [illegible] political steps toward an additional shake-up today when the entire Nationalist government cabinet, ministers and vice ministers, tendered their resignations as a unit.

The cabinet acted before the news of [illegible]

Former President Chiang Kai-Shek left Nanking by airplane for his native province in northern China. [illegible] was carried on [illegible] associates here [illegible] Only this morning he had indicated to party [illegible] convened here [illegible] government decided to do so, [illegible] Gen. Chang departed.

Nanking was [illegible] with rumors of renewed fighting among the party factions which some observers said might mean the likelihood of the formation of a new government entirely.

The resignations of the cabinet members were [illegible] to Nanking appeals to Gen. Chiang, acting head of the party, that they carry on their duties. The ministers declined and the government may [illegible] in a complete stalemate and probably will continue so until the party chiefs now here are able to form a new cabinet.

SPLIT REPORTED

The [illegible] remained a mystery tonight. The belief was [illegible] in some quarters, however, that a number of the leaders who are [illegible] to come here to assist in [illegible] the new government decided to do so, [illegible] Gen. Chang departed.

Japanese Troops Push Drive in Manchuria

By JAMES E. YOUNG

TOKIO, Dec. 22 —(AP)— [illegible] completing their [illegible] of [illegible] ing up the area of Southern Manchuria between Mukden and Ssupingkai, west of the Southern Manchurian Railway, Japanese troops today captured the walled city of Faku, [illegible] base of operations for 7,000 Chinese bandits.

Capture of the city was preceded by a brief bombardment necessary because of its heavy fortification. Little resistance was offered by the bandits for Chinese officials of the city.

JAPAN EXCITED

Despite the fact that Japanese operations were quieter today, it was felt to be not a lull before further reaches west and south into Manchuria aiming at occupation of Chinchow.

The declaration of Gen. Shigeru Honjo, commander of Japanese forces in Manchuria, that his army "was determined to clean up the area west of the Liao River and would not hesitate to remove any parties interfering," was interpreted by the [illegible] press today as tantamount to an ultimatum to China that he intended to take Chinchow.

Japan is [illegible] excited today as preparations are [illegible] begun to meet an expected large scale Chinese offensive in Manchuria.

Japanese planes have been ordered sent to Changtu and Kaiyuan, where more than 10,000 Chinese are [illegible] along the Southern Manchuria Railroad.

Vote Machine Delay By Phila. Rebuked

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22 —(AP)— The Philadelphia County Commissioners today were warned that they must award a contract by next Monday for purchase of sufficient voting machines to supply all unequipped districts in Philadelphia or the state will award a contract. Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish sent the warning.

"The delays by your office in complying with the provisions of the voting machine law, after the voters of Philadelphia County had given to you a mandate directing such installation, have been beyond explanation or excuse. I will wait no longer for you to act."

Ex-Pittsburgher Dies at Greenville

GREENVILLE, Pa., Dec. 22 —(Special)— Fred Heil, 56, widely-known local photographer, died suddenly at his home today. He was born in Pittsburgh and had been in business here since 1910.

Child Witness Pictures Baby Killing by Gang

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 —(AP)— A 13-year-old girl from Harlem's "Little Italy" stage-directed a courtroom reconstruction of a gangdom baby killing today, and the scene was so realistic that one juror protested.

Millie Defino was the first witness of the day in the trial of Vincent Coll and Frank Giordano for the murder of 5-year-old Michael Vengali last summer. She told of playing with a group of children on the sidewalk when a car slid down the crowded street, "walking easy like," and [illegible] suddenly sprayed among the children from a gun poked through a rear window.

Samuel Liebowitz, of defense counsel, placed two chairs together to simulate an automobile, borrowed a pistol from a patrolman, and climbed into the rear [illegible] from which he pointed the [illegible] toward the witness.

[illegible] fell down from [illegible] stand, offered his [illegible] and then said [illegible] pretending [illegible] slayer.

She was satisfied but Juror No. 2, Charles W. Burkett, evidenced considerable displeasure at being made the object of the lawyer's act. He raised his hand for permission to speak and voiced a strong protest. Liebowitz assured him:

"It's all right. It's empty."

"I don't care. Please don't point it at me."

"The opposition, of course, will shout 'Too much Pinchot' and accuse me of all kinds of wicked, selfish and inordinate ambition. Abuse of that kind is part of their stock in trade.

"Yet I remember that, when William Vare and his sister-in-law served simultaneously—the one in Congress and the other in the Legislature at Harrisburg—no one said, 'Too much Vare.'

"When Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., was elected to the State senate while his father was County Commissioner of Allegheny County, no one said, 'Too much Armstrong.'

"When W. L. Mellon was elected Republican state chairman during the earlier part of Andrew Mellon's term as Secretary of the Treasury, I cannot remember anyone saying, 'Too much Mellon.'

"Apparently what is praiseworthy in a regular and reactionary is all wrong in an independent and progressive."

In 1928 Mrs. Pinchot was defeated by McFadden for the Republican nomination.

Congressman McFadden already has announced he will seek renomination. Frederick C. Leonhart, former Republican National Committeeman, has said he will be a candidate campaigning for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

BOTH PROHIBITIONISTS

Mrs. Pinchot, like McFadden, is a prohibitionist.

Postoffice Takes Patronage From McFadden

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 —(AP)— Postmaster General Brown today informed Representative McFadden that the Postoffice Department would neither invite nor follow suggestions from him relative to appointments in the Fifteenth Pennsylvania District.

Brown said McFadden's views expressed in the House on December 15 convinced him that his advice will not be helpful to the department.

The Postmaster General gave his views in replying to a query from McFadden as to the accuracy of statements that all patronage matters in the Fifteenth District would be handled through Senators Reed and Davis.

Reed and Davis asked the Postmaster General to handle such patronage through them after McFadden charged in the House that President Hoover had "sold out" to Germany in [illegible] the one-year moratorium on war debts.

CANNON'S FUND $130,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 —(AP)— The Senate was informed by its special campaign funds investigating committee today that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., collected more than $130,000 in the anti-Smith Democratic campaign of 1928 but reported only $58,558 in accordance with law.

Summarizing its [illegible] inquiry into "handling of money by the bishop," the committee reported this had revealed "numerous apparent violations of the federal corrupt practices act and many unexplained discrepancies" between the bank accounts in which the funds were deposited and the reports made to the clerk of the House. All the money collected, it said, should have been accounted for under the law.

It was this report upon which Bishop Cannon yesterday asked the Senate to withhold judgement until he has had an opportunity to reply. The bishop now is fighting an indictment for violation of the corrupt practices act in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Former Beauty Queen Files Divorce Suit

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22 —(INS)— Myrtle Mahon Morris, formerly Miss Florida, today had on file a suit to divorce Everett Morris, Los Angeles real estate man. Mrs. Morris, a blonde, charged that Morris threatened to ruin her face so that she would be unattractive to other men.

REFUGEES FLEE RISING FLOOD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 22 —(INS)— Swollen by heavy rains, flood waters raged over Northern Mississippi today, driving hundreds from their homes and causing enormous damage to crops and property.

Bursting the banks of the Mississippi and Tallahatchee rivers, the waters swept the streets of six towns, deluged cotton fields and rendered highways impassable.

From refugees, who have been forced to flee to higher ground, came an appeal to the Red Cross to rush aid. Abandoning their homes, the refugees established [illegible] camps for shelter until help arrives.

Unless the steady downpours of the last two weeks cease, additional towns and wider areas are faced with the flood menace. Aviators who were dispatched from Memphis to survey the deluged area returned with accounts of widespread destruction. All of Northern Mississippi, they said, was under water.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 22—Only an intense shock to her shattered nervous system will enable beautiful Virginia Penfield, 19, Columbus (O.) schoolgirl heiress, to lift the mental daze which shrouds four days of her life.

Her physicians expressed this opinion today to her father, Clare J. Penfield, Columbus chain store magnate.

He came here when informed his daughter had been found suffering from a strange collapse, attended by aphasia regarding events since she disappeared from Philadelphia Thursday.

Overstudy was believed both by the father and police to have induced Miss Penfield's odd vanishing. Penfield declared emphatically no love affair was involved.

REMEMBERS LITTLE

Miss Penfield said she remembered nothing after leaving a department store in Philadelphia Thursday, where she said goodbye to a classmate. She ostensibly left to entrain for home.

She arrived here Friday, registering at a hotel as "B. Scott, Chicago."

It was not until yesterday that Dr. Arthur Brown, called when a maid found her ill, recognized the girl, a student at the fashionable Mary Lyons Finishing School, Swarthmore, Pa.

CARRIED VALUABLES

Some time after she was identified as the missing heiress she told Police Inspector Kelly:

"I remember shopping in a Philadelphia store.

"It seems as if I had been riding and riding on railroad trains. I didn't know where I was going. I guess I thought I was going home."

The girl arrived here Friday with two suitcases. She had a considerable sum in cash and jewelry worth many thousands of dollars, as well as several checks drawn on the Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh. Most of her property was found in her hotel room.

Penfield came here from Philadelphia, where he had directed an intensive search for the girl. Overjoyed at finding her safe and, according to the physicians, not seriously ill, but in need of complete rest, he made no immediate attempts to have his daughter supplement the vague account of her experiences.

HAD NO BOY FRIENDS

Penfield declared:

"There was no love affair in the disappearance.

"Virginia never had a boy friend. Of that I am certain. She is of the studious type, so studious that she did not attend social functions at school."

KIDNAPED GIRL FOUND DEAD

sive search for Marian's slayer as soon as the body was reported found.

Discovery of the body resulted as police had theorized—that the girl was abducted by a degenerate and that she never would be found alive.

HUNDREDS IN SEARCH

Discovery of the body came today after 105 firemen had been ordered off their regular duty today to take up the hunt for Marian and the man who kidnaped her.

The firemen were assigned to search every bit of the territory within several blocks of the girl's home and look into every house from basement to attic to find out whether the child was being hidden in the vicinity.

Four thousand Boy Scouts also had entered the hunt, concentrating on vacant buildings and woods.

Before Bischoff found the body, the latest clue had been provided by Mrs. Elizabeth Bischoff, who said a man came to her home Thursday seeking to rent a room for himself and "his little girl." She said the girl did not come to her door and, as she had only an unfurnished room to rent, the man left.

FIRST DAY OUTSIDE

Little Marian, too ill to go to school, had been confined in her fourth floor tenement home for a month until last Thursday when her mother, Mrs. Mildred McLean, permitted Marian to go down to a narrow street for fresh air.

There she played around a doorstep for an hour with her toys and then walked up street half a square to where a friend, Julius Servizzi, 17, was washing his automobile.

Marian watched him polish his car and then broke out into a hearty little laugh when Servizzi's dog jumped onto the clean fenders with muddy paws.

Servizzi said she played about his automobile for some time and then followed a dark complexioned man, whom he described as a foreigner, down an alley. That was the last he saw of her.

Three other small Cincinnati children have disappeared in the past 16 years under circumstances similar to those which surrounded the disappearance of Marian. Only one of their bodies was found and it was mutilated.

Maryland Teachers May Wed, Keep Jobs

SALISBURY, Md., Dec. 22.—(AP)—Because a public school teacher marries during the school semester, provides no legal reason for dismissal or failure of reappointment to her position, the State Board of Education has ruled in decision on an appeal from Wicomico County. The state law, the decision says, provides no grounds for discrimination because of sex or marital status.

bill, but permit it to become a law without his signature.

In view of the Attorney General's opinion the fiscal officers of the state would be unable to use the money without an approving court decision, which might require some time to secure. Thus Gov. Pinchot would put relief squarely up to the Republican organization majority of the Legislature, which has been piloted by State Chairman Edward Martin, who is also State Treasurer, and so responsible for expenditure of the money. It was under Martin's direction that the Pinchot program of prosperity bonds was killed.

HARRIS' DEMAND

Meeting of the Allegheny County delegation follows closely a demand by Senator Frank J. Harris that the Legislature and Governor abandon their conflict over relief, call a conference of political and labor leaders, economists and social workers, and draw up a real program of relief which can be adopted by all political groups. Senator Harris is expected to further outline his plans tomorrow night, and some representatives of other groups also will be present to give their views.

Revision of Prayers Discussed by Rabbis

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 22—(AP)—Revision of parts of the prayer book, the liturgy of the Reformed Synagogues of America, was discussed at a meeting of the committee on liturgy of the Central Conference of American Rabbis here yesterday, but no definite changes were agreed upon.

Members of the committee said revisions in prayers and other parts of the liturgy were being considered to make the ritual conform to modern attitudes of Hebrew worship.

'LEGS' FUNERAL BRINGS JEERS FROM CROWD

Racketeer Buried Without Benefit of Clergy, Widow Follows Shabby Hearse

International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Jack (Legs) Diamond rode to his last resting place today through a cold drizzle without benefit of clergy and with only his widow to mourn. She rode, crying, behind his bedraggled hearse as a ribald, curious crowd of 500 watched with laughter and sneers that the funeral hadn't turned out to be a better "show."

About 11 o'clock this morning the door of the blue-shuttered house in Maspeth, Queens, which is owned by Mrs. Diamond's sister, opened and a plain wooden coffin slid out into the drizzle in the careless hands of six uninterested pall bearers.

The heavily creped widow stepped into a car. A half dozen other friends, mostly of Mrs. Diamond, entered other cabs and the cortege shot away.

There was nothing theatrical about it. Even the funeral arrangements had been bungled and the grave in Mt. Olivet Cemetery wasn't half dug when the body arrived for interment. So the hearse and the mourners waited outside until grumbling gravediggers finished their job.

As the casket was carried in and swiftly lowered into the muddy pit, Only the rain and his widow's tears fell on Diamond's coffin. As the first shovelful of earth fell upon it, Mrs. Diamond called despairingly:

"Good-bye, my boy!"

Slaying of Diamond Traced to N. Y. Gang

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—New York gangsters today were definitely connected with the murder of Jack (Legs) Diamond by means of the 38-caliber gun which was used to fire the bullets through the liquor-soaked brain of the notorious racketeer, according to Albany police.

Authorities received word from New York police that the gun had been stolen from a resident of that city about two months ago. Original ownership of the gun was traced by means of numbers on the weapon, police said. The identity of the original owner of the gun was not disclosed.

A warrant for the arrest of Marion (Kiki) Roberts may be sworn out shortly if she does not return for questioning in connection with the slaying, authorities indicated today. The ex-Follies girl, who had a tryst with Diamond just before he was shot to death, is in hiding in Boston.

VATICAN ROOF FALLS, 1 DEAD

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 22.—(AP)—The roof over a 200-foot wing of the Vatican library, built in 1588, collapsed today and fell through two floors of the building.

An unidentified priest, at work over his books, although the library had been closed a few minutes before, was believed to have been buried in the wreckage, with many rare books and manuscripts.

It was believed most of the unique collection in that wing was damaged, for its items were kept in cases ranged along the walls.

Several persons were injured and several were reported missing.

The main floor of this ancient wing used to be a carriage stable and had been remodeled. The roof fell clear to the main floor, through ceilings decorated with priceless frescoes by Zuccari.

The second floor was given over chiefly to books inscribed by kings and princes as gifts to the Popes. On that floor also was the Chigi collection restored to the Pope by Premier Mussolini.

Slot Machine Trophies Adorn Sleuths' Tree

Racketeers who might be obliged to visit the county detectives' headquarters today, or any day during the holidays, will find a Christmas tree to their liking.

The sleuths, taking a short time out from raids, have decorated a tree not with tinsel, nor electric lights, but with punchboards, whisky flasks and those plum, cherry and orange labels used in slot machines.

All these decorations were seized in raids. In fact, George W. Murren, chief of the detectives, today branded as a canard the rumor that the raids had been made simply so that his detectives would have decorations for the tree.

HOOVER GOES SHOPPING FOR GIFTS TO GRANDCHILDREN

SON'S FAMILY 'HOME' FOR CHRISTMAS

President Drops Cares as Joyous Peggy Ann and Peter Troop Into Mansion

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Dropping presidential cares, Herbert Hoover this afternoon went down into the capital's crowded shopping district to buy Christmas toys for his grandchildren, little Peggy Ann and Peter Hoover.

The President's temporary abandonment of the White House to do his Christmas shopping was unexpected. By custom, Presidents usually have what they wish to buy laid before them for selection.

Only a few knew of Mr. Hoover's shopping trip in advance. He went to F street, Washington's nearest approach to Broadway, unnoticed at first by many in the crowds. The impromptu journey was conducted with as little display as possible.

COLD, RAINY DAY

A cold, misty day and heavy rain failed to dampen the warmth of the greeting he gave his grandchildren this morning. Nor had it prevented Mrs. Hoover from giving an equally loyal and affectionate welcome at Union Station to her son, Herbert, Jr., his wife and the two children when they arrived on an early morning train from the West.

"Hello, Granddaddy."

With this greeting, Peggy Ann, 7, rushed on to the White House portico, and her cry was echoed by Peter.

Trooping into the White House all in a group, the President and First Lady and their son and grandchildren exchanged more greetings inside.

Then the entire party romped from the White House proper to the President's office, with Peggy Ann and Peter clinging to their grandfather's hands as they walked—long a custom of the three.

BREAKFASTS WITH ALLAN

The chief executive had eaten breakfast earlier with the younger Hoover son, Allan, who arrived late last night after a part flying, part train trip from Los Angeles. The President walked back to the White House with them all and joined in the conversation while the rest of the family ate.

With Boris, the President's valet and their grown-up playmate, as a guide Peggy Ann and Peter made a friendly, smiling tour of the White House grounds. They shook hands very politely with the police captain who guards the executive office door, made the rounds of secret service men and came into the press room for a handshake and greeting with every newspaperman.

They then trooped out again, accompanied by "Weejie," one of the White House dogs, a friendly Norwegian elkhound.

KIDNAPING LAID TO AMATEURS

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The kidnaping of Nell Donnelly, millionaire garment manufacturer, who was freed without payment of ransom last week, was described as the work of amateurs by police today as they sought the alleged principals—a steam shovel operator and a local bootlegger.

Marshall De Pew, the steam shovel operator, was named as the originator of the plot by Paul Scheidt and Lacy Browning, two Kansas dairymen who admitted furnishing the cottage near Bonner Springs, Kan., in which Mrs. Donnelly was held.

Scheidt and Browning were traced by laundry marks on a towel used to blindfold the woman victim.

He forgot about it, opened the door himself, and was wounded in the leg.

AUTO RIDDLED, GUN GANG SOUGHT

Sam De Angelo Escapes North Side Bullets, Which Pierce Windshield; Face Cut

Assassins sent a shower of deadly bullets ripping through the auto of Sam De Angelo, 25, North Side man, as he drove down Rialto street near the Thirtieth Street Bridge early today.

The bullets whizzed perilously close to De Angelo's head, but none hit him. Two shattered the windshield glass, two ripped through the auto's side and a fifth bore through the roof.

CUT ON FACE

Bits of metal and flying glass cut De Angelo's face. He told police:

"The attack came from the rear. I saw the machine drawing up behind me, but took no notice of it until its occupants began to fire. I sped away as the bullets whizzed over my head. I can't account for the attack—I have no enemies."

De Angelo's wounds were treated at Allegheny General Hospital. They are not serious.

Police, who said De Angelo is known to them, said a year ago he was robbed of $600 by two men who held up his establishment in East Ohio street. The bandits, captured a short time later, are serving prison sentences.

WOMAN SUSPECT

Capt. Anthony Block and police, cruising the North Side for the killer gang, made five arrests—one woman, four men—in Liedertafel Hall, Troy Hill, but in North Side Police Court today it was admitted the prisoners had no connection with the attempted murder.

Block testified he invaded the club because the radiator of an auto parked outside was warm. Inside he told of finding the occupants drinking beer.

One, Fritz Roehler, North Side politician, was found with a loaded revolver. Magistrate Ray Schneider held him for court. Fred Schall, 45, of Ley street, was fined $50 as the keeper of a disorderly house. The other three were discharged—Marie Stahl, 21, Lowrie street; Mike Raimondi, 26, Lowrie street, and Frank Paul, 35, Mt. Troy road.

WOMAN ARMS DELEGATE SEEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Ambassador Dawes will head the United States delegation to the Geneva arms conference, President Hoover announced today that Henry P. Fletcher had been unable to accept the post.

The President expects to appoint a woman to the delegation and said he is negotiating with "a lady of fine qualities and prominence" as to whether she can accept. He added:

"The whole question of disarmament has been one of profound interest to the women of the United States."

It had been expected in some quarters that Secretary Stimson would lead the American representation, but the Ambassodar to Great Britain was chosen instead. One of the delegates will be Senator Swanson, of Virginia.

ANDRE TO TELL OF FATAL RIDE

RENO, Nev., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—The fatal automobile ride that ended in the mysterious death of a pretty eastern girl who followed her sweetheart across the continent to Reno was to be described today at the Andre murder trial.

The dramatic story was to be told by Dr. Carl Pierre Andre, young dentist of Fairmont, W. Va., fighting to save himself from execution in Nevada's lethal gas chamber as the murderer of his discarded fiancee, Martha Hutchinson, 22-year-old widow.

Dr. Andre again took the witness chair yesterday in Judge Thomas F. Moran's court, saying:

"I changed my mind about marrying Martha when I learned her mother was in an asylum."

The prosecution contends he tired of Mrs. Hutchinson because he was interested in a young Reno stenographer.

Collier Yacht Sinks At Shipyard Dock

FORT MYERS, Fla., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Barron Collier's yacht, the Baroness, sank at her dock in the Punta Blanca shipyards at Boca Grande from an undetermined cause, it was learned here today. The Baroness, which had recently come off the ways after being conditioned for use this winter by the New York advertising magnate, went down in 10 feet of water.

The Punta Blanca home of A. R. Benson, in charge of the shipyard, was destroyed by fire last night in his absence.

EXPLOSIVE SENT MARION DAVIES BEING TRACED

Wide Hunt on for Suspected Maniac Sender of Infernal Device Wrapped as Gift

(Universal Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Federal inspectors and deputy sheriffs moved quickly last night to effect the capture of the supposed maniac who dispatched an infernal machine to Miss Marion Davies, film star, in the form of a Christmas package.

The sinister contraption, wrapped in bright green paper, reached the famous actress' Santa Monica home through the mails last Thursday. It was addressed personally to Miss Davies.

But the package was not opened until Sunday, in the usual course of his duties, by S. J. May, butler at the Davies home. There were two boxes, one placed within the other, he found.

On the top of the first box, an oblong piece of paper had been pasted, bearing this typewritten message:

"PLEASE NO BODY ELSE PERSONAL TO MARY PLEASE."

Inside the first cardboard container May found a second pasteboard box in which a makeshift key had been inserted. The butler turned the key, and almost immediately a puff of smoke billowed out from the mysterious box.

Thereupon May summoned Santa Monica police who in turn communicated with Capt. Norris Stensland and Capt. Frank de War of the Sheriff's office. They opened the box, after soaking it in water for some time, and found it to be a cunningly constructed bomb, fashioned of gunpowder, slugs and matches.

The key in the box they found was in reality a stiff rod leading to a wooden spool studded with match heads. At the bottom of the spool, a small piece of sandpaper had been placed so that when the key was turned the spool likewise would revolve, igniting the match heads on the rough paper on the bottom.

SLUGS IN POWDER

Three pouches of black smokeless gunpowder, each containing from 20 to 30 leaden slugs apparently extracted from .22-caliber cartridges, had been placed about the spool and the matches so that they would explode when the matches ignited.

Absence of oxygen in the box was all that prevented a blinding explosion, with possible serious injury to the butler when he attempted to open the package, Capt. Stensland said. The lack of air extinguished the matches before the flame could reach the powder pellets.

Immediately after discovering the nature of the package Capt. Stensland raced out to Malibu Beach to check on the return address on the contraption, but found no such location.

BUTLER SLAYER ON TRIAL SOON

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The law moved today to bring Gentro Akiyama, 38-year-old Japanese butler, and his sister-in-law, Sadako Otsuka, 26, to an early trial for the killing of J. William Schatz, their wealthy employer.

District Attorney John Schwartz said he would ask an early date next month for the trial and would present the evidence to the grand jury as soon as it meets on January 4.

Mrs. Florence Quick Carozza, 26, Schatz's house guest, saved only by the arrival of police at the Schatz mansion, is reported recovering from hatchet and knife wounds, which Akiyama admitted inflicting after dispatching the rich manufacturer in a furious encounter that began in the manufacturer's bed chamber on the second floor and ended in the basement when Schatz was almost decapitated.

DAMAGING SETS HURT LENZ IN BRIDGE WAR

Culbertson, With Baron as Partner, Runs Lead Up to 11,120; Little Slam Helps

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Heavy sets and a climactic little slam, involving brilliant elimination and end play, were largely responsible for Ely Culbertson's side being 11,120 points ahead today in its 150-rubber contract bridge match with Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby.

Culbertson and his partner of a night, Waldemar Von Zedtwitz, added 3,025 points to Culbertson's plus, winning four of the six rubbers of the tenth session, and making the rubbers stand 5-3 for Culbertson's side to 31 for the opposition.

The baron—timid smile, brown necktie, few words—was ready to play on time, but inasmuch as he was of nobility, there were those who felt certain social amenities should be carried out.

MEETS PEGGY'S "EX"

Those who did took him in tow and steered him about for introductions, while the veteran Lenz waited at the bridge table and shouted:

"Come, come on, come on, let's get going!"

The baron was almost back at the bridge table when the word went down the hall that he had not yet met the count. The count was Gosta Morner, of Sweden, former husband of Peggy Joyce, and more lately wedded to one of the girl reporters covering the match.

Lenz bounced a deck of cards on the bridge table, leaped into the air, shouted:

"I'll be back in 15 minutes!"

The baron came running. He said, breathlessly:

"Call me 'mister'."

Culbertson exclaimed:

"Come, Sidney, the baron is here—and, by the way, Sidney, I know now why you are a bachelor, you could never wait for a wife."

Lenz sank his chin into his vest, Baron Von Zedtwitz smiled his timid smile, Culbertson wrapped his feet about the chair legs.

Sometime in the session Lenz made a contract. He said:

"Heh! heh!"

Culbertson told reporters:

"Dear old Sidney, He's taking it on the chin like a man."

The Culbertson lead exceeds by 4,090 points the largest plus Lenz and Jacoby ever had. That plus was 7,020, and it came after the first hand of rubber 28.

Six rubbers short of the half way mark of the match, Culbertson, with three different partners, has accumulated a total of 62,380 points as compared with 51,260 for Lenz and Jacoby.

Never was Culbertson so enthusiastic about the merits of his system. With the exception of two failures to essay little slam, one of them being questionable because of a part score, he and the baron usually bid all possible.

Lenz had little comment to make on the session except to point out that he had suffered heavily by a mistake of his own, though saving points through mistakes of his opponents, referring to two failures to contract for slams.

EXCEPTIONAL LOSSES

By his own mistake he meant his first psychic bid of the match which caused him to be set five doubled and vulnerable and lose 1,800 points. Such a loss is quite exceptional among high ranking players in tournaments. It came in rubber 65, the second of the sessions, in which four sets cost Lenz and Jacoby 2,300 points.

Dry's Auto Kills Woman in Pursuit

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Alma Jeffcoat, 43, of New Brookland, was struck and killed near her home last night by an automobile driven by S. S. Slish, of Columbia, a federal prohibition agent. Slish said he was chasing a rum-running suspect when the accident occured.

Slish at first taken to the Columbia police headquarters, later was placed in jail at Lexington pending an inquest.

Poison Drink Kills Woman and 2 Men

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Three deaths occurred here yesterday from what police said was drinking of denatured alcohol. The victims were John P. O'Donnell, 42, Mrs. Ellen T. Adams, 69, and Neal Bolan, 40.

FIFTH AVENUE TRADE MARK REGISTERED BRAND TURKEY DeLUXE
for a Royal Christmas Dinner

Of all the dinners in the year, your Christmas dinner is the most important. And—to give your guests and your family the utmost enjoyment—the crowning masterpiece of that dinner should be a Fifth Avenue Turkey De Luxe.

Fifth Avenue Turkeys DeLuxe Are Hand-picked By Experts From the Cream of the Flocks of 60,000 Farmers In the Great Northwest

Fifth Avenue Turkeys De Luxe are prime, young, fresh birds—raised, fed, dressed, packed and shipped according to the newest scientific methods.

Fifth Avenue Turkeys De Luxe all come from the cold Northwest, where the finest birds are raised. Cold weather drives the turkeys indoors early and scientific feeding in restricted quarters gives Fifth Avenue Turkeys De Luxe a plumpness and tenderness that is rare indeed. Their flavor cannot be equalled!

Make up your mind right now that you're going to have the finest Christmas Turkey you've ever tasted at an amazingly low price.

SENATE ASKED TO AMEND DEBT PLAN

unchallenged. He warned the listening chamber that Hoover's pre-congressional acceptance of the moratorium was the first step toward dictatorship, he said.

"You may believe you have in the White House the greatest man who ever sat there, that he speaks from on high and that everything he says is sacred.

"I don't care to discuss that here. But I say that when a man seeks to put through a burden of taxation on the people that is not theirs solely for the relief of Europe, then I say he violates the spirit of the Constitution.

"When he legislates without Congress, as he has done, then you have taken the first step the international bankers want you to take.

"You have taken the first step to dictatorship. You have taken the first step that leads away from constitutional government and made of that venerated document a mere scrap of paper.

FRANCE'S DESIGN

Continuing, Johnson said Premier Hoover received a draft on the moratorium with Pierre and the allies with the understanding Congress into session to accept it.

"The crisis was too urgent to call Congress, poor miserable Congress, which only represents the people.

"The crisis was too urgent to inform the people about what was going on. But the President could act, not as he proposed, but as France insisted he should."

Johnson asked the recession of the Versailles treaty to give back all the spoils of war if you want peace over there.

NEW POLICY URGED

The Californian suggested a new policy for the Hoover administration. He proposed that America demand payment as usual and put the screw up to the debtor nations. He said:

"There is only one way to deal with this. Stand firm and let any nation that desires default."

As Johnson left, Senator Gore (Dem., Oklahoma) suggested that the benefit of the cost of the moratorium would be to make the world safe for democracy. Johnson replied:

"I think what the Senator means is that when the Republican party does this it means this country is safe for democracy."

Laughter and applause.

Johnson quit after speaking for more than two hours. As he took his seat, Senator Dill (Dem., Washington) offered an amendment to bar any further postponement of the war debts after the year's holiday as well as to prohibit reduction of the debts.

A scathing denunciation of the moratorium by Senator Johnson yesterday served to pave the way to possible reservations. His charge that France, England and Germany were ready now to ask a two-year extension of the moratorium, preparatory to a scaling down of the debts, destroyed all enthusiasm for the President's one-year plan.

RATIFICATION SEEN

The moratorium may be ratified under pressure before the Christmas recess. If it is, it will be due solely to the personal pledges of support secured by the President last June. This method, incidentally, was denounced as illegal and unconstitutional by critics of the moratorium.

The opposition sponsored a stream of reservations. The prospects sank after Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah), Finance Committee chairman, delivered a three-minute explanation of the postponement, which carried little defense of the President's action.

The reservations on which the Senate must vote were written chiefly to protect American taxpayers. One by McKellar (Dem., Tennessee) would put Congress on record as opposed to any extension of the moratorium. Another by Gore (Dem., Oklahoma) would limit the moratorium to 80 per cent of the debts and provide for collection of the other 20 per cent to be used in financing unemployment relief.

Another reservation by Senator Howell (Rep., Nebraska) would condition the moratorium upon a modification of the Versailles treaty and restoration of her seized colonies to Germany.

Stolen Wood Used To Repair House In Lieu of Rent

In Morals Court today Walter Dunkowski, 26, of 1226 Warner street, told why he stole some $80 worth of lumber and supplies from George A. Cochrane's lumber yard at 1220 Columbus avenue, North Side.

Dunkowski said his mother-in-law told him he could live in a house owned by her if he made certain repairs. Thus the lumber.

Cochrane, willing Dunkowski and a brother-in-law, James Rudolph, 19, who helped to take the lumber, were dismissed with $1 fines by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones. The lumber was returned.

YOUNG EXPERTS DRAFT REPORT

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 22.—A drafting formula was drawn up today outlining the report the Young plan advisory committee will make public tomorrow as a result of its study of Germany's capacity to pay.

The formula showed certainly that the committee's conclusions reached after two weeks' work will be in a form of a compromise and they will not contain an effective recommendation.

The formula drawn by Sir Walter Layton of Great Britain, De Cail Melchior of Germany and Charles Rist of France will simply report Germany's present incapacity to pay and recommend a moratorium, dodging the question of the length of the moratorium.

Whether the final report will remain within the confines of the Young plan and whether priority should be given to reparations or Germany's short term obligations were other issues left untouched in the formula.

HUNGARY HALTS DEBT PAYMENTS

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Hungarian government tonight declared a transfer moratorium on foreign debts effective tomorrow.

Minister Friedrich Koranyi issued a decree announcing that the available foreign currencies in Hungary would be used first for service on the 1924 reconstruction loan, amounting roughly to $4,000,000, and then if any remained—for payment of other debts.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP).—A moratorium on foreign debts by Hungary had been anticipated in Wall street international banking circles. Wall street bankers understood that it had become necessary through lack of foreign currencies with which to make the payments, and expressed the belief that it would be temporary.

Mooney Seeks Aid Of Gov. Roosevelt

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—(AP).—A letter written by Tom Mooney, convicted Preparedness Day bomber, who is in San Quentin Prison serving a life sentence for the crime, has been sent to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, it was learned today.

The letter contained a lengthy plea to Gov. Roosevelt, asking him to use his influence in obtaining a pardon for Mooney.

3 Drown as Auto Breaks Through Ice

IRONWOOD, Mich., Dec. 22.—(AP).—Three men drowned late yesterday when an automobile in which they attempted to cross Lake Gogebic broke through the ice. The missing are William Lioma, 36, Arthur Salmela and Sam Maki, all of Wakefield, Mich.

Their automobile, a coupe, sank about a mile and a half from shore.

800 Garages Fail Auto Inspection Test

About 800 garages and automobile repair shops in Allegheny County which applied for appointment as 1932 official motor vehicle inspection stations have received notices from Harrisburg that they are not properly equipped to do the work, the Pittsburgh Motor Club has announced.

U. S. Captives Here Ordered to Prisons

United States Marshal J. C. McGregor has received instructions from the director of federal prisons at Washington to remove nine government prisoners, now in county jail, to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., and the United States Reformatory at Petersburg, Va., instead of the Atlanta Penitentiary.

Coke Region Mines To Play Santa Claus

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP).—Two corporations will play Santa Claus to thousands of poor children in this district Christmas day. The Union Supply Company, a subsidiary of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, will distribute approximately 70,000 bags of candy to the children living in the vicinity of Frick plants. The Rainey Supply Company will distribute between 4,000 and 5,000 pounds of candy.

Queen Marie Home, Carol Goes Hunting

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 22.—(AP).—The dowager Queen Marie came home yesterday for the holidays accompanied by the Archduke Anton, his wife Princess Ileana, and the Princess Irma Hohenlohe Langenburg, Marie's niece.

Queen Elizabeth of Greece met them, but Prince Nicholas was absent. King Carol and the Crown Prince Michael were off on a hunting expedition.

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Pattern 2119

By ANNE ADAMS

Anyone could make this darling dress in a few hours, and there may be bits of fabric in the house that will go together nicely, since the yoke and hem are contrasting. The dainty sleeve capelets are cut in one with the pointed yoke, the dress slightly gathered for grace and extra fullness. Two colors or plain and printed silk or cotton will be most effective. Bloomers are included.

Pattern 2119 is obtainable only in sizes 2, 4, 6, 8. Size 4 requires 1 yard plain and 1⅝ yards contrasting 36-inch fabric.

Transfer Pattern 704, which consists of a bunny and a dog, which may be made of toweling and stuffed, is 15 cents additional. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

Send for the WINTER CATALOG. It features the newest in afternoon, sports and house dresses, lingerie, pajamas and kiddies' clothes. Also delightful gift suggestions in accessory and transfer patterns. PRICE OF CATALOG, 15 CENTS. CATALOG WITH PATTERN, 25 CENTS. Address all mail and orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

MISSION NEEDS MORE TOYS

With approximately 3,000 children still to be remembered, the supply of toys at the Toy Mission, Market street near Third avenue, is virtually exhausted, George I. Bonds, head of the mission today announced. Toys of every description, for both boys and girls of all ages are needed, Mr. Bond said.

In previous years the Toy Mission cared for approximately 16,000 children but this year the number was increased to 20,000. Each night, for the last several weeks, Mr. Bond and his workers have prepared parcels for delivery and now there still remains 3,000 children to be cared for.

Cuticura Healed Large Pimples on Face. Very Annoying.

"The trouble began with a breaking out of pimples and blackheads on my face. The pimples were very large and festered. They were very annoying because of the unsightly blemishes, and at times were very sore. My trouble lasted about two years.

"I tried other remedies without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and noticed a great improvement in about a month. I continued using them and in two months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Rose E. Berger, 1007 N. Adams St., Wilmington, Del., March 23, 1931

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

"TALK about your ironical tales," writes Milt Sussman. "How about this one?

"A few days ago I listened for some two hours to the Marconi celebration through the courtesy of N. B. C. After having traveled via radio to distant lands in so short a time I felt terribly insignificant. Still, it made me think how wonderful it was to be alive in an age when such a marvelous phenomenon was possible.

"After turning off the radio, I went out for a short stroll. The first man I met was a panhandler, who touched me for a few cents. His sob story was that he was a radio salesman who was out of work! . . .

AMONG the amazing stories now going the rounds is the tale of an ex-Follies queen who still retains her share of looks. The girl was in the Follies about 10 years ago and was one of the most sought-after damsels of her day.

She commenced to put on weight. She was told to cut out the fattening foods, but she liked the stuff too well. As a result she grew too stout for the Ziegfeldian eyes and was finally given the gate. The Ziegfeld office told her to return when she had lost the necessary poundage and she would be given a job once again.

The girl failed to heed the handwriting on the menu. Instead of reducing, she kept eating.

Today, although still fairly young and still very attractive, she is playing the sticks in a freak vaudeville act consisting of five fat women. Weighing some 300 pounds, she gets her laughs as she waddles around. It must be pretty tough on a gal whom the men chased madly but a few years ago.

Boy, get me five copies of the Gladys Glad Reduction Booklet . . .

ONE OF the most brilliant playwrights ran into difficulties with a play of his not so long ago. The play censor in a town that is not so many hundreds of miles from New York found plenty to object to in the manuscript. As a result, the play was cut—and virtually ruined.

The play had run successfully in New York without any trouble, and the author was anxious to find out what kind of a mind this censor had that made him find the offering objectionable. He went to the town in question and made it his business to interview the censor.

The playwright and the censor sat together for an hour. The censor, in highly moral tones, explained that the play was not fit to be witnessed by clean-thinking minds. He said that his community was not one that would stand for dirt of any sort and that he was there to see that the public's morals were not corrupted.

Seeing that there was nothing more to be gained, the playwright arose to take his departure. Whereupon the censor accompanied him to the door and, prefacing his remarks with "have you heard this one?" told him two shady stories! . . .

CREDIT Barney King with the story of the Los Angeles scenario writer who started out one early evening to get ginned to the gills. He succeeded admirably.

It was only 11 o'clock at night when the writer didn't know whether Norma Shearer was an actress or a Nat Lewis necktie. He hopped into a taxi and told the driver to take him somewhere. After driving for an hour, the driver wanted his fare. Whereupon the writer began an argument.

So vociferously did he argue that the driver decided to end it. He shut the stew in his cab and drove to the nearest station house. Arriving there, the sergeant took one look at the writer and came to the conclusion that he would be better off if he slept in a cell the rest of the night.

Asked for his name, the stew gave it and added as an afterthought that he was a writer.

"Writer, eh?" growled the sergeant. "Well, we'll see about that. Search him, officer."

The officer dutifully went through the drunk's pockets.

"He's got a pencil, sarge," reported the policeman.

"Yeah?" said the sergeant. "And what else?"

"Two cents," was the abrupt response.

The sergeant nodded with satisfaction.

"Then he's a writer, all right," he chirped. "Look him up!" . . .

MURRAY DEFIES FOES IN REBUKE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—"Alfalfa Bill" Murray has let Oklahoma know that he isn't through fighting.

Seeing a "united militant following" behind last week's special election returns, in spite of the defeat of all his reform bills, the Governor announced yesterday there still was time for "economy in government and an adjustment of taxes." He said:

"I shall drive straight ahead, giving my best service to the state. I shall not compromise or extenuate, holding my position when even my strength is gone and naught left but the will to hold on.

"I am at ease with my own conscience, conscious of a duty earnestly performed and I dare that corrupt combination to do their worst. They threatened impeachment, but that holds no terror for me."

Ambassador 'Plot' Jealousy of Maid

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—What appeared to be an attempt to injure United States Ambassador Frederic Sackett was cleared up today as a mere act of jealousy by a vengeful housemaid when the police arrested Ida Zech, and she confessed.

The Zech girl hurled a stone through the ambassador's car, smashing a window, but the automobile was unoccupied except by the chauffeur. She explained she tried to hit the chauffeur because he had ceased to pay her attentions.

UNION HEAD FOR 5-DAY WEEK

CLEVELAND, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The six-hour day, five-day week and wages sufficient to permit workers to be useful consumers will be the platform of A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in the coming railroad wage negotiations.

Whitney gave the first complete exposition of his views in a statement prepared today for publication in the brotherhood's magazine.

The president of this large brotherhood blamed business stagnation and unemployment suffering, in large part, upon "overconcentration of wealth." He added:

"Relief can come only from a re-vitalization of mass consuming power, and this can never be accomplished by cutting wages. To give new life to mass consumption it will be necessary to put every worker to work at a wage which will give him an income sufficient to purchase from the flow of goods which our production system has been geared up to produce, and which has been dammed up for nearly two years by an almost unbelievable concentration of wealth which has made it impossible for millions of our citizens to buy even the barest necessities of life."

Shamrock V Sold By Lipton Trustees

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—The executors of the estate of the late Sir Thomas Lipton today sold the famous yachtsman's last international racing craft, the Shamrock V, to Tom Sopwith, well known sportsman.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Is Jealousy a Sign of Love Or Just Cussedness?

Why is jealousy? Is it the proof of a great, big, beautiful love? And should the beloved one respect it; be grateful for it; do just as it dictates?

Or is jealousy maybe not such a treat? Is it, perhaps, just one of the 57 varieties of common cussedness. And does a jealous lover deserve a swift kick in the shin, instead of a string of medals?

Helen's wondering. She has a big boy who is that way, and for three long years Helen has had just about as much life, liberty and pursuit of happiness as a trained flea. Now the wedding bells draw near, but—

They sound more like a dirge than a carol to poor Helen! As well they may!

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I'm asking you—and I hope you'll help me—what would you do in a case like mine?

"For three years now I have been going steady with one young man, Jim. We are engaged, and have been intending to get married in the near future.

"But Jim is terribly jealous of me. When I even want to visit my girl friends, he gets sore. He claims he thinks I am going out with some other fellow, and he insists that he has to go with me, or else call for me at a certain time.

This always gets my goat and makes me feel like a baby, because often we girls would like to go somewhere—to a show, or to see someone we know, or something like that—and I always have to be back at a certain time or he will be angry, and then there is an argument.

NO REASON FOR JEALOUSY

"If I happen to meet an old boy friend on the street and stop to talk to him, Jim makes a fuss. He thinks I am making a date with him, when nothing is farther from my mind.

"Do you think he really does love me when he can't trust me any more than that? I don't go around suspecting him of trying to two-time me. Why should I be suspected all the time?

"Do you know of any method by which I could cure him of his foolish suspicions and jealousy? He really has nothing to be jealous of, and I would be so happy if he would get over it because he makes me miserable. Please help me. I need it, and I will be thankful for any suggestions you can give me. "HELEN."

Why should he suspect you, when there is no reason?

Jealousy doesn't need a reason, honey. It's a sort of disease, that exists in the mind of the jealous person himself and, no matter how straight you may walk, it will be there anyway unless he can be made to see how silly and vicious it is.

For jealousy is silly and vicious. And it will kill love—the very love the jealous man is trying to corral faster than anything else on earth.

CAUSED BY FEAR

Jealousy comes from just plain, onery fear. Your Jim is jealous because he fears that he isn't really so much himself—that he isn't really registering in a big way. And that fear makes him further afraid—afraid you'll compare him, to his discredit, with someone else—afraid to meet competition, fair and square.

So instead of making himself more agreeable, he nags and tries to keep you away from other people and make himself generally disagreeable.

But you mustn't let him get away with it. You mustn't marry him so long as he won't trust you. If you did, your marriage would be a nightmare and your "love" a mockery. You must have it out with him now.

Tell him gently, but firmly, that if he can't trust you as a decent woman deserves to be trusted, you're through. That you can't stand his suspicion, and won't stand it. That unless he is willing to have the same confidence in you that you have in him, you can't go on loving him.

And then stick to your guns! Don't let him get away with the excuse that he's "jealous because he loves you so much." He isn't. He's jealous because he's scared, and jealousy is mighty bad medicine for any marriage.

Most Difficult Thing for Most Persons to Do Is to Do Nothing—Fay King

By FAY KING

The most difficult thing for most persons to do is to do nothing!

At so many times the wisest, best and most helpful thing they can possibly do is just that—nothing!

But, no! They try to adjust a quarrel by sitting down and writing a 10-page letter of indignation, wounded pride or bombastic outburst.

Or they will lose their temper and never are they so eloquent as when they are expressing themselves in contrary or cruel manner.

And every word written or spoken at such a time is going to be a regret and no matter how sorry one may be afterward, it will never be completely forgotten.

Write your letters! Practice your speeches! But don't say them!

Mary Accepts Veiled Challenge of Avis Arlen

That coaxing, babyish soprano call, "No-el! come talk to Avis," was like a stone thrown into a pool. One could see the eddies it caused in every direction.

I saw Mrs. Arlen stop abruptly in the middle of a sentence, and look not toward her daughter from whose throat had come the cooing sugary appeal, but toward Noel. There was suspense in that look, and I realized how strong was the wish of Avis Arlen's mother to separate Noel from Mary and join his life to that of her daughter. That the strongest factor in her determination was her patent predilection for Noel's father, I was sure.

Philip Veritzen himself was too old and experienced in social emergencies to betray the interest which Mrs. Arlen had evinced; but I was sure that he was giving but half attention to Lillian's badinage, and had the other half firmly focused upon his son in doubt as to his actions and reactions.

Lillian, Harry and Dicky—I knew that they must have heard the call. There was nothing surreptitious about it. Avis Arlen meant everyone to hear it, and to catch the implication it conveyed, of a close friendship with Noel which practically amounted to ownership of him. But not one of the three gave the young woman's effort the tribute of even a lifted eyelash.

It was but a flashing glance I gave the group of which Philip Veritzen was the center. Then I turned to Noel, who had stopped short, as if someone had flicked him with a whip. He did not look directly at either girl, but his rapidly crimsoning face was turned toward Mary, and I knew that his eyes were furtively searching her face.

I knew in that minute, and so I am sure, did Mary, that there had been moments in that long summer vacation companionship so adroitly sponsored by his father, when Noel had listened complacently, if not eagerly, to that cooing summons, and while not considering himself "out of love" with Mary, or "in love" with the other girl, he had basked, as most absent lovers do, in the smiles of the girl nearest at hand. But I also did him the justice of believing that he had not been the aggressor in this vacation idyll, as I had no doubt Mrs. Arlen termed it. I knew Avis Arlen's type. Her name should have ended with "a" instead of an "s." But it was attention she craved, not love. Indeed I doubted if she were capable of any honest emotion. Vanity, the desire for admiration, a craving to be desired, a malicious determination to permit no other girl to receive any tribute of admiration while she was in the offing,—these were the emotions which were masked by her child-like smile and her caressing manner.

What would Noel do?

With a gay little laugh which would have convinced any man, and most women, that she saw only amusement in the situation, she caught Noel by the arm.

"Don't you hear the songbirds callin'?" she sang, brilliant eyes laughing maliciously at him. "Where's yoh mannahs, boy? Has I got toh put 'em on yoh ev'ry time? I thought yoh'd learn bettah. Ah tuhned yoh loose dis summer, but yoh's jest as bad as ev'ah. Come along now, and find out what de pretty lady wants toh talk toh yoh erbout."

Her voice was audible in every corner of the room, and I wondered if underneath Avis Arlen's set little smile there was not the desire for murder. She would have to be an absolute moron not to recognize the challenge in Mary's voice, a challenge so tinged with patronage, and amused recognition of the trick Miss Arlen was trying to turn as to be absolutely maddening.

"Here, little cat," Mary was saying in effect. "If you want to play with this mouse awhile, I'm perfectly willing. But don't you let me see any claw marks on him when I take him back, as I can, and shall, when I get around to it, and have nothing else to do."

She was fairly dancing across the room with Noel perforce following her step—he could do nothing else, she had him so firmly clasped by the arm.

"You're Avis Arlen, aren't you?" Mary said, ignoring Noel's mumbled introduction, and holding out a cordial hand to the other girl. "Welcome to our classic halls. I feel as if I knew you from Noel's letters. You're the lass who loves poetry read in sylvan dales, aren't you?"

"Oh! I adore poetry!" Miss Arlen said, simpering sweetly, and clasping her hands prettily. "What are your favorite poets? Mine are Shakespere, Byron and Walt Whitman. Noel's been reading to me out of Whitman. It has taught me so much."

She sent a soulful look at Noel as she voiced her literary creed, and I fairly held my breath to hear what Mary's retort would be.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Immediate Attention to Burns Highly Important

Burns are the most common of all household accidents. An astonishing number of burns is recorded every day by all the hospitals of the cities.

Dr. Copeland

Burns are usually due to carelessness and negligence. Failure to see that electrical household equipment is in proper working order is another important factor. Most burns could be avoided and many bad scars and deformities prevented by a little precaution.

There are many causes for burns. Moist or dry heat, electricity and chemicals are among the most common. The spilling of hot coffee or water, the spattering of boiling fat, short circuits from irons, toasters and percolators, are responsible for many burns. Most of them are from avoidable causes.

The immediate treatment of every burn is of the greatest importance. Many an individual who has been severely burned carries a scar for the rest of his life, because he has failed to get treatment. This is unfortunate, because early treatment would have prevented the scar.

If the burn is severe enough, there may be complete destruction of the skin and of the tissues underneath the skin. It may even produce charring of the underlying structures. The seriousness of the burn depends upon the location of the burn and the age of the patient.

Burns, particularly in children, are far more serious than most people believe. They are very bad if the face and hands are extensively involved. In these locations they require more careful attention, because of the greater danger of infection and of disfiguring scars.

I cannot stress too vigorously the fact that every burn requires careful and immediate attention. Call your doctor if the burn seems the least bit serious.

Cleanse the surrounding skin as carefully as possible with soap and water. If the skin is not broken, pat it dry with a soft cloth. Spread thick layers of unguentine or other healing salve over the affected area. The bandages and home medication are used only until the doctor arrives. Pieces of clean gauze or muslin spread with the salve may be laid over the affected area. This will keep out the dirt and air.

If the burned area is covered by clothing, very great care must be used. Be sure there is no smouldering piece of cloth in contact with the skin. Then as quickly as possible remove the clothes. This should be done by cutting the clothing on each side of the burned area and taking it off in sections. After this apply the salve and await the doctor's arrival.

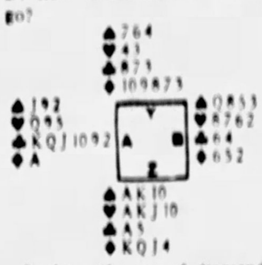
Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

What Is Z's Opening Bid?

Before reading what follows the hand given below, make Z's proper opening bid and the subsequent contracting of both Y and Z. How would bidding go in case the hands of A and Y were to be exchanged? Restore A's hand to him as dealt, then exchange the holdings of Y and B; how would normal bidding go?



Lacking the ace of diamonds, with clubs stopped only once, and having two four card suits, Z's best opening bid is 3-Hearts—not some number of No-Trumps—under the regular bidding of The Official System.

Lacking a quick trick or a biddable suit, Y must bid 3-No-Trumps, to which Z must respond with 4-Diamonds, which Y will raise to 5-Diamonds. Game will result if Z lays down two rounds of hearts and trumps the third round in dummy as Z's fourth heart will enable Y to discard his losing spade. Only one club trick and one diamond trick will be lost.

Supposing Y to hold A's cards, Y will overcall 3-Hearts with 4-Clubs; Z will shift to 4-No Trumps; Y will bid 5-Hearts, which Z will shift to 5-No Trumps; Y will then bid 6-Diamonds, merely to show the ace of tha suit; which will enable Z to bid and make 7-No Trumps. Should Z mistake Y's bid of diamonds as indicating a desire to play the hand at that make, Y will shift his partner back to No-Trumps. There is no danger in showing an ace so late in the bidding.

With the original cards of B and Y interchanged, Z's opening bid of 3-Hearts will at once be made 4-Hearts by B, upon his four cards of partner's suit. As Y does not jump the declaration Z should not do so, knowing that the Official System obligates assisting an opening bid of three upon four small trumps, without any side strength. Five-odd can be made by winning the opening club lead, laying down two top hearts, followed by four rounds of spades; upon the fourth lead of spades Z will discard his last club, allowing A to trump the trick if he wishes, after which Y-Z need lose only one diamond trick.

Soon I will give another method of contracting this same hand under optional employment of the 2-Clu's Convention.

That New Jersey courts will absolutely refuse to accept any legal document — which anything but black type is used.

That the Bayonne Bridge in Jersey, which cost $15,000,000 to build, is a flop. One day last week only 27 cars passed over it.

That Jimmy Durante's nose isn't the largest in the world at all. The nose of George Washington at Mt. Rushmore S. D. is.

That Charles Dillingham and George M. Cohan have inspired more fans on Broadway to lead better lives than anybody.

That in symbolism the right hand denotes authority, the left paw obedience — hence the location of the wedding ring.

That you can get a license to fly a plane when you're 17 but you have to be 18 to get one to pilot an auto. Such a system!

That the U. S. has enough coal to last 600 years at the present rate of consumption. Could we ever sleep not knowing that one?

That the U. S. oil however, will only last another 15 years.

That in Persia bread is sold in rice thin circular sheets, each about three feet across. Must be fun hearing them crunch it!

That Newton, Miami Beach, Fla., Rogers now remains the three most beautiful girls in the whole wide world.

That once upon royalty and those with power were allowed to sit in chairs. The commoners sat on stools, chests, benches or floors.

That Emily Kahn, author of "Seductio ad Absurdum," was the first femme to graduate in engineering at the Univ. of Wis.

That there is no such thing as black glass. It usually is dark green, blue, purple or dark brown.

That when soldiers charge they do not run. They walk.

That although the firemen have done away with horses they still bet on them. And hold the record of picking the most "also-rans."

That there are half a million accidents for every airplane accident—no matter how slight. However, you fly. I just wanna watch!

That the courts rule that "ignorance excuses no one," yet the smartest lawyers have to keep looking into books to find out what they are talking about. Yet, dopes like us are supposed to know!

That Disraeli received 50 Gs for "Endymion" and Goldsmith got $300 for the "Vicar of Wakefield." I'll stick to columns.

That the most remarkable echo known is that one which is in the castle of Simonetta (in the old country). It repeats the echo of a pistol shot 60 times. Well, all right, 55, then!

That England only produces enough to feed itself three months a year.

That Tibet is larger than Texas and Alaska combined, but it has a population smaller than the District of Columbia.

That if you stay up for 100 hours you go insane. Look at me!

And that you can dip your finger in a glass of water and take it out without wetting it. There now, figure that out!!

Culbertson and Lenz Want $120,000 Plus for Screen Work

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 22.

Nowhere in the country is the Culbertson-Lenz bridge feud followed more closely than in Hollywood.

The film stars have gone in feverishly for contract bridge, and several expert players have developed. The concensus of opinion is that Frances Dee, Meighan's perhaps the best woman player, though Bebe Daniels, Diana Fitzmaurice and Kay Francis have high rating.

Bebe used to be one of the auction sharks. She often sets up games with Joseph Schenck, Samuel Goldwyn and other high-stake players.

Some say that Buster Keaton is the best of the men. He has a marvelous card sense and excels at all games.

Bridge is the general topic all over the country although Harold Lloyd prefers backgammon and Charlie Laemmle sticks to pinochle. Wilbur A. Jelsen was induced to learn to play Hearts by the boss.

It's no unusual thing when Lenz is at M. G. M. proper at San Bernardino for executives to charter a Pacific Electric car, board it near the studio and play bridge all the way. Irving Thalberg is a crack player. Frequently Ralph Graves and Jack Conway sit in on these games.

Bridge players, too, were the late Mark Brothers. What is more, they cannot their own kibitz. Eddie Cantor.

THEY BID HIGH

It was inevitable that Culbertson and Lenz would receive a proposition to make pictures. Last week the Wampas Motion picture publicists men offered to shoot them in a series of 12 shorts. Living up to their reputations as aggressive bidders, Mr. Culbertson and Mr. Lenz are said to have countered with the not too modest request for $120,000 guarantee and a percentage of the profits. The Wampas passed.

GOSSIP

Several attempts have been made to woo Kent Douglas back to the films since he recently forsook. Latest is a Columbia offer for him to play opposite Dorothy Mackaill in "Love Affair." Seems to me I saw a New York item that Douglas is to be in a new Broadway play. A certain Hollywood star whose wife is in New York had better take his butler in hand. I called up this morning to ask if he were there. "No sir," replied the butler, "he hasn't come in all night. Who is this speaking?" Service plus was rendered to Sid Grauman this week by the manager of a Hollywood restaurant. As he was leaving, Sid suddenly exclaimed: "Where is my walking stick?" The manager disappeared and promptly returned with a malacca cane. Halfway up the block Sid recalled he hadn't carried a stick that day. Lilyan Tashman wasn't going to buy any Paris clothes, but I hear she weakened. Mary Astor won't be at R-K-O after the first of the year. Harry Bannister and Ann Harding are flying back from the South. My latest bulletin places them at Atlanta, waiting for favorable flying weather.

The Animal Kingdom," which has to do with those strange zoological specimens known in America and some other parts of the world as men and women, will be on exhibition in the Nixon next week with Leslie Howard in the first cage to the right. Frances Fuller will be in the manager's also. It is the latest work of Philip Barry and its first paying customers anywhere will be those of next Monday night. They are drawing in the ducats at the box office right now. Howard and Gilbert Miller are the co-proprietors.

Small Timer says that hunted, far-away look in the eyes of the family Santa Claus maybe is a reflection of the North Pole influence.

"The Vinegar Tree," or sumac as we Pittsburghers call it, isn't very tall, but the play of the same title coming Christmas nite to the Alvin is described as a high camera. Mary Boland is the star whose rays will shine among the summer boos and H. Reeves-Smith, the tallest stooch on stage or screen, will growl in his best manner. Frederick Worlock, Helen Brooks, Jean Shelby and Alan Campbell will irritate him as much as they dare. The seat-selling is going on.

Small Timer says the knockers who claim movies are written for persons of the intelligence of a 10-year-old probably are just being their age.

This New German Picture Is 'Two Worlds' Away From Hollywood

By GEORGE SEIBEL

That German Cinema called the Avenue, right around the corner from the Stanley Theater, has been going long enough to enable its patrons to make up their minds about the difference between pictures "made in Germany" and those made in Hollywood. This week's film is called "Two Worlds" (Zwei Welten) and it might be applied to those two worlds regular attendants have discovered, separated by more than an ocean and a continent.

George Seibel

Probably the entire cast of "Two Worlds" does not get a salary equivalent to that paid a single American star, yet the acting is far superior. It's like the days when the dramatic critics of New York City used to advise you to go to the Irving Place Theater to see good acting.

Two of the players in "Zwei Welten," Hermann Vallentin and Paul Graetz, have a scene, a long scene, in which old Goldschneider, the watchmaker, asks his friend and crony what to do about the love affair between the young Austrian lieutenant and Esther. That scene is so subtle, so delicately played, so wonderfully shaded, that you think some Rembrandt or Holbein picture has come to life endowed with language.

Not a false note! But there's not a false note in the script either.

STORY OF THE WAR

"Two Worlds" is a story of the great war on the Austro-Russian front. It is not a war picture of the sort that "Journeys End" and "All Quiet on the Western Front" are to show us the criminal folly and brutality of war. Still it shows just exactly what the military microbe does to ordinarily civilized human beings and also what havoc aristocracy and creed play with human hearts.

The Austrian lieutenant falls in love with the Jewish girl. Her father is averse to the match his father even more so. Between these representatives of the "two worlds" the young people are parted.

They are parted — that is another fundamental difference between this German film and the average American-made picture. Hollywood would find some way to be out of the unhappy ending just as they finished "Frankenstein" with wedding bells. "Zwei Welten," like "Zwei Menschen" a few weeks ago, lets the thing end as it should. That's the difference between art and chewing gum.

NO MERE DISPLAY

The other great difference is that the German films do not go in for mere display.

Hollywood would have a cabaret scene where elaborate uniforms and gowns could be worn — the nearest this German film comes to anything like that, is a cheap variety show in a rude theater to amuse the trench-worn soldiers.

Hollywood heroines must look like pretty dolls and Hollywood heroes like tailor's dummies—these people look merely human.

There are many other differences which might be summed up in the phrase: Extravagance cannot buy truth.

Helen Sieburg as the heroine acts admirably; Peter Voss as the hero is just as effective. But the Hollywood director would make them both "doll up."

Franz Schultz has provided a manuscript of great literary value. But the Hollywood director would make him put in "a lot of laughs."

Dupont, who directed "Zwei Welten" got a really gripping story, put a real village on the screen, created real characters and let them live out their destiny—and he makes the Hollywood stars look like little candles on a Christmas tree.

'Grand Hotel' Filming In January

Edmund Goulding, the director, plans to begin work on the film version of "Grand Hotel" in January. Announcement has been made that Greta Garbo will have a prominent role and now more recent information is that Joan Crawford also will appear in the picture.

Academy Has Novelties

"Novelties of 1932," starring the Italian character comedian Benny Moore, is the burlesque offering in the Academy.

In addition to Mr. Moore's show, the Academy is offering a number of special features for Christmas week. Nadja is presenting her own conception of "The Dance of Death." Wanita Casino is again presenting songs and dances. The cast of "Novelties" includes Katz Fields, Yiddish funster; Billy Holmes, singing and dancing soubret; Stewart and Gardner, dance specialists; Zella Stevens, Bee Cunningham, Yvette Lane, Frank McKay and George Reynolds.

Studio Has Collection Of Bird Nests

Scores of domestic and imported birds' nests are saved at Paramount Studios for occasional use in motion pictures. The nest of a robin was taken from the collection to "dress" a setting in Husband's Holiday." The nest originally was secured in the East, for robins steer clear of the California hawks.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

Just within the past week I've heard of so many parties for the school set that I'm sure that the boys and girls home for the holidays are going to have a gay time in spite of the depression, affecting the social season as well as everything else.

A new party I've just heard of is a dinner the Frederic Ickes Merricks of Morewood Heights, will give in the Twentieth Century Club December 28 in honor of their daughter, Eleanor Merrick. The dinner will precede the dance the Charles A. Rowes will give in the same clubhouse for their daughter, Margaret. Today Mrs. Merrick is giving a luncheon in her home for members of the school set honoring her daughter, Eleanor.

One of the most festive of the holiday affairs was the debut yesterday of Margaret and Eleanor Mann, daughters of the Rt. Rev. Alexander and Mrs. Mann, of Sewickley. They made their bow in the lovely Longue Vue Country Club at a tea dance given by their parents. The reception room, with tinsel hung Christmas trees in the corners and holly hung chandeliers was lined with the loads of bouquets. The ballroom was festooned with garlands of red green and silver with tastily decorated Christmas trees, holly and poinsettias.

Margaret wore a gown of shimmering white satin with flounces in bustle effect in the back with which she wore a band of holly-berries encircled with tiny white mutton sleeves and a matching velvet hat. Her sister was charming in a pink velvet gown having cape sleeves bordered with silver sequins and a tucked blue crepe turban. They carried sheafs of their gift bouquets during the afternoon. Their mother wore royal blue chiffon velvet having a tiered skirt slightly longer in the back and embroidered with rhinestones. Her small hat was of matching velvet. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. Cameron Mann, wore pumpkin crepe.

Receiving with the debs were sister buds of the season and aiding Mrs. Mann were Mrs. Carl Emmerling, Mrs. Charles Shoemaker, Mrs. George Bissell, Mrs. Boyd Edwards, Mrs. Carrol Fitzhugh, Mrs. Robert Withers, Mrs. Harvey Childs, Mrs. Norman McClintock and Mrs. S. B. Atkinson, of Sharon.

Another Sewickley girl to be engaged is Caroline Crittenden. A tea yesterday afternoon in the Crittenden home announced her father and mother, the William J. Crittendens, made known her betrothal to Joseph Kinnear Morford, of Lexington, Ky. Mr. Morford is a senior in the University of Virginia Law School.

* * *

The George L. Craigs, of Sewickley, and Miss Romaine P. Clark, of Crafton, are returning from their trip to San Francisco and a three months' cruise of the Pacific on the Empress of Asia.

* * *

The Ivy Ridge Club dance, to be held Christmas Eve in the Westinghouse Public High ballrooms with the Welfare Fund as the beneficiary.

* * *

The floor committee for the affair includes Edward H. Harbison, Hoyt Stevenson, David DeVore, Alex Wasson, Walter Chess, William Berger, H. Allen Mackesney, Arthur Paddock and Robert Knight.

* * *

Miss Sibyl Jenkes, daughter of the J. S. Jenkses, of Morewood Heights, returned Thursday from National Park Seminary for the holidays.

* * *

William Wettach, of Walnut street, East End, is home at Princeton for the Christmas holidays.

* * *

The senior students of Thurston Preparatory School will hold their annual prom tomorrow evening at the Pittsburgh Field Club. Miss Mary Margaret Marshall and Miss Margaret Erickson are chairmen of the program. Chaperones will be the D. P. Devines, the Bertram D. Ericksons and the L. H. Cates.

Kappa Alpha Tau Chapter Plans Yule Dance

Beta Chapter of Kappa Alpha Tau will hold its annual formal Christmas dance on Christmas evening at the Show Boat. Miss Esther Rosen, chairman, is assisted by Miss Pearl Herman, Miss Lil Herron, Miss Beatrice Lasday and Miss Bea Stern.

Miss Thelma Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison Jr. of Waldheim road, Aspinwall, has returned from Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., for the holidays.

George S. Daugherty Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Daugherty, Shetland avenue, for the holidays from Brown University, Providence, R. I.

Miss Jane F. Thirlkeld, a student at Highland Hall, will join her mother, Mrs. B. H. Thirlkeld, for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Morton, of Bellevue, have as their holiday guest their daughter, Mrs. J. Shellman Baer III, of Baltimore.

Daughter Gives Description of Mark Twain

A vivid word portrait of her famous father, Mark Twain, was painted for the Twentieth Century Club yesterday by Mme. Clara Clemens, wife of Ossip Gabrilowitsch. As far back as she can remember him, her father had gray hair, Mme. Clemens said. She finished her description of his appearance — gray eyes, black mustache, clear complexion, hands that were full of strength — by saying there was something dynamic about his whole being.

The room where he worked was always so full of tobacco smoke that the sun shining through the windows was made to look like the moon, she observed. Her father, she said, frequently interrupted his work to play billiards against himself. Her hour was filled with one anecdote after another, some of them already familiar to the world, anecdotes that had to do with Mr. Clemens' absent-mindedness, his dislike of being called away from his writing, of his violent outbursts of temper. Mme. Clemens described his temper as "marvelous" and said there was no stopping his "magnificent flow of oratory" at such times.

Her picture of the home life in Hartford was a beautiful one — the devoted wife who was at once her husband's critic and his inspiration, who "dusted him off" before he went to any social function, the father, a prey to great depression, keenly susceptible to beauty in every form, quick in emotional response, whose love for his wife was the greatest thing in his life. His serious side was more pronounced than the humorous, she said, and his preference in reading was for science, biography and history, and only Browning in poetry. There was nothing half-baked about her father, he gave 100 per cent of himself and was a remarkable husband, loving father and generous friend.

DESIGNER PRESENTS NEWEST VOGUE IN SMART ENSEMBLES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—A subtle relationship marks the frock and coat of the newest ensemble. Nothing so banal any more as both garments in the same fabric and marked by the same trimming and treatment. No, the new ensemble owes its charm to far more interesting accents than those. Usually the coat and frock are of two different materials, of the same coloring, of course. Very often the color of the fur on the coat is repeated in different trimming on the frock. And even if the coat and frock do not subscribe absolutely to the same treatment and detail, some note such as tucking or emplecements announces to the world that the coat and frock were just made for one another and for you. Women in Paris are addicted to the ensemble of this type and so it is frequently encountered in showroom and out of doors. The long mild autumn was surely an added impetus to the wearing of this type of costume.

* * *

WORTH HAS BEEN showing some most attractive ensembles lately done in his own inimitable way, combining smartness, simplicity and the wearable to a remarkable degree. In the model here depicted he has made use of the black and white theme, favored so much by this house for its mid-season things. The coat of the sketched ensemble is of dull surfaced black broadcloth with vertical insets of shiny surfaced cloth. A shawl collar of ermine gives a formal touch to the coat and the puffed pieces at the elbow are faced with this fur. The silhouette is slightly flaring below the hipline, but just above it molds the figure. The dress is of black marocain and the white note is carried out by the use of fine white georgette ruching at the neck and wrists. Diagonal pin tucks form an attractive trimming at the front of the bodice and top of the skirt. The close undersleeves are likewise tucked. The bodice is cut in one piece with the soft sash which ties at the side.

Why so many men give their wives

HOOVERS FOR Christmas

Christmas Terms ONLY $6.25 DOWN Balance Monthly

Every year, around Christmas time, we sell more Hoovers than we do at any other time of the year.

Of course, it is only natural that men, in picking out a cleaner, should choose The Hoover. The minute they compare it with other cleaners, they can see that it is a finer machine, better built, more durable. They can see, too, that its exclusive Positive Agitation principle is the most efficient cleaning method.

But that's not the whole reason for their choice. They believe—and rightly—that there isn't any gift that can better safeguard their wives' youth and health than the gift of a Hoover.

It is easy for you to give such a fine gift. The terms are most convenient. And there is a liberal allowance for old electric cleaners. Hoovers for Christmas giving are packaged in special holiday cartons.

Club Notes

Not content with its important scholarship work, the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club has added new activities to its program. The scholarship amount has been increased from $2,390 to $2,548, 18 students being assisted. Clothing and money were sent as a Christmas gift to a family, two dozen pairs of new stockings were distributed in the elementary schools and eight dozen new dolls were dressed for the Toy Mission.

Scope Enlarged

The next meeting of the club will be held in Peabody High School on January 12. Luncheon will be served in the school dining room under the direction of Mrs. Helen Gregg, a member of the club and director of school cafeterias in Pittsburgh. The program, to follow, will be by the high school chorus and orchestra directed by Miss Florence Shute and Mrs. Walter Frost.

A bridge luncheon benefit is scheduled to take place at the home of Mrs. W. C. McClure, Brownsville road, on Monday.

* * *

Miss Ethel Beerbower, president of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Maryland College Club, will be in charge of the Christmas luncheon to be given Saturday. Dr. George A. Steele, president of the college, will be the principal speaker, and the luncheon will be followed by a theater party at the Alvin. Mrs. A. B. Landgren, secretary-treasurer, is in charge of this feature of the afternoon.

GIRDLES $4 FOUNDATIONS $7.50

Why is everybody talking Skintex, buying Skintex, wearing Skintex? Because this wondrous discovery brings the ideal in corsetry—a half-ounce garment without a bone in its body, that clings like a birthmark, gives with the body, yet won't stretch or sag, and washes like a pocket handkerchief.

All this is due to the magic material . . . Lastex . . . that looks like fine silk brocade, but in reality is rayon woven twice around with tiny elastic threads. Skintex, for street, afternoon or evening, is exclusive with Boggs & Buhl—and, no matter how high our praise, Skintex lives up to all we claim for it!

Toy Plea Finds Many Eager to Be 'Real Santas'

The opportunity afforded residents of Pittsburgh to act as a real Santa Claus to children of families who bravely try to conceal their reduced circumstances this Christmas, has struck a popular chord.

Many have welcomed the chance to provide toys for homes that never before have had a toyless Yuletide, and which, because of the families' reluctance to make this known, are outside the category of those being supplied by the Toy Mission or other philanthropic organizations.

Names of such youngsters have been obtained confidentially for the Sun-Telegraph by Supt. Ben J. Graham of the Pittsburgh public schools, and his staff. Each family has been investigated by teachers, and where food and clothing are necessary, provision to supply these has been made already.

A telephone call to the Christmas Editor, Grant 6500, will give any Pittsburgher so desiring the name or names of children who are likely to be toyless for the first time this year and assurance of their worthiness.

Effort to supply toys for such children does not conflict with the work of the Toy Mission or other such organizations, but is restricted to cases wherein the previous circumstances of the families indicate to none except their most intimate friends and associates the possibility of a toyless Christmas for the first time in their lives—unless a real Santa Claus appears.

GUNMAN FLEES AFTER LOOTING DRUG STORE

Owner's Leap for Revolver Frightens Thug, Prevents Robbery of Customer

A Negro gunman held up Stadtlander's Pharmacy, 8998 Frankstown avenue, last midnight, threatened the proprietor, A. S. Stadtlander, and escaped with $40 from the cash drawer.

Stadtlander's dash behind another counter for a revolver caused the intruder to flee, and saved the purse of a customer, Claire Dillinger, Gilmore street, who had entered while the holdup was in progress.

Stadtlander had just turned over the till contents when Dillinger entered placing the Negro between the two victims. After commanding Dillinger to put up his hands, the Negro, seeing Stadtlander move behind another counter, fled.

Two Negro bandits took $16 from Tony Ambruzzi of 80 Congress street, last night near the Diamond street drive of the courthouse. Ambruzzi told the county teletype operator he had displayed his money in a downtown theater.

Two alleged automobile thieves narrowly escaped injury last night when the automobile they were stealing ran wild across Warrington avenue, through an iron fence and over a 100-foot embankment into the Pittsburgh Railway yards at the South Hills barns.

The men leaped from the machine before it crashed. Philip Duke, of 238 Industry street, owner, said he had parked the machine in Delmont street.

TASK FOLLOWS REDUCTION IN TAX RATE

$1,000,000 Must Be Cut From Estimates; Groups Laud Policy of Economy

Preparations were to be made today by City Council to reduce the budget, following the 2½ mill tax rate slash yesterday, in order to keep expenditures within the new limit.

Council so far has reduced the budget approximately $750,000—only one mill. Mayor Charles H. Kline pared departmental expenses approximately a half mill before he submitted the estimates to Council nearly a month ago. Cuts of nearly $1,000,000 now will have to be made, it was indicated.

Should this not be accomplished, it is likely that wages and salaries of all city employes will be reduced 10 per cent. On the basis of a 6,000-man payroll, the saving would amount to $1,500,000, or a saving of nearly 2 mills. A mill is equal to $750,000 in revenue.

VOTE UNANIMOUS

Next year's levy will be 23 mills on land and 11½ mills on buildings, the lowest since 1927. It means a saving to property owners of $2.50 per $1,000 land valuation and $1.25 per $1,000 building valuation. The tax reduction vote was unanimous. Councilman Robert Garland had held out for a 3-mill reduction, but when his motion received no second, he withdrew it. He then cast his vote for a 2½-mill cut.

Council is expected to act on recommendations submitted by Public Works Director Edward G. Lang to consolidate the Bureau of Parks and the Bureau of Recreation. Reduction in personnel, economies and more efficient operation will be possible under this plan, Lang believes.

COUNCIL LAUDED

The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board and the Building Owners and Managers' Association today issued statements lauding Council for its action.

J. W. Bamford, chairman of the taxation committee of the Building Owners and Managers, said:

"The action of City Council in reducing the tax millage for 1932 is gratifying to the association. We feel that Council has taken a forward step which will benefit the entire community. In view of present economic conditions we feel the reduction which was voted by Council was as large as they could hope to make."

R. L. McKallip, of the Real Estate Board, declared:

"Your action will have a far-reaching and psychological effect on the commodity of real estate, which bears the majority of the burden of taxation. We feel the reduction will create confidence in the minds of property owners and will help to restore some of the lost values which are as essential to the taxing authorities as they are to the owner."

CHAMBER HAILS ACTION

The Chamber of Commerce issued a statement, which read in part:

"The Chamber of Commerce congratulates City Council on the answer given the Chamber of Commerce and the other organizations working with it for tax reduction. The chamber has believed that the same policy of economy and insistence on full service for compensation received which is being practiced today by all business corporations would permit a material lessening of the cost of local governments if practiced by those in charge. The cut gives a considerable measure of relief to taxpayers here at a time when the taxpayers of some other cities are facing the prospect either of no material reduction or, in some cases, even an increase."

DYNAMITE JAIL BREAK FOILED

LANSING, Kan., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Plans for an escape from the Kansas Penitentiary here were believed by prison officials to have been frustrated with the discovery by officers of two and a half sticks of dynamite and a quantity of sash cord within the prison walls.

Warden Kirk Prather last night announced three convicts had been questioned and placed in solitary confinement. Prather declined to reveal the men's names until his investigation is completed.

A tip, the source of which was withheld, was said by Prather to have led to discovery of the explosive and the rope.

In a search of the penitentiary Prather said five daggers and two blackjacks were found.

Quiz Eskimo Woman In American's Death

EDMONTON, Alberta, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Authorities today were questioning an Eskimo woman named Ravello in connection with the murder of Fritz Schurrer, former member of the United States revenue cruiser Bear and a member of the Coast Guard in 1926 and 1927.

Schurrer was shot and killed by an Eskimo woman at Cape Barrow, Alaska, according to a radio message received at the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Station.

Constables to Talk On Graft, 'Rovers'

The question of grafting and "roving" constables will be taken up at a meeting and dinner of the Constables' Beneficial and Protective Association tonight in the Fort Pitt Hotel, according to E. P. Murray, president. Judge James H. Gray, District Attorney Andrew T. Park and others have been asked to take part. Election of officers will take place.

Murder Halts Fete At Gypsy Coronation

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Revelry commemorating the coronation of Mark Adams as "King of all the Gypsies" was turned into mourning today.

Louis Adams, brother of the recently crowned "king," was in jail, charged with murdering his wife, whom he shot and fatally wounded yesterday in the presence of his eight children.

New Plane Service To Havana Opens

HAVANA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The seaplane Caribbean Clipper arrived today from Miami, inaugurating a new airplane service between the two points. Senorita Laudelina Machado De Grau, daughter of President Machado, is to christen the ship.

AID PLEDGED CREDIT BILL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Assurances by congressional leaders have made President Hoover confident that his urgent recommendation for a $500,000,000 reconstruction corporation will be made law after the holidays.

He said as much today in announcing that his efforts for a shortened holiday recess had not been successful. He added that after the customary recess he had been told there would be "amply sufficient cohesion of view" to assure passage of a corporation bill.

Meanwhile, hearing on the proposals continued before a Senate committee with Frederick Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, urging that the corporation be set up to give credit aid to both railroads and life insurance companies.

Kellogg, 75, Urges Government Thrift

ST. PAUL, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Still active in international affairs at an age when most men have retired, Frank B. Kellogg, of St. Paul, today observed his 75th birthday and expressed the belief that "our civilization is steady enough to recover from the economic depression" and that "what we need is more thrift in government activities."

Final Hearings Held In Padlock Cases

Final hearings in 45 liquor padlock injunction suits were held in Federal Court today, mostly involving places in the Pittsburgh district.

Among the places were a club on the fourth floor of 204 Sixth avenue, the Red Arrow Inn, Beatty road, Patton Township, and the dining room of Sutton's Hotel, 520 Wylie avenue.

Bandits Rob, Beat Gas Station Man

Police today were seeking two masked men who entered the Bishoff Gasoline Station at 315 Braddock avenue, Braddock, early today and after taking $62 from the till, struck Chester Johnns, 45, of Rankin, attendant, over the head with a blackjack. Johnns was injured slightly.

Cleveland Wife Asks $250,000 Balm

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. George Wessell, of Cleveland, O., filed suit yesterday for $250,000 charging alienation of her husband's affections against Mrs. Adele Hall, of Albion. Wessell, former treasurer of a Greek society in Cleveland, left the United States when charges of embezzling funds of the society were filed against him.

Bridegroom Killed In Auto Collision

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 22.—Richard Stone, 24, of Jerome, died yesterday in a local hospital, the result of injuries suffered in an automobile collision near his home. Stone had been married but three weeks.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

TOKIO, Dec. 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Been bobbing around for the last three days on one of China's oceans in a boat just six inches longer than a Ford, trying to get from Manchuria here. Run into a storm and had to turn back and go into Port Arthur harbor for the night but did get here and finally found a country worse off than we are. How's that for an accomplishment. And for the same reason as us—overproduction. Pardon me for trying to get humor from a serious situation but when a country bigger and more fertile than the whole state of Texas changes hands yet war is not declared on either side and five months later the League sends a jury out to see how it was done—now there is a laugh in there somewhere. Yours, WILL.

Falls Into Oil Tank, Fumes Cause Death

WARREN, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Fumes in an 80,000-barrel oil tank into which he fell killed Clair P. Peterson, 30, today.

Peterson was investigating trouble in the tank intake at the Conewango Refining Company plant. The belt by which he was suspended within the tank broke and he fell into oil three feet deep. He was dead when removed through a manhole.

EX-POLICEMAN'S HOME LOOTED

The family of James J. Rogan, retired police lieutenant, awoke this morning to find that thieves had looted their home, 224 Luray street, during the night, Rogan told North Side police.

A diamond ring, valued at $1,500, other jewelry worth $70, two revolvers and $100 in cash were taken from the lower part of the house, Rogan reported.

Fingerprints on the window in the kitchen, through which the thieves entered, were photographed by the police Bertillon experts.

9 Workmen Hurt In Oil Tank Blast

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Nine workmen were injured today in the explosion of a kerosene storage tank at a Standard Oil Company distribution center in this city.

Several of the men were riveters who were working on the tank when the metal top was blown high into the air without warning. It landed 300 feet away without damage.

DAVIS REVISES COAL BILL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The original bill designed by Senator Watson, of Indiana, to regulate the coal industry is in process of being revamped by Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania.

This measure, which has the support of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, has been before the two previous Congresses without action.

Senator Davis said he and Representative Kelly, of Pennsylvania, "and others" were at work on framing a bill to regulate the industry "in some form that we can all agree upon and in a way to be constructive."

Relief for U. S. Is Detoured by Way of Europe

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

We understood this session in Washington was to be the big relief seance for home industries.

It was to be an all-American back-scratching tournament for the local boys who made good everything but their margins.

It was a beautiful patriotic scenario. With the first scene cast in Europe.

Foreign diplomats got their moratoriums for their native lands. We wouldn't even be surprised if there is a rider to frank Mahatma Gandhi's laundry.

American relief is slightly postponed unless the European relief is a round-about method of helping us.

They say the longest way round is the shortest way home, but they also say charity begins somewhere between the garage and the parlor stove.

We believe in helping the wayfarer. But 20 centuries have elapsed since the Good Samaritan picked up the first hitchhiker on the road to Jericho, and we've often wondered if he ever got the mule back.

Price Cut in Competition Over College Dances

Price cutting today marked the competition for intercollegiate Christmas season dances scheduled for William Penn Hotel. With $8 a couple announced for the fifth annual Christmas night intercollegiate ball, the rival affair, an intercollegiate charity ball, planned Christmas Eve, will be priced at $4 a couple.

The latter is part of the retaliation plan of Robert C. Gordon, who lost a court injunction suit against his former partner of the annual ball, John Bair.

Gordon and his new associates contracted for Jan Garber and orchestra immediately following cancellation of his contract by Bair and his new partner, Miss Jane Zacharias, it was revealed today.

Yule Funds for Depositors Of Closed Bank Speeded

Certificates of deposit will have been given before Christmas to all former depositors in the closed Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., who have made proof of deposit and had their 50 per cent dividend credited to their accounts in the First National Bank, according to plans of the two institutions.

The 50 per cent dividend, resulting from a transaction whereby the First National bought assets of the closed bank valued at nearly $14,000,000, will have been credited to nearly 15,000 depositors.

Payment was started December 3, nearly two weeks ahead of schedule. The plan has moved the first dividend approximately 60 to 90 days ahead of the earliest possible date by ordinary procedure.

WAGE CUT PLAN APPROVED BY ARCHITECTS

25 Per Cent Pay Reduction For Building Trade Unions Urged to Aid Industry

A 25 per cent voluntary wage reduction by the building labor groups, as suggested by the Pittsburgh Building Trades Employers Association, has been approved by four Pittsburgh architects as the best way to aid recovery of the building and allied

Pittsburgh contractors have been handicapped in competing with outside or open-shop firms, according to Architect Press C. Dowler. He declared much new work has been delayed because of high wages.

HANDICAP DENIED

J. H. Duffy, president of the Building Trades Council, has denied that local contractors are handicapped by wage scales. Outside contractors coming into Pittsburgh must pay their journeymen the Pittsburgh scale, he insists.

The question of wage reduction is to come before officers of the unions Saturday night, when a vote will be taken. Labor leaders admit it will be overwhelmingly opposed to a wage cut.

Statements by the architects favoring the wage cut follow:

Press C. Dowler:

"Lower wages have prevailed in surrounding districts for more than a year, but the larger contractors in the city employing only union labor have been handicapped in competition with outside or open-shop concerns. A great deal of new work has been figured and then held up awaiting stabilization in the industry."

COSTS TOO HIGH

Maurice S. Trimble:

"While the cost of building has been reduced in 1931 from peak prices, it is still too high to attract prospective builders, since at present prices it is impossible to realize a reasonable return on the investment."

E. B. Lee:

"In 1921, under similar conditions, prompt action was taken by the building trades and a reduction of wages was made which was followed by six or seven prosperous years. There can be no question but that a reduction in building costs will re-establish building."

Harry Vichman:

"We know that material prices are way off, and profits have been cut to the bone, but labor, the other major item, has not budged. The cut must come soon or we may find ourselves at a wake instead of beside a sick-bed."

Pittsburgh Woman Named Film Censor

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22 (AP)—Appointment of Mrs. Kathryn M. Stephens, 5801 Wellesley avenue, Pittsburgh, as an inspector for the Board of Censors of Motion Pictures was announced by Gov. Pinchot today.

32 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 7; diphtheria, 4; measles, 9; whooping cough, 1; mumps, 1; chicken pox, 4; pneumonia, 5; and erysipelas, 1.

'Ride' Victim Found Slain Along Road

CHICAGO, Dec. 22 (INS)—Apparently executed as he ran from an automobile carrying his gangland assassins, the body of an unidentified man was discovered early today on a lonely road near the outskirts of the city. The man was about 30 and well-dressed.

Tire tracks near the spot where his body was found indicated he had been taken for a "ride" and shot down after he was ordered from the automobile.

VOTE MACHINE FAILS DURING COURT TEST

Breaks Down Twice, Then Permits Ballot to Be Cast For Too Many Candidates

A voting machine broke down twice and, in addition, permitted operators to vote for eight candidates where only seven were allowed, in a test before Judge Frank P. Patterson today as he continued hearing of a taxpayer's equity suit to restrain the County Commissioners from paying $415,000 to the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, the balance due on the 1,100 machines bought by the county.

Both of the breakdowns occurred in an electrically operated machine and were quickly repaired.

Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, counsel for the company, asked Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, of the League of Women Voters and one of the plaintiffs, if she had not told him she was "going to get" the Poole Company. She denied it.

Louis Bourdelais, of Swarthmore College, called as an expert witness yesterday, failed in an attempt to demonstrate that removal of buttons from the face of the machine would expose a "star wheel" which, if reversed, would jam the mechanism.

The case probably will be concluded before Christmas.

The plaintiffs are seeking to have certain minor changes made in the machines before permitting the county to pay the balance of their more than $1,000,000 cost.

SHERIFF, AIDES DYNAMITED

PEARSON, Ga., Dec. 22—Sheriff Lewis White and two deputies were in critical condition today after moonshiners had used dynamite in fighting off the authorities.

Luring the Sheriff's party into a swamps region near here, by means of decoy letters, the moonshiners exploded five charges, leaving the Sheriff's face and arms mangled, Deputy Perry Farmer with his right leg gone, and Deputy Wilbur O'Berry blinded in both eyes.

Deputy Ed White, the Sheriff's son, escaped with slight injuries and Deputy Levi Corbett was unhurt.

7 HELD AS DOPE RING SUSPECTS

Seven men, including a Republic physician, who, federal narcotic agents assert, are members of a narcotic ring extending from Pittsburgh to Uniontown and Connellsville and into parts of Northern West Virginia, were being grilled by the agents today.

The men arrested in a "round-up" by a squad headed by Inspector William T. Duffy, gave their names as Dr. E. E. Phillips, Republic; Alpheous Johnson, Charles Zaborski, Oliver No. 1; Dave Apice, arrested in Pittsburgh; B. F. Latney, Fayette County Negro; Joe Augusto, and Salvatore Varrica.

The arrests yesterday were the climax of an investigation started in August, to determine if Harry F. Powers, convicted Clarksburg "bluebeard," was connected with narcotic traffickers. Investigators said Powers was not involved.

CAFE MAN LEAPS TO DEATH

Worried over illness and financial difficulties, Thomas A. Boyd, East Liberty restaurateur, died to his death late yesterday from the third floor window of his home, 335 Collins avenue, according to homicide detectives.

His wife, ill in an adjoining room from a nervous breakdown, was not informed immediately of her husband's death. She last saw him early in the afternoon, when he retired.

Police found Boyd, skull fractured, in an alley off the side of the dwelling. It was first reported as an accidental death, but after investigation Homicide Dectective Dennis Timpona declared Boyd had taken his life because of illness and financial worry. The Coroner listed the death as a probable suicide.

Boyd was the proprietor of a restaurant on Sheridan avenue, near Penn avenue. His establishment was formerly on Highland avenue, near Penn avenue.

Evicting Policemen Attacked With Axes

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22—(AP)—Three policemen who attempted to evict an aged Negro and his son yesterday were rescued by a police riot squad.

The Negroes attempted to prevent eviction with axes. The three officers were injured in the melee.

Teachers Get First Pay Since October

CHICAGO, Dec. 22—(AP)—The Christmas of Chicago's 14,000 school teachers may be slightly merry at least. Checks for two weeks' cash pay were in the mail, not only to the teachers but to 4,000 other Board of Education employes.

Except for two weeks in October, most of the teachers have been unpaid in cash since last May.

Honduran Arrested As American's Killer

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Dec. 22—(AP)—A native was in jail at Truxillo today on a charge of having killed John McCrill, American overseer of a banana plantation near Toloa.

The overseer's decapitated body was found Friday and was shipped to New York. The slaying was attributed by officials to hard feeling against the overseer.

SEEK COAL LAND UNDER SCHOOL

Purchase of coal underlying the site of the proposed new William H. Davidson High School on West Liberty avenue, near Wentzel avenue, was being considered today by the Board of Public Education. The recommendation, to safeguard the property from undermining, was made to the board by James Bonar, superintendent of buildings. The property is above an old coal mine, owned by the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

Cost of the new building, Bonar advised the board, may be increased $100,000 due to necessary caisson construction work to protect the property. He was authorized to continue depth tests.

PAPERS SOUGHT IN ARMSTRONG ESTATE

Son to Be Administrator As Widow Waives Right; Total Estimated $81,000

Letters of administration for the estate of his father, the late County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, were to be issued today to State Senator Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., upon the filing of an administrator's bond in the office of Register of Wills Mackrell.

Mrs. Ethel W. Armstrong, second wife of the Comissioner, late yesterday appeared in the Register's office, accompanied by Senator Armstrong, and filed a renunciation in his favor of her right to act as administratrix of the estate.

Assistant County Solicitor Frank W. Ittel, who accompanied them, estimated the value of the Armstrong estate at $75,000 in personal property and $6,000 in real estate.

It is understood Commissioner Armstrong left a will and that it will be filed. It was said to have been executed before his marriage and under the law would have no effect upon the right of his widow to her share, one-third, in his estate, making the appointment of an administrator necessary.

DAVIS PRESENTS BONUS PETITION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A petition for full payment of World War veterans' compensation was presented to the Senate yesterday by Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania.

The petition was left at Davis' office Saturday by a group of 26 "full bonus marchers" from Philadelphia. Davis did not comment on the presentation.

President Hoover yesterday signed a $200,000,000 bill which permits the Veterans' Administration to resume making loans on service compensation certificates. The money should last until summer time, as Administrator Hines figures the demand at $25,000,000 a month.

Heart Attack Kills Policeman Hero

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A little man with a lot of courage died yesterday. He was Herman Otten, former member of the Chicago police, once known as the smallest man in the department, and who was reputed to have defied "Terrible Tommy" O'Connor, alleged slayer of five who escaped from the county jail and is still missing. Otten was found dead in a hotel, the victim of heart disease.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Nancy Patterson McKibbin, he leaves three daughters, Mary and Harriet McKibbin, at home, and Mrs. Watson Irvin, of Chicago.

Alfred Pearson Hays

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Alfred Pearson Hays, 72, descendant of a pioneer Pittsburgh family. He died at his home, Portland, Ore., Sunday. He was born in Allegheny, May 21, 1859, a son of the late Gen. Alexander Hays and Annie Adams McFadden. He served in the 2nd Regiment, in the Spanish-American War, and lived in Pittsburgh for many years before going west. He leaves his widow, Rachel E. Allen, a son, Alexander, and a brother, Gilbert A., of Sewickley.

DUCE MOURNS DEAD BROTHER

MILAN, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Premier Benito Mussolini arrived here by special train from Rome this morning, kissed the cold forehead of his younger brother, Arnaldo, who died yesterday, and bitterly mourned the passing of his collaborator of 16 years.

Il Duce arrived at 7 a. m., after an overnight trip. With him were his two sons, Vittorio and Bruno. They drove immediately to the offices of the newspaper Popolo d'Italia, of which Arnaldo was editor, and where his body lay in state today. Fascist legionnaires watched as a guard of honor.

Il Duce later conferred with the family and with Fascist leaders over plans for the funeral, which will probably be held tomorrow. It is expected to be the occasion of the greatest Fascist demonstration of sympathy in the party's history.

Gangland Beats Law in Race for Diamond's Life

Universal Service herewith presents the last of two chapters detailing the life story of Jack "Legs" Diamond, New York's new beer baron, gangster slain Friday after a life filled with thrills and murder. It pits gangland against the law.

By SEYMOUR BERKSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The murder of Jack "Legs" Diamond ended a career that was a battle between gangland and the law.

And had Diamond acquired to the throne of Arnold Rothstein, king of the New York underworld, the law might have been won.

For the police were close to the weave a web of evidence around Legs. It would be difficult for a member of the federal government, local officials, bankers to conspire to kill a man, although that has been done, as yet.

But Diamond never became Rothstein's successor and gangland won the race.

NEVER BIG RACKETEER

The New York underworld never accepted Legs as a big shot. He had managed to graduate from petty thievery to become a burly and menacing figure. But he was never a big figure, make no mistake. And when he sought to become one he was looked upon as a threat to the Canal Street mobsters.

Diamond's efforts, after joining the Rothstein forces, to acquire some Broadway interests began to cross with a certain flair. He began to wear silk underwear. He wore silk shirts, monogrammed on some of his dead underwear. He sported a man-about-town's jackets. But not for long. The road began to get too bumpy.

A procession of gangland murders followed, and in each the name of Diamond figured.

One of the first to go was Red Moran.

But the most spectacular of all killings attributed to Diamond took place the night of July 13, 1929.

Legs and a henchman, Charles Entratta, sat in the Hotsy-Totsy club on Broadway. The glasses were clinking merrily.

Pretty soon Bill Cassidy and Simon Walker, two minor racketeers, dropped in for a drink. There was a petty quarrel, a crackle of pistol fire and Cassidy and Walker fell.

Diamond and his henchman dropped from sight.

So did the principal witnesses to the double murder. The charred body of one was found in the New Jersey meadows. Another was hauled out of the Hudson River.

Months passed. Then Diamond's brother died in a sanitarium. And legend has it that Legs appeared at the funeral, disguised in a priest's garb.

Finally, eight months after the Hotsy-Totsy murder, Diamond dropped in at headquarters and said he understood they were looking for him. There were no witnesses. Diamond was released.

Legs went back to Broadway. The New York underworld, however, had turned thumbs down on him. The big league racketeers didn't mind a murder now and then, but the bloody reign of terror Diamond sought to establish met their disapproval. It wasn't good business. So they froze Diamond out.

Legs gathered a few petty racketeers together and moved to Acra, N. Y., in the Catskills, to establish a little Cicero.

By the rule of the gun he forced roadhouse keepers to buy his beer and whisky. Those who refused were rubbed out.

But one day Diamond's chauffeur unwittingly led a trailing police squad to the blood-stained automobile of Harry Weston, a roadhouse keeper who had mysteriously dropped from sight several weeks before.

BARRED FROM EUROPE

Legs took the next boat to Europe, but his reputation got there before he did. France and Belgium barred him. Germany sent him back to the United States on a freighter.

From that time on Legs was a marked man.

Early the morning of October 12 after keeping a tryst with Kiki Roberts, he was trapped in a New York hotel room and five bullets were fired into his body.

He was given up for dead. Miraculously he pulled through and went back to his Catskill retreat. But even there an execution squad followed him one day and sent another volley of slugs into his body as he stepped out of the Arratoga Inn near Cairo, N. Y.

Once more he survived, and then the law began to catch up with him after a poor start. He was convicted of liquor conspiracy but got out on bail pending an appeal.

HIS LAST CELEBRATION

Then he was tried for the second time in Troy, N. Y., on a charge of kidnaping and torturing a truck driver. Once more luck was with him and a jury last Thursday night found him not guilty.

Jubilant, Legs took his wife and a group of his friends and went to an Albany speakeasy to celebrate.

After a hilarious night, Legs told his wife he'd be back soon, and rushed over to a nearby apartment where Kiki awaited him.

Several hours later, while his wife and friends were still celebrating, Diamond, reeling drunk, stumbled into his rooming house hideout.

As he entered his bedroom there were three blinding flashes and Diamond lay sprawled on his bed, three bullets through his head.

The race was over.

And gangland was the undisputed victor.

Yuletide Visitor Meets Daughter Here; Dies

James B. Bettel, 60, of Blue Hills, Me., arriving in Pittsburgh for the holidays, greeted his daughter in the Pennsylvania Station late yesterday and dropped dead of heart failure, according to a coroner's report.

The daughter, Mrs. Henry D. Johnson, Jr., of 5650 Aylesboro avenue, with her husband, had welcomed her father in the station. Mrs. Johnson was near collapse in her home last night. Bettel was pronounced dead by a railroad physician.

DOLL LADY

Swamped With Requests for Her Glorious

"Honeybunch"

The demand for these dolls has been so enormously big that the distribution has been extended until New Year's

Dolores Jean Shaw, 158 Finley Avenue, Carnegie, With Her "Honeybunch" Doll

Read the Doll Lady's Letter Today:—

Dear Little Girls:

I am glad that the Sun-Telegraph is going to let me stay here until New Year's, because I know that if I went away Christmas there would be hundreds of little girls disappointed. As it is, it looks as though a good many who are doing what I wanted them to do will not have "Honeybunch" for Christmas, because they were late in getting started. However, I have plenty of these big, beautiful dolls, and they will be just as welcome next week as they would be now.

In the meantime, my assistants are giving out hundreds of "Honeybunches" every day—in fact, they are going to work day and night right up to Christmas so that there will be as few disappointments as possible. I want to make every little girl who wants a "Honeybunch" happy during the holiday season and am making every effort possible to deliver dolls before Christmas Eve. My headquarters is the busiest place you ever saw—just crowded with girls getting their dollies.

So please bear in mind that my doll distribution is extended until New Year's and it isn't at all too late for you to get a "Honeybunch" if you want one.

So if you will be satisfied to wait for a day or two after Christmas for your dolly, send me your name and address on the coupon in this announcement and I will write and tell you how you can get a "Honeybunch."

Here are the names of some of the little girls of Pittsburgh who have already taken "Honeybunch" home with them: Peggy McCarthy, Freda Weis, Beverly Ann Boyle, Betty Ann Hallett, Kathleen Voltz, Esther Wolfe, Mary Budd, Agnes Schmitt, Alice Schultz, Dorothy King, Elizabeth Weidner, Rita Gallagher, Agnes E. Helm and Jane Gaertner.

Here are some of the little girls living outside of Pittsburgh who have their "Honeybunch": Eileen Koerner, Mae Price, Jean Wilson, Rose McCabe, Katherine Gladd, Ruth Hollender, Dorothy Gaffney, Anna Moore, Mary Daugherty, Lucille Will, Gwendolyn Cunningham, Harriet Phelan, Shirley Winning and Betty Hile.

HUGE VOLUME OF NEWSPRINT USE SHOWN

Annual Consumption Reveals Magnitude of Operations Of Hearst Publications

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—The newsprint consumption in one year of the 11 publishing units owned by Hearst Consolidated Publications Inc., if stretched lengthwise would encircle the earth 72 times, or an average of six times a month.

If laid page to page it would wrap around the world 24 times in a month and 288 times in a year. These impressive figures were made public today by Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc.

Yearly newsprint consumption of the entire Hearst newspaper organization would circle the globe over 137 times and would form a path of white paper 5⅝ feet wide and 3,436,136 miles long.

The magnitude of newsprint organizations is vividly illustrated by the tabulations of Hearst Consolidated, which show:

1—All of the Hearst newspapers use a combined total of 548,092 tons of newsprint paper in one year, or equivalent to 1,096,184,000 pounds.

2—This tonnage represents a trainload of 18,270 cars that would cover a distance of 207 miles.

One ton of newsprint would stretch out an airline for 33,088 feet, or 6 27-100 miles.

4—Twenty acres of timberland are used to produce 1,000 tons of newsprint.

5—Nearly 11,000 acres of timberland are utilized in one year to fill the Hearst newsprint consumption requirements.

6 — Approximately 356,200,000 board feet of timber are used in one year in producing this paper.

7—Three tons of raw materials — wood, pulp, sulphite, etc. — go into making one ton of paper.

This is only one important feature in the huge-scale operations of the Hearst newspaper organization.

Poll Law Violation Convict Gets Parole

Stanley Zbikowski, Brereton avenue, serving a two-year workhouse term for violation of the election laws, was placed on parole for the balance of his term yesterday by Judge James H. Gray in Criminal Court, who said:

"Investigation has shown doubt of the guilt of this defendant."

Zbikowski was a member of the election board of the Fifteenth District of the Sixth Ward two years ago in the Sullivan-O'Malley congressional fight. He was sentenced September 9 with the four other members of the board. Judge Gray imposing two and three-year workhouse sentences. They were convicted of altering ballots and other election law violations.

WE NOW PRESENT

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

Darrell V. Martin

THE MOST COLORFUL event of Pittsburgh's holiday season, the Intercollegiate Ball in the William Penn Hotel on Christmas Night, is to be broadcast by WCAE from midnight until 2 o'clock the next morning. Husk O'Hare, the Genial Gentleman of the Air, with his famous radio dance band from Chicago, the McKinley Cottonpickers, sensation of the South, Frank Morris, Penn State Varsity Five and Billy Wells's Band are to be picked up by remote control from the seventeenth floor of the hotel. Jack Keough, as master of ceremonies, is to have three microphones in action—one in the Urban Room, another in the Grand Ball Room and the third contact in the Cardinal Room.

Question a Day:

It's hard to believe that the Mills Brothers actually create the noises with their hands. Don't they use any kind of instrument? Mrs. I. M., Wood street.

Answer—The boys have been holding out on us. They use a piece of gas pipe to assist them in this illusion.

Studio Lights

There's a piece of mistletoe hanging over the secretary's desk at WWSW.

The Don Bestor of old held sway over KDKA again last night and there was more than the usual avalanche of calls and telegrams. Don has that "extra something" that counts with dance lovers. His new song "It's Always Raining on Me" had an appropriate reception, inclement weather abiding all evening. Don's unit is the smoothest we have heard in Pittsburgh in many moons.

We sat up and took notice when the Johnson Sisters performed their little act. Their arrangement of "Sweet Sue" is better than any we have heard on the network—watch these girls!

Pat Haley leaves on a vaudeville tour in a few days. first stop, Cleveland, where he expects to renew friendships with the staff of WTAM and Sin-' Sam (Harry Frankel) of CBS, an old buddy.

George Somers won himself a nice job with Bob Lightner's Orchestra by singing "I Wouldn't Change You for the World" with Jan Garber on the Lucky Strike Hour. he leaves shortly to join Lightner in a series of CBS broadcasts from Syracuse, N. Y.

Austin Wylie may be broadcast from the Tech Soph Hop on Friday, January 8.

These orchestra leaders lead in the all-America choice being made by readers of "We Now Present" for the Music Corporation of America: Wayne King, Guy Lombardo, Don Bestor, Ben Bernie, Ted Lewis, Rudy Vallee, Gus Arnheim, Dan Russo, Cab Calloway, Duke Ellington and Paul Whiteman. submit your "team" by tomorrow if you wish it to be tabulated.

Father James R. Cox has a host of talent for his Radio Benefit Show in Moose Temple tonight. . . James Hughes, of WJAS, is to be master of ceremonies.

Vaughn de Leath has signed with Columbia. NBC's former star is to be heard in popular songs each Monday and Friday on the CBS chain starting December 28.

We'll not hear the word "putrid" on the air for some time, comments Hal Cohen. "They're not Husing it any more".

Thanx friends, for the season greetings! Wish we could answer them individually.

Today's Tid Bit:

How's this for novelty? The British Broadcasting Company plans a three-quarter hour program on Christmas Day linking the roar of Niagara Falls, an announcer conversing with the warder of the Tower of London, a talk with the lighthouse keeper at St. Mary's, Northumberland, a tieup with a British Columbia lumberjack eating his lunch, a contact with someone on the rock of Gibraltar—and a ship to shore conversation with the liner "Majestic" in mid-ocean. NBC may take the program by short wave.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The greater part of the comedy on the air has been developed neither by the stage nor by the screen but by radio itself. It is the work of men who entered broadcasting in its early days, studied its technique, adapted themselves to it, and rose on the radio tide to triumph.

For more than a year Amos 'n' Andy were on the crest, a byword, you'll recall, in almost every home in the land. In the whole history of amusements no figures ever achieved such a colossal spotlight or held it so long as the team of Correll and Gosden and their impersonation of bewildered Harlem oafs. They still have an enormous public, but there is no longer the shushing, the frenzied attentiveness.

* * *

In the past six months another comedy team, F. Chase Taylor and Wilbur Budd Hulick, known on the radio as Col. Stoopnagle and Bud, have come to the crest, are dividing its possession with the blackface stars. Like Correll and Gosden, they are products of the microphone, but unlike them they do not go in for regular continuity in sketch and continuity.

Instead, they bid for laughs, through a high talent for burlesque and lampoon. No one escapes them, in or out of radio; that is, no one escapes them who has managed to attract the headline position on the microphone or in the news pages.

* * *

For a time their comedy was commercially sponsored. Their contract at an end, they have been directed to cut loose in the manner that pleases them. The result is they are providing some of the most refreshing moments on the microphone. There is nothing to hamper them. No advertisting interruptions, no fussy rules. They are allowed something of the same freedom that a paragrapher or a roving reporter has in a newspaper.

Being intelligent fellows, they roam from the political circus in Washington to the bridge circus in New York, from Madison Square Garden to the lecture hall.

They poke their fingers at commercial ballyhoo on the microphone and show it up in all its futile, ludricous nature. They mimic the voices and manners of radio's great—Vallee, Seth Park, Amos 'n' Andy, Bernie, Wons—so accurately as to be uncanny.

G. O. P. IN DOUBT ON CHAIRMAN

Uncertainty over who will become chairman of the Allegheny County Republican Committee continued today as the date drew nearer for the meeting. Friends of Boyd Euwer, most prominently mentioned for the position, wish the meeting Saturday, but under the rules of the committee it can be delayed for another week.

Euwer has been brought to the front by Senator Joseph G. Armstrong and W. H. Ziefel, secretary of the committee, and a faithful follower of the late Joseph G. Armstrong, senior, chairman at the time of his death. W. L. Mellon was reported sympathetic to the movement. Senator James J. Coyne, previously advanced as a Mellon candidate, has not indorsed Euwer, explaining he thought the position should go to a public official.

Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, two public officials whose names have been connected with the chairmanship, are making no efforts to land it. County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and Commissioner-elect C. M. Barr have no desire for the chairmanship, but wish it lodged in some individual not directly connected with previous political rule in the county.

Senator William D. Mansfield has been urged by some of his friends to seek the chairmanship, but so far has remained silent as to whether he would take it. No aspirant for the position wishes to stir up a battle for the place, fearing wounds might be left which would handicap any party leader.

Auto Crashes House, Driver in Hospital

Ben Gerber, 27, of 409 McKee place, was in the Allegheny General Hospital today suffering a possible fracture of the skull received when an automobile he was driving crashed into a dwelling last night. The building was moved from its foundations.

Vance Deal Offers Fail. • Ochsenhirt's Durability.
Brooklyn Salary Cuts. Walton Recalls Battles.
Georgetown Cuts Shirts. Wood Nearing Record.

GIANTS WON'T GIVE FITZ FOR DAZZY

IT WAS WITH every appearance of righteous indignation that the management of the Brooklyn baseball club declared all efforts at making player trades had been blocked because the other parties to the proposed transactions demanded Pitcher Dazzy Vance Outfielder Babe Herman or Third Baseman Wally Gilbert in exchange for the athletes sought by the Dodgers. The aim evidently was to give the impression that Vance, like Herman and Gilbert, was not for sale or trade at any price.

Dazzy Vance

But it develops that the Flatbush bosses actually have been trying to get rid of Dazzy. And without success. None of the clubs approached on the subject has been found willing to give up the material Brooklyn wanted in exchange for him. Vance will be 39 in March, five months older than Burleigh Grimes, and his advanced baseball age, together with the fact that he is a high-salaried performer and insists on getting four days' rest between games, made other clubs wary of taking a chance with him.

ONE DEAL which the Dodger chiefs entertained for a while but which failed like the others was an offer of Vance for Pitcher Fred Fitzsimmons of the Giants. The latter is unmindful of the fact that in an enemy uniform Vance does more damage than any other hurler to the Giants. Last year, Manager McGraw refused to consider the suggested swap.

"I will not trade Ace 30 for Ace 38," McGraw told an emissary of the Brooklyn club. "Even with the matter of age left out of the reckoning, Fitzsimmons is a better pitcher than Vance, and Fred will remain with the Giants indefinitely. I am trying to get more good pitchers, not to dispose of the ones already on our roster."

WHETHER VANCE STAYS with the Dodgers or goes to another club he is certain to remain one of the highest salaried men in the majors. His 1931 salary of $23,000 is reported to be scheduled for a major spread. It will reduce it to $15,000.

According to Brooklyn estimates Glen Wright will have to take the next largest reduction from $15,000 to $10,000 with Babe Herman being shaved from $17,000 to $15,000. Lefty O'Doul from $15,000 to $12,000 and no other player receiving more than $10,000 which means reductions for Johnny Frederick and Dr. Bonnemelle.

IT IS SAID that Georgetown will contribute the next addition to the growing list of football coaching changes. Report has it that Tommy Mills is on the way out, and that he will be succeeded in 1932 by a triumvirate consisting of John Law, Marty Brill and Johnny Colerick, former teammates at Notre Dame. An equal division of authority is planned, with Law coaching the line, Brill in charge of the backfield, and Colerick taking care of the ends. Law's recent resignation as head coach at Manhattan College, it is understood, followed negotiations with Georgetown, and at the same time Lou Little, head coach at Columbia, announced that Brill had made known his intention to give up his assistant coaching post at the latter university.

IT IS RATHER interesting to note that young Russ Ochsenhirt, sophomore center of the Pitt basketball team, is winning ironman honors on the Panthers swing through the West despite no apparent frailty.

Russ Ochsenhirt

Up to the present series against Kansas, the North Side youngster played every minute of the first five games except for the last 60 seconds or so of the Temple contest. Pitt has lost some games at the center position, but it was not the fault of Ochsenhirt. If one isn't tall enough to jump higher than the other fellow, it's just tough luck, and the mere fact that the Pitt pivot man has been able to give taller foremen a hard fight is evidence enough of his ability.

THAT OCHSENHIRT HAS had to go the entire route in every game while his opponent in each case had the benefit of a relief makes the Pitt center's record all the more creditable. Proffitt of Butler, Stewart of Purdue and Dicks of Indiana all veterans were each able to score only one field goal against him.

That speaks pretty well for the defensive ability of Russ. His passing and ball-handling in general have been better than was expected according to the Pitt party, which leaves little to be desired except a few inches in height.

IN CLEVELAND, WHERE he is managing Bruno Sala, Italian light-heavyweight, Frank Walton, former Pittsburgh fighter, read the Sun-Telegraph's recent reference to his knockout of Joe Kline in Old City Hall years ago as having been one of the quickest on record. "I well remember that bout," Walton writes. "The customers surely did not have to stay up late that night. Fighters really fought in those days around Pittsburgh. I fear that times have changed. Often nowadays when I sit watching a bout I go to sleep. I pity the customers. That sort of stuff would not have gone over when I was fighting. If we had attempted some of the things boxers pull now, they would have thrown us into the old Monongahela River. If some of the modern fights are worth 10 grand, the kind we had to go through when the going was rough were worth 50."

WALTON CALLS AS his toughest fights around here three bouts with Frank Klaus, a meeting with Battling Simpson in a semi-final to the Minute Attell-Johnny Creely bout, and a semi-final to the Jack Twin Sullivan-Tom McMahon affair. He says Klaus was the toughest but at the same time the cleanest opponent he encountered.

Walton went West in 1919 and managed Demon Rivera, a Mexican bantamweight, until the latter's eyes failed him. Then Frank handled Jim Flynn for a year, and later piloted a Southern heavyweight before locating in Cleveland as manager of Sala.

IN SUMMING UP the expenses under which the major baseball circuits are operating, John A. Herdler, National League president, points out another item which he says must not be overlooked.

He remarks that the leagues are still under the burden of paying off their indebtedness to backers of the defunct Federal League, which was bought out after the 1915 season. The peace agreement called for payments amounting to almost $1,000,000 to the independent operators, and most of this money comes out of the league treasuries.

Barry Wood

IT'S NOW NEXT door to a sure thing that Barry Wood will crack all records for major letters won at Harvard by one athlete. Though the football season is over Wood isn't even thinking of a let-down. Instead he has picked up his hockey stick and is getting ready for another campaign on the ice. Winning a letter again in that sport will give Barry a total of nine major awards at Harvard, and will enable him to tie the university record, held jointly by George Owen and Jack Hammond. And Wood won't stop there, for he will still have baseball and tennis to come next spring, with a chance for two more letters and a new record that probably will stand for a long time. In addition to the athletic fame he has won, the all-around star ranks as one of the best students in the university. He is to enter Johns Hopkins medical school in Baltimore next fall.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Far from being discouraged about the prospects for next year, the boxing game locally is taking on new life and zip and within the next month two new professional clubs will be staging bouts in the Pittsburgh district, one of them in Pittsburgh, and the other one in Homestead.

Eddie Kapphan, a local boxer 25 years ago, now a successful businessman, will be the Pittsburgh promoter. He has arranged with the boxing commission to be granted a license and plans to open his arena within 30 days. He declines to name his location at the moment, but says the building will seat at least 2,500 persons, will be constructed in bowl fashion so that every seat will be virtually a ringside seat, and that he will charge popular prices.

The Homestead A. C., which has been holding amateur shows in old Turner Hall, Homestead, is getting ready to revive the professional sport in that town and expects to be able to announce definite plans soon. Turner Hall is rich in professional fistic lore. It knew its palmy days when Ray Pryel of Homestead was a star, and the shows there were promoted by his brother, Al Pryel.

WILL STIMULATE SPORT

The addition of a few new clubs should help the game here. The district is crowded with fighters anxious to perform and most of them underpaid and half starved. With no competition in the field, Motor Square Garden has been able to get any and all of them at its own price and the sums paid some of these boxers would quickly disillusion any youngsters with lofty ideas of the lucrative possibilities of the fight racket. Semi-final boxers in some instances have been fighting for less than $100 for eight tough rounds, and the boys in the under preliminaries have been paid on a corresponding scale.

Competition will go a long way toward correcting this condition and announcement of the two new clubs will come in the nature of good news to the boxing brigade.

KAPPHAN FORMER BOXER

Kapphan, who once held the amateur bantamweight championship of Western Pennsylvania and was a contemporary of Paul Moore, Frank Klaus, Patsy Brannigan, Frankie Madole and Young Zirinsky in the ring, still retains his enthusiasm for the sport and long has been contemplating entering it on the promoting end as a hobby. He is president of a piano company and also has other business interests.

Between Rounds

The card is complete for the Christmas afternoon show at the Garden, headed by Jimmy Bennett and Ted Tarleton in the eight-main bout. Tiger Jim West and Jimmy Flanagan has the eight-round semi. Paul Orlando, Jersey Joe Walcott, Bearcat Quinn and Tommy Loughran and Johnny Warner and A. Jeffries are in the roster.

Patsy Perroni, Canton, O., light heavyweight, was making his home in Cleveland in a shelter in Pittsburgh. He has been matched with Adolph Brower, the German heavyweight, managed by Jack Sharkey, in Cleveland January 4.

The Boxing Club Boxer Bernardi, now at the Garden on New Year's Day, will be cared at eight instead of as a matinee.

California Drills On Arizona Gridiron

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 22.—(AP)—The University of California football squad, en route to Atlanta to play Georgia Tech Saturday, paused here yesterday.

Coach Bill Ingram expressed confidence that his Bears will record a victory over the Golden Tornados, although he said he had no first-hand information on the Southerners.

The Bears will work out at New Orleans tomorrow and arrive in Atlanta Thursday morning.

Pitt, Minnesota Book Floor Tilts

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 22.—(AP)—The Universities of Minnesota and Pittsburgh will meet in basketball games in the next two seasons, athletic heads of the former school have announced.

Pittsburgh will play here during the 1932-33 season. Dates for the games have not been set.

Americans Recall Johnny Sheppard

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(INS)—The New York Americans hockey team has recalled Johnny Sheppard from the Bronx Tigers of the Canadian-American League to report for duty today. George Massecar, forward, has been sent to the Bronx Club by the New York outfit.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT — By RIPLEY

(Reg. by U. S. Patent Office)

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE ENGINES OF THE AKRON AND THE DO-X—The reason for the strange use of American engines on a German ship, and German engines on an American ship, is one of unique supply and demand. The world's largest airship, the U. S. S. Akron, is equipped with eight Maybach engines manufactured by the Maybach Motor Company, Friedrichshafen, Germany, which is a subsidiary of the Zeppelin Company. The reason the Akron employs these German engines is that to date there is no demand for airship engines in the United States sufficient to warrant the development of such an engine. The world's largest airplane is the DO-X, built by the Dornier Company, a subsidiary of the Zeppelin Company. Originally the DO-X was equipped with Bristol Jupiter British engines, but before its trans-Atlantic flight American engines were installed and it now is powered by 12 Curtiss Conquerors of 600 horsepower each. My information is from Lieut. Commander C. E. Rosendahl, commander of the Akron, now at Lakehurst, N. J.

TOMORROW: A MAN WHO CAN HOLD A COIN BETWEEN HIS NOSE AND CHIN.

CLUBS WRANGLE OVER BOUT

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Open warfare flared today between Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, and Madison Square Garden, the organization that made him.

James J. Johnston, vice president and general manager of the cauliflower corporation, pointed out the Garden still has a contract for Schmeling's next fight and declared the corporation would legally enjoin any organization that tries to use Herr Max.

This shot was by way of Christmas greeting to Nate Lewis, Chicago Stadium matchmaker, due here today to close a Mickey Walker-Schmeling match for Chicago.

While the Garden insists Schmeling's next fight will be in New York next summer, it does not want any part of Walker. It believes Sharkey, Carnera or Dempsey would outdraw Mickey against Max. And Sharkey is the fair-haired lad of the trio.

"What's the use of kidding ourselves?" demands Johnston. "Schmeling cannot expect to go on forever picking his own opponents, and Sharkey is the logical man. New York is the only place Max can make any money, and Sharkey is the only man he can fight here.

"We regard Schmeling as a piece of property we have built up. He was made boxing for the Garden. We will go to court, if necessary, to enforce our contract with him."

Jabbering James reiterated his threat to hold an elimination tournament to set up a champion in opposition to Schmeling, if Max continues to refuse to talk turkey.

Badger Gridders Vote to Oust Thistlethwaite

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 22.—(AP)—Members of the University of Wisconsin football team who won letters this year have voted 2-to- against the retention of Glenn Thistlethwaite, head football coach, it has been learned.

Gregory Kabat, captain-elect of the 1932 eleven, confirmed the report of a sealed ballot.

"The vote has been taken and was sponsored by Capt. Harold Smith, of the 1931 eleven," he said. "I do not know the result as the vote was a sealed one, and Capt. Smith has the votes in his possession."

DEATH CLAIMS 46 GRIDDERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP)—Two deaths in the metropolitan district in the last two days have brought the national death toll from football injuries to 46.

George Cassa, 15, died in East Orange, N. J., Sunday night from a ruptured spleen suffered November 21. Yesterday William Jackowsky, 16, died in the Jewish Hospital here from blood poisoning which developed from an injury suffered November 14.

Jackowsky, a member of the Thomas Jefferson High School team, was kicked in the left ankle during his team's game with Hamilton High School. He regarded the injury as trivial and remained in the game. Later blood poisoning developed.

Cassa was injured attempting to tackle during a pick-up game among members of the freshman class at East Orange High School.

R. GREENLEAF UNDEFEATED

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, completed the fourth undefeated world pocket billiard championship tournament of his career last night when he set down Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, the dethroned champion, 125 to 14, in 16 innings. Greenleaf won the championship for the eleventh time Saturday.

He pulled one of the best shots of the tourney to start an unfinished run of 23 in his last inning. Apparently kept safe near the rail he bounced the cue ball off a side cushion, between two balls, and dropped the 15 into the side.

C. A. Storer, president of the National Billiard Association of America, presented Greenleaf with the diamond-studded medal emblematic of the championship.

Rudolph's loss threw him into a tie for second place with George Kelly, of Philadelphia. They will meet tonight to decide the position.

The round robin to decide fourth place also will continue today, with Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia; Benny Allen, of Kansas City; Onofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn, and Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., competing.

Lauri defeated Taberski, and Ponzi set down Allen yesterday. Today Ponzi meets Taberski and Lauri meets Allen. Tomorrow afternoon Ponzi plays Lauri and Allen encounters Taberski.

YALE TOPS TOLEDO

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 22.—(AP)—In a rough but fast contest the Yale University eleven defeated Toledo University 24 to 23 here last night. The lineup:

Max to Begin Exhibition Tour January 11

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—(AP)—The Argonne A. A. has announced that Max Schmeling will open his third American exhibition tour under its auspices at the Arena, on January 11.

VINES SECOND TO MARTIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP)—More complete returns in the Associated Press National poll on the year's "outstanding individual achievement in sports" established Ellsworth Vines, youthful new tennis king as the runner up to Pepper Martin, world series hero for this 1931 distinction.

Martin, the favorite of sports experts by a clear majority over all rivals, now has 75 votes out of a total of 131 cast, but the latest rush of ballots enabled Vines to displace the veteran Francis Ouimet, hero of this year's big golfing comeback, in second place.

Vines has a total of 16 votes as the year's outstanding individual performer, in the opinion of nation's leading sports writers and editors. Ouimet is third with 11. Fourth place goes to Robert Moses Grove, pitching ace of the Athletics and leading twirler of both major leagues.

The support for Vines as the outstanding amateur performer of 1931, forecasts a probable heavy vote for him in the contest conducted by the National Amateur Athletic Union for the James E. Sullivan Memorial Award.

Bobby Jones won the award last year.

EXCESSIVE PLAY TAKES TOLL ON PANTHERS

By H. C. Carlson

PITT BASKETBALL COACH

Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 22.—We took it on the chin in the opener of our three-game series with Kansas University here last night, the Panthers falling by the bare margin of 24 to 23. Tonight we'll tackle 'em again with our final contest scheduled for tomorrow night.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

Kansas was ahead for the first time as the game ended. Too much competition paid its toll and the Pitt team, with the easiest opposition of the trip, went down in the last minute. No strategical errors were made by Pitt because any part of its offense was good, and it seemed that the boys were too tired to lift the ball up to the basket.

KANSAS DEFENSE SOFT

We were surprised at the ease with which the ball was worked beneath the baskets and the natives gasped, even though the shots were missed. The game was played in Convention Hall, where Hoover received his presidential nomination, but that had nothing to do with the depression that hit us.

The far-famed zone defense of the locals was the easiest defense yet encountered, and was spread over the entire floor in contrast to that formidable defense as employed by Carnegie and West Virginia.

The game, as played here, is very similar to the game in Western Pennsylvania.

Ernie Quigley, the National League umpire, and Ream worked very satisfactorily.

POOR PLAYING COURT

The only unpleasant feature of the remaining games is the poor playing floor, which was responsible for more stiff muscles and brush burns yet received.

Kansas City is a great town and the boys, led by Ochsenhirt, sang over the radio last night—they went to a church broadcasting its services. The lineup:

Kansas	Fg	F	Pf	Pittsburgh	Fg	F	Pf
O'Leary, f	5	0	1	Klewicki, f	5	1	1
Harvey, f	1	2	2	Kowalik, f	0	0	0
McClintock, c	1	1	2	Lang, c	1	0	2
Cahill, g	0	0	0	Daniels, g	0	3	0
				Wyshinski, g	1	0	1
				McCamant, g	1	2	4
Totals	11	3	24	Totals	9	5	23

Officials: Referee, Quigley, St. Mary's; Umpire, Dwight Beam, Wabash.

Akron Y. to Meet Y.M.H.A. Christmas

The Akron Y. M. H. A. volleyball and basketball teams will oppose the local Y. M. H. A. volleyball and Varsity B. basketball teams on the local floor Christmas afternoon.

The volleyball match will get under way at 1:30 o'clock and the basketball game at 4 o'clock.

The local basketball team will pay a return visit to Akron on January 16.

Rumania Enters Winter Olympics

LAKE PLACID CLUB, N. Y., Dec. 22.—(AP)—Rumania today became the seventeenth nation to announce its entry in the third Winter Olympics here. A cable was received from the Rumanian Olympics Committee that teams for two-man and four-man bobsleigh events will be on hand when the winter games start February 4.

West Homestead at North Braddock Jrs.

By JULIUS LEVIN

New Kensington, Wilkinsburg, Homestead, Scott High and New Castle, all of whom have held the W. P. I. A. L. basketball championship in past years, are slated for action on various courts in Western Pennsylvania today.

New Kensington, coached by Carl Glock, invades Wilkinsburg to engage Elmer Carroll's quintet; New Castle, coached by Phil Bridenbaugh, entertains the Pitt Freshmen in New Castle. Homestead plays a return game with Henry Leucht's Mt. Lebanon combine at Mt. Lebanon, while Scott High, Johnny Reed's smooth-working quintet, opposes Greensburg at North Braddock.

Other interesting duels find Erie Academy at Farrell, Swissvale at Rankin, Clairton at Waynesburg and West Middlesex at Stoneboro.

The Rankin-Swissvale game should prove a thriller. Jock Rosenberg's Rankin team is undefeated so far, and Ed Paulle's passers will be out to get revenge for a defeat suffered earlier in the season.

Only three scholastic contests were recorded yesterday. Tarentum High came through with a 26-10 triumph over Kittanning; Ford City won from New Kensington, 32 to 20, and Arnold Prep bumped Forest Hills, 23-22.

$25,000 Is Turned Down for Sale Of Leaf Star

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A local paper yesterday said Montreal Maroons have offered $25,000 to the Toronto Maple Leafs, of the National Hockey League, for the contract of King Clancy, Toronto defense star.

The offer was refused, the paper said. Manager Conny Smythe placing a price tag of $50,000 on King.

Clancy was obtained by the Leafs last year from Ottawa in a cash and player deal involving approximately $50,000.

TROJAN TEAM FEAT BEST

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—By a margin as convincing as that gained by Pepper Martin in the individual field, Southern California's sensational football team is credited by the nation's sports experts with the outstanding individual team achievement for 1931 in any branch of sport.

That's how highly they regard the Trojan victory that ended the three-year winning streak of Notre Dame.

Southern California, in the national poll of sports editors and writers conducted by the Associated Press, received 72 votes out of a possible 131. This was exactly double the total for the St. Louis Cardinals, whose feat in overthrowing the world champion Athletics was voted the outstanding accomplishment by 36 experts. The results of the Associated Press poll:

Southern California football team, 72.
St. Louis Cardinals, world baseball champions, 36.
Philadelphia Athletics, American League champions, 6.
Notre Dame football team, 5.
Navy crew, Poughkeepsie champions, 3.
St. Mary's football team, victor over University of Southern California, 3.
Tulane, Southern Conference football champions, 2.
Tallahassee, City football team, undefeated in 10 games, 1.
Bobby Jones, golf champion, victor over United States, 1.
Columbia's football team, after improvement, 1.
Michigan football team, after defeats, 1.

MARINO VICTOR OVER EDWARDS

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Tony Marino, Duquesne, Pa., outpointed Johnny Edwards, Huntington, W. Va., in 10 rounds last night. Marino weighed 113, Edwards 112.

Freddie Boylstein, 148, Kittanning, Pa., outpointed Jackie Herman, 151, Wheeling, in six rounds.

Sammy Madison, 151, Wheeling, scored a technical knockout over Benny Burns, Akron, O., in the fifth round of a scheduled six-round bout, and Frank Talamatar, 124, San Antonio, Tex., took a decision from Johnny Francis, 126, Shadyside, O.

Viard to Captain 1932 Millvale Team

Victor Viard, fullback of the Millvale High School eleven, was chosen captain of the 1932 team at a banquet given the team last night in the high school.

Frank Korneley, captain of the team during the past season, was toastmaster. Among the speakers were John D. Holohan, graduate manager of athletics at Duquesne University; Buff Donnelli, Duquesne freshman coach; Chick Davis, Duquesne basketball coach; Jim O'Donnell, Duquesne lineman; Coach Joe McCarthy, Principal C. C. Williamson, W. A. Dierdorf, vice president of the Millvale School Board, and Julius Levin, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PANTHERS PASS OUT WITH NEW THEME SONG

By JESS CARVER

The secret is out. The cabal has been exposed. The reason the Pitt basketball team has been taking 'em on the chin out in the great open spaces of the Middle West is that some wit in Indiana plastered a theme song on Dr. Carlson's passers. It might not be so bad if the song were half way good—here it is, judge for yourself:

"Kowallis Me Around Again, Willie."

Think of it! A Pitt basketball team with a theme song.

TECH BETS READY

While the Panthers are penetrating deeper and deeper into the land of the setting sun and deeper and deeper into their tough schedule, Carnegie Tech's varsity heavers are preparing for their home collegiate inaugural against Yale in the Tartan gym tomorrow night.

The Skibos arrived home from their three-game trip of last week with fire in their eyes and the determination strong in their doughty hearts to make Yale pay and pay with blood for the defeats suffered last Friday and Saturday. Whether Yale has much of a ball club or not will make little difference if Tech beats 'em.

The second game of the three-tussle Pitt-Kansas series is the only contest on the boards tonight of any interest to tri-state district college followers.

The Tipoff

The Christmas cards are beginning to flutter in, and as usual, J. L. Marks, the sage of Elder's Ridge, bobs up with some original poetry. Mr. Marks has a number of things well, and dashing off more or less free verse is to be numbered among his accomplishments. Following is his 1931 blast:

We sing a Christmas Carol of the Coach's paradise,
Where Bleary-eyed Alumni don't come back to criticize,
Where Boys are taken care of with baths, board and books,
Not caring if Carnegie calls 'em all a "lot of crooks."
No out of Bounds, time out, free kicks, or other foolish rules
Johnson's ruling doesn't count, just like some other schools.
And when the Coach has picked his team in spite of all his fears,
The president will let 'em play for years and years and years.
If Bulging calves and "Spring" or officials don't come through They're dropped in college course of sound black and blue.
This Coach's Christmas Party, Where no one spoils your story,
Is up at King Sing College in Ossining, New York.

Things are going to be shot-shot in basketball at Grove City this year. One can tell by the publicity Bob Thomas is sending out. The most recent outburst from the home of the Crimson would indicate, to a more casual observer, that the veteran Robert is in a tall spin; that his basketball players are all brilliance, and that the outlook has a distinct wash-day tinge.

All of which means that Master Robert has a great ball club and figures to take them Bakes when they open the season there on January 5.

East, West Elevens Gather in 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Football stars from East, Middle-west and the Pacific Coast, 44 strong, will assemble here today to begin preparations for the annual East-West charity game, New Year's Day.

Eastern players who will check in with Coaches Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, include:

Centers—Paul Mareland, Colgate; Charles Miller, Purdue.
Backs—Bill Morton, Dartmouth; Pete Somers, Minnesota; Russ Rebholz, Wisconsin; Jim Purvis, Purdue; Jim Burgess, Fordham; Gene Mayer, Tennessee; Ken Russell, Northwestern; Clark Hinkle, Bucknell.

Dana X. Bible, of Nebraska, co-coach with Percy Locey, of the West's team, will arrive with the following men:

Conrad Fisher, end, Oklahoma A. & M.; Basil Wilkerson, tackle, Oklahoma City; George Koster and Charles Justice, guards, Nebraska; Johnnie Palmgren, fullback, Tulsa; Weldon Mason, halfback, Southern Methodist; Walter Johnson, fullback, Hassell, and Elvin McCoy, quarterback, Emporia Teachers.

Coast May Lift Ban On Grid Cameramen

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Modification of a recent ruling adopted by graduate managers of the Pacific Coast Conference barring newspaper cameramen from the sidelines is possible, Alfred R. Masters, graduate manager of Stanford University, disclosed here tonight.

Masters emphasized he spoke only for himself and stated flatly nothing had been done or could be done in the matter until the next meeting of graduate managers scheduled for next July, but said he was willing to propose that the rule barring newspaper cameramen be modified to permit the taking of "touchdown pictures."

Loughran, Levinsky May Meet Again

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A return meeting between Tommy Loughran and King Levinsky, who handed the Philadelphia heavyweight a surprise drubbing last Friday, seemed likely when officials announced Loughran had signed articles for a bout here January 11.

Cochran Takes Lead Over Willie Hoppe

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Welker Cochran, of Hollywood, won the first block of his exhibition 18.2 balkline billiards match from the veteran Willie Hoppe, here last night, 250 to 143, in 12 innings. Cochran's high run was 90; Hoppe's 57.

Five more blocks of 250 points each will be played.

In a special three-cushion match, Cochran beat Hoppe, 20 to 16, in 29 innings.

JACKETS LEAVE FOR HOLIDAYS AT HOME

By CARL W. SHATTO

Five members of Pittsburgh's International League hockey squad have left to spend Christmas with relatives in other cities. The local icemen are to engage in no league competition until a week from tonight, but they will reassemble for a hefty practice session Saturday.

Tex White and Eddie Rodden have departed for their homes in Toronto, and Frank Ingram will spend the holiday with his wife in Chicago. Ty Arbour is in Wabasheen, Ontario, and Whitey Fields is in Dunville, in the same Canadian province.

Three crippled members of the squad will spend the recess receiving treatment here. Gordy Fraser has his injured knee in a cast. Earl Miller is being treated for head and hip injuries, and Art Berlett is working overtime trying to shake off a heavy cold and at the same time have some kinks taken out of his back.

The "breather" is a very welcome Christmas gift for Coach Reid, and he expects to have his squad at full strength when warfare is renewed.

Random Shots

Saturday, March 19, is the date selected for the playing off of the postponed Pittsburgh-Buffalo game originally scheduled here Thursday.

Eddie Charlotte, recently released by the Jackets, has been signed by the Windsor Bulldogs.

Johnny MacKinnon, who performed at defense for the Pirates when Pittsburgh was represented in the National League, now is a referee in the American Hockey League, after working the Chicago-Kansas City game in Chicago Saturday night. Johnny was assisted by Manager Hate Dye and Bruiser Taylor, of the Chicago team.

INTEREST HIGH IN SOCCER TILT

By TOM BIRKS

Soccer fans in Western Pennsylvania are awaiting the international match schedule for South Park Christmas afternoon at 2:30.

Two committees, appointed by the local governing body, have selected what they believe to be the best aggregation of foreign and American-born players in the district, who will tangle for 90 minutes to try to prove which soccer system is the best—that of the old country pattern-weaving type, where every man keeps his position and every move is made with the utmost precision, or the American style, which has been getting results with a fast-moving attack, that does not stand on ceremony, never plays to the grandstand, and has one object, to shoot at every opportunity for goals.

Buff Donnelli, classed as the greatest goal-getter ever developed in this district, may swing into action against the science of Johnny Jaap, who, while developed here, received his fundamentals on the game on the other side of the pond.

Harry Sickles, the Castle Shannon Morrys center half, has been overlooked in the selection, and without a doubt, he is the best in the district at that post. Dunn, on the foreign born team, is the mainstay of the Union Switch club, and a brilliant player.

The players selected have been requested by the committee to bring their equipment to the Curry pool room at 1:30. The committee in charge will supply jerseys for both teams.

Ward Heads Tennis Association Ticket

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—The election of officers for 1932 will be held at the annual meeting of the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association in New York on Saturday, January 9.

Holcombe Ward heads the list with the nomination for president. Others who will be up for election are M. E. Fox, first vice president; Clarence E. Newman, second vice president; Rufus Davis, secretary, and Russell Kingman, treasurer.

Michigan Mermen Swamp Violets

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Michigan's crack swimming team sank New York University, 44 to 19, yesterday, taking seven of the eight first places, including the relay, four seconds and two thirds.

Police Called to Handle Mob at New Store

By B. C. FORBES

THIS IS CHEERFUL: by employing whole-page newspaper advertising copy, a chain store company attracted such an overwhelming crowd of people to the opening of a new store in Cleveland last week that traffic was completely blocked and special police had to handle the situation. An executive tells me:

Mr. Forbes

"18,074 people were all we could possibly allow to enter the store on the opening day."

This is only one more confirmation of the fact that there are still people with money to buy whatever attracts their fancy.

Recently the Postal Telegraph installed a society woman to answer all etiquet and other questions. In this new Cleveland store a representative of the Kroger Food Foundation has an office and answers questions on what to serve, how to serve it and what to serve with what. There's a wrinkle for other merchants.

Incidentally, the traffic-blocking crowd was not attracted by price-cutting. The page advertising didn't quote one single price.

A TELEGRAM to this column states that Clarence M. Brown, newly elected chairman of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, told a meeting of regional directors in Milwaukee:

"Depression has not frightened us out of our wits. We are going into 1932 expecting increased demand. Our plans and expectations will be backed up by much larger newspaper and magazine advertising than heretofore."

He told of revolutionary discoveries by research engineers and chemists and declared:

"We are backing up our research work with a doubled advertising appropriation for 1932."

MY SHOULDER-RUBBING with manufacturers and other businessmen has uncovered the fact that an astonishing number have concluded retrenchment has gone far enough, gloominess has ruled too long, and the prospects for being able to drum up business in the coming year have become distinctly more encouraging.

It is frankly recognized, however, that extraordinary effort must be expended. "What was good enough is no longer good enough," is how one manufacturer tersely expressed it.

FINANCING CUSTOMERS buying products running into considerable money is a problem receiving more attention than ever before. Many individuals and concerns really needing new equipment and other products haven't sufficient ready cash to place adequate orders.

Sellers best able to extend credit are reaping a powerful advantage. For example, the president of a truck manufacturing company tells me that the need for buying has become extremely acute in many, many directions, but ability to pay is not always present.

Copper Producers Reach Agreement

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The Copper Institute, in a statement issued yesterday, indicated that a voluntary curtailment of copper production throughout the world would go into effect January 1, 1932, with the output of the metal generally limited to approximately 26½ per cent of estimated capacity.

Stocks Creep Up — Local Market Steady

STOCKS CREEP UP IN QUIET SESSION

Shares Advancing 1 to 2 Include Steel, Telephone, Tobacco, Sears and Can

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The securities markets again appeared to be under the influence of the holiday spirit today.

Both the stock and bond divisions were quiet, with a slow upward trend. There was a little further selling in the oils, but it was soon absorbed. A moratorium on Hungarian external payments had been so generally expected as to have slight notable repercussion. Furthermore, America's stake there is relatively small.

Among stocks creeping up 1 to 2 points were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, American Can, Sears Woolworth, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco B, Dupont, National Biscuit, Consolidated Gas, North American, American Smelting, Cerro De Pasco, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, New York Central and others. Oils reacted after selling during the morning, with Standard of N. J. selling fractionally higher.

The copper shares responded but moderately to the announcement of an informal agreement to reduce production to 26 per cent of estimated capacity, starting January 1. It is expected that this will reduce world production from about 125,000 tons to 85,000 tons and bring a gradual reduction in the burdensome stocks now above ground which are sufficient to last about a year. It was felt in the trade, however, that it would be a few months before the program would finally be fully reflected in prices. The copper market remained dull with the domestic price unchanged at 9¼ cents a pound.

The Hungarian moratorium was regarded as significant only as a further reminder of the delicate situation in Central Europe.

The continued support for railroad securities, reflecting the progress in Washington of the plan for forming the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, as well as the pooling plan for revenues from higher freight rates, was regarded in Wall street as highly encouraging, in view of the importance of these securities in the general investment situation.

COTTON SHOWS ADVANCES

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. Cotton opened barely steady today, unchanged to 3 points lower on some southern selling which was absorbed by trade buying. January sold at 6.14.

Interest seemed to center on the further evening up of January commitments and a good part of the early business consisted of switches from January to later months with the trade buying January and selling October. Offerings were generally light and readily enough taken to steady the market with January selling up from 6.14 to 6.17 and May from 6.51 to 6.53 by the end of the first half hour, or a point above yesterday's closing quotations.

Trading was quiet later in the morning, but prices held steady. Small offerings were readily absorbed by further covering or trade buying, and the switching from December and January to later deliveries seemed to make no particular impression on the differences between months. At midday January was selling around 6.20 cents and May 6.54 cents, or about 2 to 4 points net higher.

Associated Gas and Electric Company declared a dividend on the class A stock of one eighth of one share of class A stock, or at the holder's option payable in $1 dividend series preferred at the rate of one-eighth hundredth of one share of said dividend series payable February 1 to record December 31. Previously 1-40th of a share was paid quarterly.

The company declared one fiftieth of a share of class A or new class hundredth of a share of $1 preferred.

Rudd on $1 Basis.

Rudd Manufacturing Company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable February 1 to record of January 20. The company has paid 50 cents in the preceding quarters, prior to which the stock received $1 in quarterly payments.

Hill Top Savings and Trust.

Hill Top Savings and Trust Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, payable January 2 to record of December 24.

Dixon Crucible Cuts.

Joseph Dixon Crucible Company declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25, payable December 31 to record of December 21. This places the stock on a $4 annual basis, against $5 previously.

Hamilton Woolen.

Hamilton Woolen Company, Inc., has declared an extra dividend of $2.75 and a dividend of $2, both payable January 2 to record of December 21. Six months ago a declaration of $2 was made.

British American Tobacco.

British American Tobacco Company, Ltd., declared a final dividend of 5 pence on the ordinary shares, free of British income tax, and an interim dividend of 10 pence, both payable January 27. In 1930 the final dividend was one shilling 6 pence.

Nevis Irritated by Olive's Proprietary Manner Toward Bill

CHAPTER V.

One night in October Bill telephoned that he had been late in getting off, and that he wouldn't be home for dinner.

"We haven't anyone coming or a date or anything?" he asked anxiously.

"No, how late will you be, Bill?"

"Not very. I'll get a bite along the way," he told her.

Nevis wandered out into the pantry. She had ordered a nice dinner, all the things Bill liked. A man's meal, hearty, unimpaired and perfectly timed, according to Bill's standards. The soup he liked after cocktails and a new appetizer, the very special steak broiled with a suspicion of Worcestershire and butter, the French fried potatoes, the peas in cream, the deep-dish apple pie and coffee. That's what I call a meal," Bill would say on the occasion it was served him.

She'd planned an evening at home. The new radio to look with—he'd bought his second one a week ago. The letters she had to talk to him about, letters from home with all the gossip, the letter from Daisy Howard, who had come to New York and who was, Nevis understood, seeing a good deal of Sam Burton. Next time Sam comes down for the week-end we might have Daisy too," she planned on saving.

Well, it would all keep. She put the letters away, ate her dinner alone and called up Della.

"Going to be home? All right if I come over for an hour or so?"

Della said: "Sure. I'll send the car."

"No. I'd rather walk."

She walked the half mile in the clear evening air. The short cut to Della's took her through a field, one of the few real fields left in Westlynne. She thought: "It's building up, isn't it? That's too bad." She thought idly, trying to forget her childish disappointment about Bill, of the Waterfords' new house, which was almost completed now. She wondered if Della would have anyone in or if she and Mort had been alone. "I wish I'd asked her."

MEETS ARCHITECT

Presently she walked up the brick terrace and rang Della's bell. Della opened the door herself, very charmingly negligeed in something all sapphire velvet and French flowers. Della had never thought Nevis looked better. Not since she had known her.

"Lord, I'm glad you came. I've got a man here. He and Mort are fighting about Coolidge. You're in time for coffee and a liqueur," Della told her.

Nevis said: "I didn't dress. I thought you'd be alone. You didn't say anything . . ."

She was wearing a pleated skirt of soft brown tweed and an orange pull-over, a cardigan and a little brown beret. She was one of the few women who could wear berets. Her dark curls perked from under it. "You look like a million," said Della. "Dollars, not years. Years about 14."

She dragged Nevis into the living room. Mort, lazy, good-natured, a little inclined to be plump, rose to greet her. Another man rose, too. A tall man in a dinner jacket, with thick, mouse-colored hair and very dark gray eyes and an amiable smile. "This," said Mort dramatically, "is Harry Carter—the architect who's doing the Waterford house. He has a reputation of building his houses around the ladies who occupy them. And this," said Mort, still dramatic, "is Mrs. Bill Lancaster of our younger married set—and a very nice girl, too."

Nevis regarded Harry Carter with interest. She had heard a lot about him. He was a brilliant architect of excellent family and originally very little money. He had remedied this lack by marrying as promptly as possible the daughter of the head of the firm in which, after returning from the Beaux Arts, he had been employed as a draftsman. Now he only designed houses when he wanted to. Now and then he did a great office building. He was original and daring and so rumor said, personally irresistible. Nevis had heard about him a good deal. But had never happened to meet him.

"He's staying on with us," said Della, "for a few days, to see how his minions carried out his plans for Fluff's house. It's grand, Nevis. You haven't seen it yet, have you? We'll get Harry to take us over in the morning."

Carter said he would be delighted. He looked at Nevis. He said: "I'd like to do a house for you."

Nevis said: "We have one. Not that it's ours really. But it's a cute place."

"The Manning house," Mort explained, pouring the liquor into the squat, silver glasses.

"I remember it. Charming," said Carter, "but I could conceive of a more appropriate setting."

HEARS BILL WITH OLIVE

They talked and laughed for half an hour or so, settled finally to contract on the sun porch, the soft lights overhead glowing down on the cards. Nevis cut Carter. He was a pleasant partner, an almost intuitive one.

It was while she was dummy that she wandered about the sun porch, smoking a cigaret, stopping now and then to look over Carter's broad shoulder. It was a quiet game as Mort, as his wife expressed it, played for blood and not sociability. The night was quiet and warm for October. The windows stood open. Olive Blanchard's great house was the nearest on that street. A car spun up the driveway and stopped. And Nevis heard Olive's light laugh and a man's voice. "Well, here we are . . . I promised I wouldn't break your neck, didn't I?"

Bill's voice.

The men behind her were intent on the game. But Della had heard. She looked up quickly and away again, but not quickly enough. That time Nevis said, casually: "That's Bill. He picked Olive up in town. Shall I get them over?"

There was appeal in her eyes. If she didn't know it, Della did. Della nodded, and regarded her cards again.

Nevis stepped out of the French windows onto the brick terrace. The Blanchard property was nearby, one lawn on that side ran directly into the Hunt lawn. The bulk of the Hunt acreage lay to the back and on the other side of the house.

"Hello—" called Nevis clearly. "Bill? Olive? I'm at Della's. Come on over."

There was a little silence. She thought: "Are they whispering?" She thought: "How silly, as if I could hear it." But she swore to herself that she had heard.

Bill called: "Be with you in half a jiff."

He and Olive came in four minutes later. Olive was wearing a long wrap of summer ermine and a little tight-fitting hat. Jade dripped from her ears. Bill was grinning cheerfully. "Well, this is great," he said, regarding the bridge players.

"Cut in?" asked Mort, presenting Carter.

They did so. There were easy explanations. "Phoned Bill I was stuck in town. He brought me down like an angel. But it was so late we stopped for dinner," said Olive and then audaciously: "You don't mind, do you, Nevis darling? Even if I am in love with your husband?"

"No, I don't mind," said Nevis, "and I wish you'd do it often. It makes him a lot more attentive to me when he has something on his conscience."

Laughter. The rattle of glasses, the clink of ice. Smoke. Nevis and Carter had cut out. He said: "Let's go out on the terrace . . . there should be a hunter's moon."

There was. They stood there a moment, leaning on the low, ivy-covered wall, to which one descended by a series of low, flat steps. Nevis looked up at the quiet heavens. She thought: "Why am I so thick about this? He didn't lie. He just didn't tell me. Why didn't he tell me? Why didn't he say: 'Olive's with me, we'll have dinner.'"

Carter flung away his cigaret. He bulked beside her, tall, in the impeccable dinner clothes. He said suddenly: "I'd like to see you again, Nevis Lancaster. May I?"

That had been the beginning: a hunter's moon, a heartache and an attractive man who said: "I'd like to see you again, Nevis Lancaster. May I?"

She had laughed, of course; she had answered, lightly: "And why not?" and Harry Carter had replied: "Why not, indeed? I'm staying here a few days as Della told you. I have a very strong idea that I'll be at Westlynne often the last obsequies, you know. A house goes along merrily enough at first, once your builders fall into line, but the final and finishing touches are what keep an architect on the anxious seat. Waterford's given me an entirely free hand and that's one reason why I'm so keen to have everything go just right."

He had said it with the utmost gravity. Bill had called from the house. And they'd gone in, for drinks and sandwiches. Bill, Nevis observed, wore his small-boy-in-the-jam closet-expression. Olive however appeared quite untroubled.

Going home, Nevis asked: "Why didn't you tell me tonight Olive was with you?" He answered, with guilty innocence: "Didn't I? I thought I did."

She was angry and she was hurt. But something in his absurdity amused her. She laughed aloud. She said, severely: "Bill, you know you didn't! Not a word."

He laughed, too, infinitely relieved. She took it all right then. As a matter of fact, he had no intention of concealing from her his trip down to Westlynne, with a dinner stopover and a companion. But Olive had made an issue of it, had urged: "Don't say anything to Nevis, Bill. Oh, I know you think she won't mind. Men are so stupid. That's half their charm. But she will mind. I know women, especially wives. She'll rub it in. What she can't know can't harm her, can it? And she's been a little cool toward me, lately, Bill. She's convinced that I have designs on you, and she's perfectly right, which makes it inconvenient."

So, he hadn't said anything over the 'phone. It had been made easier for him not to say anything because of Nevis' obvious disappointment when he told her he wouldn't be home in time for dinner. Now, driving back from Della's, he explained: "Gosh, I just didn't think, Nevis!"

She said: "That's all right, Bill. I'm not going around with a chip of suspicion on my shoulder. I suppose," she guessed shrewdly, "that Olive told you not to tell?"

"Lord, why should she?" he asked, but his tone was enough to convince her that she had.

"Because it makes an affair of it. Oh, I don't mean what you think. I mean, it makes it important to her, if I don't know. Well, let her have her importance—she's built that way. She'd like, at present at any rate, to live in an atmosphere of intrigue and mystery and deceived wives or what have you. Let her, but tell me just the same. I won't give you away and she'll be perfectly happy."

"Gosh," said Bill, gratefully, "you're a great kid. I didn't plan to come down with her. Honestly, Nevis. She called me up. If she doesn't mean a darn thing to me, Nevis, and you know it."

She thought she did know it. Yet Olive assumed a rather proprietary manner toward Bill which, quite naturally, irritated Bill's wife. She adopted the we-have-a-secret attitude and her slow-lidded glance, her consciously Mona Lisa smile, her very gestures proclaimed it to the world. Della commented: "Olive's going a bit too far this time, I think." But she did not say it to Nevis.

At first, seeing Harry Carter occasionally, having him come over the next day to beg a cup of tea and a glance around the Manning house—"I built it, you know—" was amusing. It was rather fun to pour the tea "strong, please, I like washwoman's brew" into the thin Spode cups, to pass the little open sandwiches Hart made and to sit by the unnecessary but delightful open fire with a man who, very obviously, admired you. Not that Nevis hadn't been admired before, both before and after her marriage, but Carter's admiration was more marked.

* * *

Carter stayed at Della's a few days longer. Then, a hitch in the decorating, which he always supervised himself for his clients, necessitated, or so he said, his immediate and indefinite presence on the job. So he moved to the Westlynne Inn and stayed contentedly. His wife, he had explained, had gone South. The boys were in a boarding school. And so he might as well make himself comfortable on the scene of action as to motor down every day and return to what he characterized as his roof-top at night.

It was a famous roof-top; one of the first penthouses on upper Fifth avenue, planned and decorated and built by himself and very beautifully carried out, with an entirely successful roof and tea garden to top it off literally. Nevis was to grow to know it one day as well as she did her own house.

Carter was an addition to any party. Therefore he moved in and out of the Hunts, the Carlyles, the Blanchards and others, all of whom he had known for some time, completely assured of his welcome. Bill liked him, with reservations.

"A smooth article," said Bill.

Synopsis

Nevis and Bill Lancaster, young newlyweds, leave the little Pennsylvania town where they were raised and go to New York. They lease a small apartment and Bill becomes a bond salesman. As he succeeds they take a house and entertain beyond their means to make an impression. Nevis sees little of Bill. She disapproves of their extravagance, but Bill assures her it is necessary to promote business. Then Bill meets the flirtatious Olive Blanchard, who makes no secret of her designs on him. When Nevis suggests a vacation, Bill tells her he has been invited on a big fishing trip by Mr. Bartlett, a prospective client. Nevis, furious, asks him if it was business which accounted for his attentions to Mrs. Bartlett at a party. Bill believes Nevis should help him by accepting the attentions of men they meet in a semi-social way.

Now Go On

Carter said suddenly, "I'd like to see you again, Nevis Lancaster."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

More than 300 new members, composing the new Grand Theater (Greensburg) Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club received their membership cards and buttons Saturday.

A representative of the Sun-Telegraph explained the purposes and advantages of the club at the meeting and the following officers were elected to serve for the next four weeks.

Grand Jester, Louis Giovannini; board of governors, John Delpaine, Russell Rowe, Mike Colorusso, Betty Brown, Barbara Overly and Elsie Shapiro.

These boys and girls will assist in getting up programs for the meetings and do all they can to promote the interests of the club. Two of the outstanding entertainers in the new Grand Chapter are Jack Donald and Minu Dent (popularly known as Mickey Mouse).

ROPE TWIRLING

Greensburg has gone in for rope twirling in a big way. Under the leadership of Steve Mance, a professional, members of Grand chapter are taking lessons in rope tricks. The girls are as much interested as the boys, and some of them are just as good when it comes to cowboy rope stunts. Mr. Mance is arranging a contest, to take place as soon as the children are further advanced in their tricks.

Another stunt of the Grand chapter is the kazoo and drum band which is being organized. This promises to furnish plenty of music and plenty of fun.

Of the three Warner theaters in Greensburg, the Grand was chosen as headquarters for the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club because it is the theater at which all the big western pictures and other children's favorites are shown. By coming to the Grand at 12:30 on Saturday, members may enjoy the stage show, compete for the prizes, share all the benefits of the club, and remain for the regular program of the day.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

LAST MINUTE SUGGESTION FOR SHOPPER

Does your husband like to sings in the bath tub? Then your last minute Christmas worry is at an end. Buy him one of these Baritone Torches for him to hold aloft while rendering ballads. This torch comes with a convenient electric plug, which, when short circuited with the bath water, instantly stops all singing. Note the long handle, which makes it easy to pass the torch from one member of the family to the other, on Saturday night.

Points of the President's Message

Number 11

Of sundry proposals which Mr. Hoover makes in his annual message to Congress for increasing the power of the presidency, the most unjustifiable and the most dangerous has to do with public works.

Mr. Hoover's passion for power has led him to go far beyond his earlier suggestion that Congress establish a new Department of Public Works and give to its head a seat in the cabinet.

Now Mr. Hoover asks the Congress to create "an independent establishment under the President, to be known as the Public Works Administration, directed by a public works administrator."

This typical Hoover set-up would be independent of the Congress and of all existing executive departments.

It would be dependent upon and entirely subservient to the President himself.

It would remove some of our most important public works from the non-political and most efficient control of the War Department and put them under the dictatorship of a political appointee, selected by and taking orders from Mr. Hoover himself.

It would add to the political pie-counter of the titular leader of the party in power a tremendous amount of patronage that he could dispense to advance his own political ambitions.

It would make the commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy the contractor-in-chief for the non-military part of the federal government's vast program of public works.

It would make every contractor in the land a potential contributor to the presidential campaign fund.

It would increase enormously the power of the presidency at the very time when that is the last thing the Congress ought to do and the last thing the country wants done.

The truth is that the President has altogether too much power now, even when he acts under the Constitution, and does not go outside the Constitution to assume dictatorial power.

Instead of turning over the public works of the federal government to the political exploitation of a presidential candidate for re-election, Congress, under the leadership of the Democratic House of Representatives, should try to reduce the power of the presidency and discourage its future occupants from emulating Mr. Hoover's passion for dictatorial power.

Whatever can be done, without undermining the government of the Constitution, to co-ordinate, expedite, reduce the cost and raise the standard of public works under the federal government, ought to be done. And the President and the Congress should co-operate to that end.

But establishing a federal dictator of public works in the White House is not the way to do it.

Now is the time for Congress to curb Mr. Hoover's passion for more power by rejecting outright his illogical, unjustifiable and dangerous proposal to put the White House into the general contracting business.

The Cut in City Taxes

Council Deserves Ungrudging Praise for the Reduction In the Levy for Next Year.

Credit is due Council for cutting the city tax rate for next year.

The slash of 2½ mills on land and 1¼ on buildings is a Christmas gift that will be appreciated.

Some of the taxpayers' organizations had demanded a 5-mill cut, but it is doubtful if they expected to get it.

If the city were conducted with the same efficiency and economy as the best managed private commercial concerns, it would be possible to cut the levy 5 mills without impairment of the public service.

But it is too much to expect that all the evils that have developed under years of mismanagement and extravagance shall be suddenly discovered and lopped off.

Even as things stand Council faces a difficult task, for it is confronted with the necessity of drastically cutting the budget so that it will not exceed the revenue that the reduced tax rate will yield.

It will take careful thought to slash appropriations without crippling the municipal government.

The thing to do, of course, is to get rid of the drones placed on the payroll for political reasons and curtail or eliminate unessential activities.

This will take courage, but Council has made a good start. It deserves unstinted praise.

'Politics Is Out'

It Should Be "Out" Not Only in Giving Work Relief But in Other Petty State Jobs.

Gov. Pinchot has written to various state officials that "in giving work relief . . . politics is out." Applicants for positions are not even to be questioned about politics. The need of their families is to be the factor which shall determine whether or not they are to be given jobs.

This is, of course, as it should be. It would be hard to imagine Gov. Pinchot's taking any other attitude on the subject, and it reflects no credit on the officials that it has been necessary to warn them against showing partisanship and favoritism.

Politics should be "out" not only in giving work relief but in filling all petty state jobs in which the employed are not called upon to decide questions of policy.

The spoils system is just as undesirable in the administration of the commonwealth as it is in the city and county governments.

Earthquakes

Pennsylvania, Too, Has Been Shaken by Temblors, as Indian's Story Reveals.

Memphis, Tenn., and San Jose, Cal., reported slight earthquakes last week.

To most of us in Pennsylvania earthquakes are only of academic interest, as it seems incredible that our state should ever be shaken.

Yet a story has just come to light of a severe earthquake that occurred in the vicinity of Philadelphia before the coming of the white man.

The Pennsylvania Historical Commission is preparing to publish the statement of Vitapanoxe, a former chief of the Delaware Indians, now living in Oklahoma, concerning the origin of a peculiar ceremony that has been handed down from generation to generation. It seems that centuries ago "the earth opened and belched a sticky black fluid." Crops were destroyed and animals swallowed up, and the ceremony was devised to appease the Pure Spirit.

This may not be merely a legend. The Pennsylvania Geological Survey reports there are indications that an earthquake occurred hundreds of years ago in the section indicated by Vitapanoxe.

We Don't Believe In THIS Santa Claus

By Nelson Harding

A Santa Claus that gives like this
Is one that we shall never miss.
We do not like the "gifts" that he Would hang upon our Christmas tree.

The presents that he gives this year
Are not the kind that bring good cheer,
We wish he would pack up his sack
And take those so-called "presents" back!

Passing the Title

Title, title—who's got the title?

* * *

They are passing titles along out in Hollywood—and everywhere else—just like loving cups.

* * *

Well, these are times of depression, and everybody must practice some sort of economy, I suppose.

* * *

If one imported prince and one guaranteed pre-war marquis can make princesses and marquises out of five or six American girls, THAT is true depression economy.

Titles, like yachts and country homes, are sheer extravagance. It's not so much the initial expense as the upkeep, and very few women can afford the upkeep for long.

* * *

Many a man who sported an imported limousine during the prosperity wha, ha, ha wave, has been glad to turn it in for a flivver that will serve the same purpose at half the price. And doubtless, many a girl who has been a princess or a marquise for a few years is fed up with it and longing to acquire something that is less of a strain on the nerves and the pocketbook.

* * *

Living up to a title is like living up to a tiara or the Hope Diamond. It takes a lot of expensive clothes and liveried servants, and a great mental effort to remember when to broaden your A's, elide your R's and to refrain from getting chummy with the butler.

So many titles have changed hands—and hearts—in the past year that they'll soon have to establish a title-exchange, to save time.

* * *

Being an ex-princess or an ex-marquise is not so bad, when you come to think of it. Like being a widow, it affords you all the glory and the glamour, with none of the responsibilities, trials and disappointments.

* * *

Titles, like heirlooms and antiques, are just as good second-hand or third-hand as first-hand. Their value increases with age and association. And any girl would be proud to be able to brag that she owned a highboy or a title that once belonged to a famous cinema star.

* * *

Some enterprising person ought to open a shop for second-hand titles, slightly used by movie-queens. It would be a RIOT—and you'd have to go early to avoid the rush!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—With the removal of the Morning Telegraph to its new home on West Thirty-sixth street, the last of the cob-webby editorial rooms, with battered desks and paste pots raisin-like with cockroaches, passes. For 29 years its home was an abandoned car barn on Eighth avenue at Fiftieth.

Something about its mercurial green lights bathed it with that mellowness of Washington Square at twilight. Few newspaper shops incubated so many illustrious journalists. Poor in weekly salaries, it was rich in tradition and a place where many laboured for "the love of the game."

The Telegraph crowd ran in a pack. About them was the subtle aura of journalistic adventure. To the world they presented a sardonic front. Editors barked at cubs and scouts were sent on a tour of saloon back rooms at intervals to rescue straying reporters.

No one of talent was ever denied a job and once a member of the staff it was seldom one was fired. In later years it has become chiefly a racing paper. But when it was the theatrical voice of Broadway its haphazard crew would congeal now and then into the gloss of genius and turn out a bang-up paper.

Famous figures floating in and out of the editorial room were Alfred Henry Lewis, Rennold Wolf, Bide Dudley, Roi McCardell, Roy K. Moulton, Leo Marsh, Baird Leonard, Ben Hecht, Herbert Swope, Helen Green, George J. Nathan, Westbrook Pegler, Hugh Kent, Gene Fowler, Jim Barrett, Heywood Broun, C. L. Edson, Howard Cushman and Joe Van Raalte.

I recall a first visit to the Telegraph with a tinge of admiration. A visitor mounted rickety stairs of a tenement. Walls were criss-crossed with a tatter of gaudy lithographs and, to those hatched in discipline, the esprit de corps took on enchanting rowdyism.

The managing editor yanked a bottle of rye from some fusty mysterious cavern for a long swig. Two poker games were in full bloom. Copy boys were shooting craps between editions in a hallway. And from the barn-like depths boomed the full-throated harmonizing of a barber shop quartet.

* * *

My visit to the Telegraph that frost-fringed midnight was in quest of an increasing elusive job. I had come out of the Middle West to a magazine that died a-borning. After casual questioning I was told to report three days later to the chief of what they called "the Sunday side." Another job seemingly of great import, developed on the Evening Mail in the meantime. Yet it has been a regret I did not have a fling on the Telegraph. It is something to which to refer.

* * *

I have it from unquestionable authority that an elderly lady in a Fifth avenue hotel houses 17 dogs in her eight-room apartment. The collection includes three breeds. Pekes, Poms and Scottish terriers. And who could ask for anything more!

* * *

Al Boasberg reports a crew of Australian woodchoppers arriving in Hollywood. They were immediately put to work on movie studio payrolls, he added.

* * *

Antonio Scotti is the grand old-young man of the Metropolitan. For 30 years his rich Neapolitan baritone has flooded the ancient rafters and, today nearing 70, he could pass for 50. Few artists have held popular favor so continuously nor been so extravagantly fertile in friendships. He has seen a score of stars flash across the operatic horizon and vanish, been stabbed by a hundred Toscas (or does Tosca stab baritones?), took a thousand curtain bows and still thrills like a school boy over his various roles.

* * *

Paul Frawley, the juvenile, in the throes of lumbago, ran across Rube Goldberg in London several years ago. Rube recommended some pills which Frawley took faithfully and without success for many months, finally getting relief at an European spa. The other evening they met at a party and Goldberg was hobbling about with lumbar trouble. "I see you are still sticking to your pills," flipped Frawley.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"Would you help a feller that's hungry, Mister?"

Could you gimme the price of a night's sleep. Honest, I ain't had a decent night's sleep for a week."

How many times in the last weeks have you heard those questions? Dozens of times, perhaps, if you live in a big city. Most everywhere you look, desperate need. Men shuffling in bread lines, under the stinging rain. Men huddled by the railroad tracks, bending over make-shift fires as your warm train flies past. Men reaching hands from the shadows, peering with dreadful eyes.

Everywhere, need. And when you first began to see it, some weeks ago, it made you sick with pity. Poor devils!—you'd give them anything, without question—dime, a quarter, a dollar—anything to stop those reaching hands, those peering eyes.

But now, perhaps, you're not quite as touched. You no longer feel such shocked pity. You may even be asking certain resentful questions. After all, why should you help fellows like that, who didn't help themselves when they could? The very old or the very young and the crippled—they deserve charity, yes. But why should the rest of them expect help? Why didn't they work and save when they had a chance, like you did? You wanted to be lazy, too. You wanted to throw your money around. But you plugged along, while they loafed. WHY SHOULD YOU HELP THEM NOW?

Not a new question. All the generations have asked it, since Need began. And 19 centuries ago, One gave the answer to that question.

They had been complaining, too, saintly men though they were, those disciples of Jesus. Why was He so impulsive, so impractical? Why didn't He rebuke those who so plainly needed rebuke? Those Samaritan beggars, for instance. Anyone could see they were a bunch of lazy rogues, loafing while honest men worked. And yet He would have thrifty workers give charity to such! But why? Why should any man enjoy that which he had not earned?

So hearing them muttering, Jesus answered:

What did they mean, said He, with that simple but dangerous smile, by speaking of "that which a man earned?" Did they flatter themselves that they, the provident and righteous ones, had earned all they enjoyed? Did not they know that they profited by the work of other men as surely as the beggar that lay by the road? Did they not realize that they often received blessings of which they were not worthy and enjoyed service which they had not deserved?

"ONE SOWETH AND ANOTHER REAPETH," said He. "I SENT YOU TO REAP THAT WHEREON YE BESTOWED NO LABOR. OTHER MEN LABORED AND YE ARE ENTERED INTO THEIR LABOR."

* * *

Why should you help? Because you have received help. Why should you give? Because other men have given to you.

All that you have, all that you are, is the gift of countless laborers, living and dead. "our material possessions and conveniences, your knowledge, your philosophy, your standards of living were achieved, not by your efforts, but by the struggles and sacrifices, the dreams and prayers, the tears and furies of millions of men you have not seen. You could not possibly have done all this for yourself and, no matter how hard you may labor, you will still be a beggar, you will still die in debt.

And yet today you give a dollar to the world's pitiful need and call yourself generous!

FOR THE SAKE OF THOSE WHO HELPED YOU, PASS IT ON!

A Statistical Picture On Capacity to Pay

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The debate among the Republicans in Congress on the charge of their recent chairman of the Committee on Banking that the President "sold out" the country in the matter of the debts is interesting, if not important, and the Democrats are wisely taking no part. More distressing to the administration and the international bankers is the attack by Senator Reed upon the evidently intended transfer of the debts from the people who owe them to the taxpayers of this country.

It is conceded that no man on the Republican side in the Senate is the intellectual superior of Reed, and he has few equals. His affiliations and associations have been such that he would naturally be expected to support the administration on any plan designed to assist the bankers in the matter of the bad loans they entered into with open eyes. When he says that the very idea is "a piece of outrageous effrontery," he throws a bomb into the administration camp.

Moratorium Is Being Attacked

The one-year moratorium is being attacked both in the House and Senate, though many who do not like it, because of the attitude of the debtor nations since it was extended, will vote to ratify, because, in a sense, the country is pledged. But the controversy should impress upon the President the fact that hereafter when he proposes anything requiring the consent of Congress he must follow the American and the constitutional way and summon Congress into extra session during a recess, to get its sanction in a legal manner.

There are people in America despising representative and popular government who resent the idea that the representatives of the people should have anything to say about matters affecting them. That is an issue we are very glad to have discussed in Congress and in the workshops and the corn rows. If this no longer is a government "of the people, by the people and for the people," we want to know it, and know how the new situation came about.

The reason Mr. Hoover resorted to an extraordinary and extra-constitutional method of getting the consent of Congress on the moratorium was that he wanted no discussion, no embarrassing questions and no consideration of the depression as it vitally affects millions of Americans out of jobs and forced to eat the bread of charity.

* * *

Jackson's Message To Congress

The insulting attacks upon America by the press of the debtor nations because Americans are not quite the "suckers" that Bernard Shaw says we are, are not calculated to create any great enthusiasm among robust, red-blooded Americans for the transfer of the debts from them to us. The French papers are particularly offensive and insulting. It is not the first time.

Many years ago, when that premier American, Andrew Jackson, was President, we had a similar experience. He had negotiated with France a settlement of the French spoliation claims. France agreed to pay, after refusing to pay for many years, and, as a concession, we agreed to permit French wines to come in duty free.

The American Congress promptly played its part and the wines came in, but when the French Parliament met it made no appropriation for the payment on the debts. Another and still another session passed without action, and Jackson sent Edward Livingston across as minister to demand the payment. It was refused. Jackson sent a ringing message to Congress; the deputies in France and the press then set the precedent for the attacks being made upon us now; diplomatic relations were broken off, preparations for a war of defense were made in Washington—and France paid.

If there is any reason under the sun why France, the most prosperous nation on the globe, cannot pay her debt, we should like to know it, and if there is any reason why the American people who have hit bottom economically, with millions jobless, with many more millions depending on charity, with taxes rising, and a deficit of $2,000,000,000, should take over the burden of the debt of prosperous France, we would like to know that, too.

* * *

Isn't International Finance Wonderful!

We are hearing so much now about the utter impossibility of payment from the debtor nations as an excuse for the planned-for cancellation that some figures are interesting and most illuminating. Thus:

Under the moratorium for the one year France would have paid $50,000,000 on her debt; she could not do that, but she did spend $547,133,935 on increasing her armament that year.

Great Britain could not pay the $159,520,000 due us, but she could and did spend $608,024,880 on armament.

Belgium could not possibly pay the $7,950,000 she owed us, but she had no trouble raising the $23,247,347 she spent on armament.

Italy would have been wrecked had she paid us the $14,706,000 due us on the debt, but it was not impossible for her to spend $332,337,000 on increasing armaments.

Rumania would have been ruined had she paid us the $800,000 she owed us on a debt of honor, but this did not restrain her from spending $67,061,000 for implements of war.

And so on with the other nations, which, in the aggregate, were relieved for a year by the moratorium of the payment of $243,712,000 on the loans that came from the pockets of the American people, but they could and did have no trouble and no embarrassment in spending $1,779,346,162 for armament!

Isn't international finance wonderful and strange?

* * *

The Press Of France

In these days it is unfortunate and worse for the press of any of the countries of the world to indulge in sword rattling and in insults; but the press of France, the most prosperous nation on the globe, with her budget balanced, with enormous hoards of gold, with scarcely any unemployment, implies a determination not to pay what is due us, and couples this with insults to the American Congress; it is time to recall the phrase that once made American blood tingle: "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute."

* * *

Peek Behind The Curtain

We shall soon know, thanks to Congress, something about the loans of the international bankers which are behind all the attempts to shift the tax burdens of other nations to the patient Americans. The other day in the Senate Mr. Smoot baldly stated that the "State Department has never approved of a private foreign loan at any time in its history," and Carter Glass replied:

"That certainly cannot relate to bank loans to private individuals because the State Department has persistently, over a period of two years, asserted the right to do that very thing, although unable to point out the statutory authorization for it. Why did the Senate of the United States at the last session adopt a resolution condemning the activities of the State Department in that respect, and why did the Secretary of State on the day following issue a semi-official statement to the effect that he was going to disregard the action of the Senate in adopting that resolution?"

It is time the people of America, who are asked to pay the bill, shall have a peek behind the curtain to see what has been going on under this Administration.

New $160,000 Building Opened by Bank in Squirrel Hill

SQUIRREL HILL GETS NEW BANK BUILDING

$160,000 Murray Avenue Branch Structure Opened By Peoples-Pgh. Trust

The new $160,000 building of the Squirrel Hill Branch, People's-Pittsburgh Trust Company, Forbes street, near Murray avenue, was opened to the public yesterday. A branch of the bank has been located two doors from the new building since June, 1926.

Work on the new building was started last January.

The exterior of the building is faced with granite while the interior has walls and decorations of marble. In addition to the main banking floor there are consultation rooms, coupon rooms and private rooms for safe deposit box owners. A community room is available to clubs and organizations of Squirrel Hill. The bank believes that this will promote community spirit and better business in the district.

The safe deposit vault of the new building has walls and doors two and a half feet thick. Ventilation of the vault is supplied by an electric fan in the side wall. The opening for the fan has a small vault door that contains all the safety features of the large door. This is to prevent entrance to the vault through the air passage. The small door contains a combination lock, electric timing and a vault alarm.

The branch is under the management of A. M. Guy, who has a staff of 15 employes. Charles R. Webb is assistant manager.

John O. Miller, vice president of the bank, explained that it was built in anticipation of the future. He said:

"We have erected the new building in order to handle our growing business in Squirrel Hill. It is a larger building than we now need, but we are looking into the future. In the next 10 years we believe that our business will warrant such a building."

PITT DEAN GOES TO RUTGERS

Rutgers University has elected Robert C. Clothier, dean of men of the University of Pittsburgh, as president, to take office March 1. The election was announced last week by the board of trustees at a meeting in New Brunswick, N. J. Dean Clothier will succeed Dr. John M. Thomas, who resigned late in 1930.

Clothier, who came to the University of Pittsburgh late in 1929, said upon being notified of his election:

"I am honored by the board's action and am looking forward to my work at Rutgers and to my new associations there. However, when the time comes for me to leave Pitt I shall do so with many personal regrets."

Dean Clothier was born in Philadelphia and was graduated from Princeton.

Squirrel Hill Trade Board Hears Rabbi

Rabbi B. Benedict Glazer, of Rodef Shalom Temple, was guest speaker at Monday night's meeting of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade in the assembly room of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Forbes street and Murray avenue.

The meeting included discussion of the organization's year's work. It was reported by the relief committee that more than 100 families had received help during the winter months.

Cantatas by Choirs, School Parties on Week's Program

This week will be marked by special Christmas programs by East communitiy churches, schools and clubs. The significance of Christmas was the topic in many of the churches Sunday and will be emphasized next Sunday, according to programs already announced.

At the morning service in the East End Christian Church, Dr. John Ray Ewers delivered the second in his series of Yuletide sermons, "The Old, Old Story." An augmented choir presented the musical program with Mrs. Charles Aufhammer as soloist.

In the evening, the young people of the church enacted a Christmas play, "The Dust of the Road."

CANTATA PRESENTED

"Glad Tidings" was the theme of Sunday morning's service at Mount Zion Lutheran Church, South Evaline street. In the evening the choir, under the direction of Myron G. Thompson, presented its annual Christmas cantata, "The World's Redeemer."

Tomorrow night, the Sunday school will present its annual program of Christmas songs and story pageant.

The Rev. Harold John Ockenga's sermon Sunday at the Point Breeze Presbyterian Church was "Jesus, the Son of a Virgin."

Westminster Night will be observed at this church tomorrow by the Young People's Society. Tod Sterling, of the Westminster Seminary, will speak, followed by the pageant, "The Christmas Image."

CHURCH SCHOOL FETES

The church schools of the Methodist, Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches of Wilmerding will hold their Christmas entertainments tomorrow night. The program at the Methodist Church will be directed by Elsie Morrison. Miss Sarah B. Ridinger, Mrs. L. E. Cattell, Mrs. Ernest Sheetz and Miss Hazel Taylor.

"Mother Baker's Christmas" is the play to be given by the Presbyterian Church group. The cast includes Mrs. J. S. Hughes, Mrs. Norman Beck, Allan Graham, Alex Trecht and Harry Poole.

On Christmas Eve, the choir of the Wilmerding Lutheran Church will give a cantata, "Come Ye to Bethlehem."

A "White Gift" Christmas service will be presented tomorrow night in Homestead Park Methodist Episcopal Church, in which the pageant, "The Shepherds' Vision," will be enacted. More than 35 members of the Sunday school will take part in the pageant, which is under the direction of Miss Hilda Whitehouse.

Other members of the committee include Mrs. Martha Sharp, Mrs. Marian Richards, Mrs. Sam Barrett, Mrs. Emory Berger, Miss Elizabeth Punton, Charles Helsley, John Cadman, David Dixon, Mrs. O. F. Manning, J. H. Percival and Mrs. Samuel Jack.

Service Star Legion To Induct Officers

East Liberty Chapter of Service Star Legion will install officers tonight, following a business session in the East Liberty Y. W. M. A. building. The new officers are Mrs. William Staple, president; Mrs. Charles Collins, vice president; Mrs. Nelly Jenkins, secretary; Mrs. Carrie Brown, treasurer, and Mrs. Margaret Mansel, chaplain.

International Group Holds Yule Meeting

The International Women's League, International Institute, Y. W. C. A., held their regular meeting last Wednesday in the institute's home, 405 South Dithridge street. Games appropriate to Christmas time were played.

Mrs. T. Starzinski was chairman, assisted by Miss Emma Meyer, Miss Rifka Haddaa, Mrs. K. Unkovich and Mrs. M. Lipanovic.

Wilmerding Boy Attends School Bearing Own Name

Every morning when Edward Fritchey, 9, of 622-A Middle avenue, Wilmerding, goes to school, he sees an oil painting of his grandfather, John Henry Gottwals, hanging high in the front hall of the school building that bears his name, at Bridge street, Wilmerding.

Next September, when the fall school term opens, another grandchild, Jean Fritchey, 4½, will attend kindergarten at the same school.

The District No. 2 Wilmerding school was named for Mr. Gottwals shortly after his death on April 22, 1923. The portrait which hangs there was painted by George Howard Matthews, an art instructor at Turtle Creek Union High School, where Mr. Gottwals was school director for many years. He was also a director of the Wilmerding schools for nearly 18 years.

The portrait was unveiled, with dedication ceremonies, on Washington's Birthday in 1924. Prof. C. W. Shaffer, of the Wilmerding schools; Prof. W. W. Lantz, of Turtle Creek Union High School; Chris Horrocks, now deceased, the oldest veteran of the Westinghouse Airbrake, and numerous townspeople spoke at the dedication. The other two schools in Wilmerding were named at the same time for George Westinghouse and Chris Horrocks.

Mr. Gottwals was one of the oldest veterans of the Westinghouse Airbrake, serving continuously for 42 years. At the death of George Westinghouse in 1914, the family silver plate was distributed among his early associates and Mr. Gottwals received the silver sugar bowl, which is now a prized possession of Mrs. Kathryn Fritchey, his youngest daughter.

NINE MILE RUN BOULEVARD SPEEDED

N. Homestead Trade Board Seeks Early Construction Of Link to Squirrel Hill

Construction of the Nine-Mile Run boulevard, joining North Homestead with Squirrel Hill, will be principal objective on the 1932 calendar of activities of the North Homestead Board of Trade, which was successful this year in having City Council pass an ordinance designating the route of the proposed highway.

When representatives of the board and other East borough civic organizations approached Council, President John S. Herron informed them that the city has the money to begin work.

Under present plans, the boulevard would be laid from Forward avenue and Beechwood boulevard, passing Frick Park and ending at Braddock and Monongahela avenues, North Homestead.

The officers who will carry on the board's program next year are Thomas J. Horrocks, president; Mrs. Harold Allerton, Carl Broberg and Mrs. Thomas O'Connor, vice presidents; Mrs. Horrocks, secretary, and Elmer Hasley, treasurer.

ENGINEERS TO GO TO PARIS

Four engineers of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company have been honored by invitations to present technical papers at the International Electrical Congress, to be held in Paris in June, 1932.

Joseph Slepian's subject will be "Interruption of Power Arcs," C. L. Fortescue will discuss "Lightning and Its Effects," and R. D. Evans and Charles Wagner will cooperate in the preparation of a paper on "Stability of Power Systems."

A similar congress was held in Paris in 1881. Several French technical societies, working with the International Electrotechnical Commission, have planned the 1932 meeting in commemoration of the first.

All industrial nations of the world have been invited to participate. The invitations came to the Westinghouse engineers direct from the French committee.

Tech Sophomore Hop January 8

Carnegie Tech's annual sophomore hop will be held in Thistle Hall, January 8, as a result of the decision to change the original date set for December 11, according to an announcement by the hop committee, headed by James Halferty. The ballroom is in the new Union.

The committee includes Bradley Edelburt, Jack Hiltz and Mary Husband.

2 SCOUTS GIVEN EAGLE BADGES

Two East End Scouts, William Schnabel and Burgin Digby, 14, one of the youngest Scouts in the Pittsburgh district to receive such an honor, were awarded Eagle Scout badges at a court of honor Thursday night in B'Nai Israel Synagogue. Scoutmaster J. W. Katz, of Troop 3, presented the awards.

Invocation was given by Rabbi B. A. Lichter. Dr. J. H. Morvis, committeeman of Troop 3, gave the address of welcome, and the Scout Council message was given by C. T. Harnack, district commissioner.

Choir to Repeat Midnight Mass Program

Because of the great numbers who crowd the midnight Christmas mass at Sacred Heart Church, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Coakley, has advised the congregation that the Christmas music by the Sacred Heart Choristers and ceremonial would be repeated 11 o'clock Christmas morning at a solemn high mass.

Father Coakley explained that the morning service was for the benefit of members of the congregation who fear the crush of the midnight attendance.

The choir will sing in medieval costume.

STORES FILLED WITH HOLIDAY BARGAINS

'Last-Minute' Rush to Buy Yuletide Gifts 'Under Way As Sales Show Big Gains

East End and East borough merchants and Christmas shoppers have found a way to lick old man depression. Merchandise has been priced lower this year to meet the leaner pocketbooks of these less lavish days and as shopping days get fewer sales are increasing sharply.

Consequently, the East Liberty district and business sections of Wilkinsburg, Homestead, Braddock and all other East communities have been thronged with shopping crowds as large as in former years, with the greatest rush of bargain hunters expected to fill the stores for last-minute purchases today, tomorrow and Thursday.

The trend this holiday season is toward utilitarian gifts particularly wearing apparel, personal accessories, furniture and other household articles.

Candy sales are reported good, while the harassed husband or suitor also is buying hardware and jewelry this year, sales indicate.

Flower sales are expected to speed up Christmas eve. Fancy foodstuffs are just as popular this year as ever, and are being combined in baskets and hampers by merchants for welcome gifts.

The toys this year are designed not merely to be looked at, but to educate as well. Games and puzzles and sets which permit application of a creative ability have surpassed in popularity the mechanical toys.

SCHOOLS CLOSE THURSDAY

Preparations for Christmas are being completed by the East District schools before closing Thursday for the Christmas vacations. All schools with household economy departments have made useful articles for the children of veterans in the Aspinwall and Marine Hospitals. This week the household economy department members of the Board of Education, in co-operation with the Junior League of the Red Cross, have sent out 350 of these boxes to children of all ages.

All the kindergartens in the East District are decorating Christmas trees in their schools for special programs tomorrow. The trees have been supplied by the Board of Education. Ornaments have been made by the children as a part of their regular work.

Each child also has made two Christmas presents. These are to be given to their parents.

When the schools resume, January 4, preparations will begin for the mid-year examinations. The first semester of the school year will close February 2 and the new semester will begin the following day.

'Mail-Order Voting' Plan Proposed in Wilkinsburg

"Mail-order voting" is the plan advanced by H. A. Crossman, 61 325 Pitt street, Wilkinsburg, who has been on the election board for 14 years.

He and a group of his friends have been working out the plan and believe it would do away with intimidation of voters and other evils at the polls and would increase the number of ballots cast.

Each eligible voter would be mailed a ballot that would have his name and a number stamped on it and would also have a duplicate stub, under the plan. A record of this would be kept at the borough clerk's office. The voter then could take his time in mailing the signed ballot when it was filled out.

Crossman thinks that this system would better voting conditions. He said:

"Only 25 per cent of the eligible voters now take advantage of their privilege in Wilkinsburg. This is because of a certain group who intimidate many who would like to vote. With the new system, this would be remedied and I believe the percentage would increase to 85, and the voting would be fairer."

WAY CLEAR FOR HOMESTEAD BRIDGE

Bill Giving Right of Way To County for New Span Gets Borough's Approval

Homestead Council has made its first legal move toward securing the proposed Pittsburgh-Homestead high level bridge, with its passage Friday, on first reading, of an ordinance giving Allegheny County the right of way for the bridge. The ordinance was enacted as a special meeting called by President J. M. Hoffa.

P. H. McCullough, solicitor, presented the ordinance in behalf of J. M. Wilson, special engineer, to whom the ordinance had been given by the legal department of the county.

Plans for the new bridge have progressed rapidly during the past five weeks, during which the County Commissioners, while the preparation of bills to be presented to Congress asking federal approval of the project.

The bridge will cost approximately $3,500,000, it is believed estimated. It was pointed out Friday that considerable property in the Homestead district will be damaged together with the property along Fifth avenue.

BRIDGE PYLON BIDS OPENED

The County Commissioners have opened bids for construction of the granite pylons and railings for the new George Westinghouse Memorial Bridge crossing the Turtle Creek Valley at East Pittsburgh.

The lowest bid for the pylons was submitted by S. M. Seibel Company for $89,750. The Pressed Steel Car Company was the low bidder for the railings at $28,682. Another bid for a different type railing was submitted by the same company for $30,122.

MONESSEN HIGH, HOMESTEAD IN HEADLINER

School Fives to Clash in Week's Basketball Feature Friday; Other Teams Busy

By JULIUS LEVIN

High school basketball teams in the East End section face a busy schedule of basketball games this week with several former W. P. I. A. L. sectional champions slated for action.

The headliner of the week is scheduled at Monessen Friday night when Bill Campbell takes his Homestead High passers to the Monongahela valley town to oppose Coach Preston Ditts's shoot-n-working floor machine. Both teams are former W. P. I. A. L. champions and seldom fail to play a prominent part in the sectional championships.

This year's teams at Homestead and Monessen compare favorably with the best ever turned out by those high schools and their battle Friday night should prove a thriller from start to finish.

Another high-class battle is scheduled tonight at Wilkinsburg when Coach Elmer Carroll sends his charges against New Kensington, state champion of two years ago. Carl Glock has the knack of turning out winning teams consistently and this season's club is no exception. Another important contest on tonight's program finds Swissvale at Rankin to oppose Jock Rosenberg's powerful quintet. Greensburg at Scott High, North Braddock, Clairton at Waynesburg and Homestead at Mt. Lebanon.

Homestead already holds a victory over Mt. Lebanon and Campbell's team will be out to make it two straight.

Dick Tolino's Munhall aggregation plays a return engagement with the Deaf Mute aggregation at Munhall tonight. Munhall experienced no trouble in defeating the Edgewood boys last week.

Shots and Passes

Schenley High School, coached by Walter Gross, is eager to arrange games abroad with first-class high school teams during the holidays. Dates may be arranged by calling the school between 3 and 4 o'clock.

Elmer Carroll, coach at Wilkinsburg High, had a personal foul called on him by the traffic cop stationed at Sixth and Grant streets on Saturday. Carroll failed to heed a traffic signal and was called for it. No doubt, Elmer had his mind on the point system at the time.

One of the best shots in local high school circles this season is Joe Biddoes, of Homestead. This boy can ring up baskets from any section of the court. He will bear watching in the battles with Mt. Lebanon and Monessen this week.

That Taylor Allderdice is going to cut quite a figure in the Section 1 race of the City League, is the opinion of the supporters of the team. Taylor Allderdice, coached by John Irwin, defeated the Pitt Freshmen and then gave Homestead an interesting fight until it was forced to bow in defeat, 24-17.

Hugh Lambie, who formerly coached at South Hills High, should have a fine team at Peabody this season. The East Enders showed a lot of class against Jock Rosenberg's Kanaly quintet, losing by only a single point.

Scott High, of North Braddock, winner of the state championship last season, is negotiating for a game with Lower Merion in Lower Merion during the holidays. It was this team that Scott defeated at the Stadium to win the state laurels last season. Harrisburg and Steelton will be played on the same trip.

Jim (Hank) Hudson has developed a team at Braddock this season that is expected to make a determined bid for its sectional title. Braddock has shown a lot of class in the pre-season conference. The W. P. I. A. L. competition does not get under way until January 5.

SCHOOL SPORTS UPHELD

The uses of athletics in high schools are greater than their abuses, in the opinion of W. Lantz, principal of Turtle Creek Union High School. He told the forty-third meeting of Allegheny County school directors last week that:

"The benefits derived both physically and mentally, together with the splendid training for future leisure, are enough to justify American athletics.

"Of course the system has its faults. The money, particularly in college athletics, is harmful. At times the desire to win is followed by injuries, bad sportsmanship and physical 'burning out.'"

223 Attend New Penn Township School

Classes were held last week for the first time in the new William McKinley School, Center avenue and Seventh street, Penn Township, with six of the eight rooms occupied by 223 pupils from the Point Breeze district.

HOME CHILDREN GIVE PLAY

Children of the Industrial Home for Crippled Children presented "The Triumph of St. Nicholas" in Carnegie Music Hall Friday. This was the ninth annual cantata to be given by the children.

In addition the children gave "The Nativity," words and music for which were written by the pupils of the intermediate grades.

This year's production was directed by Miss Frances E. Shirley, superintendent of the school.

Good News for Little Girls!
The SUN-TELEGRAPH

DOLL LADY

Is going to extend the distribution of the Big

"Honeybunch"

Dolls until New Year's week. This has been made necessary on account of the great last-minute demand for this adorable Doll.

Eileen Mooney, Aged 2 Years, Elizabeth Street, Homestead Park.

The above little girl has her "Honeybunch" for Christmas

Read the Doll Lady's Message Today!

Dear Little Girls:—

I never realized that there were so many, many names for girls until looked over the list today of those who had already received my big, adorable "Honeybunches." I wasn't at all surprised that there are more girl named Mary than any other. Mary is a sweet old name to be adored and cherished for all time. Betty seems to be a mighty popular name. Then there are Janes, Junes, and Joans, Lou, Louise and Lois, Marilyn, Beverly, Mae, Martha, Irene, Rita, Rose, Eileen, Leona, Peggy, Madge, Margaret, Dorothy, Mercedes, Helen, Patricia, Angeline, Regina, Josephine, Ann, Freda, Esther, Gloria, Clara, Elizabeth, Natalie, Loretta, Agnes, Rosalie, Alice, Elsie, Lillian, Emily, Clarabelle, Eleanore, Isabelle, Selma, Phyllis, Catherine, Kathryn, and Kathleen, Mildred, Antionette, Bertha, Erma, Joyce, Arline, Emma, Edith, Jennie, Thelma, Lola, Celia, Rosemary, Shirley, Virginia, Gene, Lea, Doris, Wanda, Roxy and others too numerous to mention. I'm not so sure about it, but I don't think that the boys cannot find as many names as the girls and, anyway, the girls' names all seem to be prettier.

Well, getting away from these interesting names, I still want to tell you that I am buried in work. But it is enjoyable work because it is bringing sunshine and happiness to so many little girls who might not otherwise have it for the holidays.

As I have so often told you, "Honeybunch" is just a big, gorgeous beautiful doll—DIFFERENT from all other dolls. She's richly dressed in organdy, has sweet dimples, a smile of sunshine, rubber hands and arms that can be bathed, rubber panties, a pacifier, and your heart will warm right up to "Honeybunch" when you hear her voice. She is almost as tall as the newspaper page is long—almost too big for many little girls. "Honeybunch" makes a wonderful playmate.

Now if you want a "Honeybunch" send me your name and address by mail today and I'll write and tell you how you can have a big, adorable dolly before the holidays are over. But you must not delay if you want "Honeybunch."

MISS JEANNE RENEE CHEZ

SCHOOL ANNEX 50 YEARS OLD

Pittsburgh still has a two-room red brick school house, now known as the Roosevelt Annex, Beechwood boulevard, near Hazelwood avenue. It was built in 1882 and until 10 years ago was known as Colfax School No. 2. Before Beechwood boulevard was built it was on Saline avenue.

Very few changes have been made in the original building. A furnace has replaced the two coal stoves formerly in use, and modern desks and plumbing have taken their places in the "old red school house."

The first teachers in the building were Miss Florence Stephenson and Miss Amie Moore. The school's enrollment has remained at approximately 88 pupils.

Grades 4 A and B are now taught in the building by Mrs. Irene Smith and Miss Adelaide Jackson.

TRAVEL TALK AT Y. M. C. A.

"Czechoslovakia at Christmas Time" was the eighth travel talk program sponsored by the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. Monday night in the association building. The program was made possible through the co-operation of Milan Getting, Czechoslovakian consul in Pittsburgh.

The program included folk songs by Miss Norma B. Cibula, illustrated talk by the Rev. Frank Svacha; motion pictures and a lobby display. T. A. Robinson, chairman of the educational committee of the "Y," presided.

Bethel Brotherhood In Braddock Elects

At the annual meeting of the Brotherhood of Bethel Swedish Lutheran Church, Braddock, officers for 1932 were elected as follows: President, Victor Carlson; vice president, Victor Johnson; secretary, Wilbert Anderson; treasurer, S. Johnson; auditors, Melvin Nelson and Richard Nelson.

John Burkman and Andrew Carlson, two of the oldest members of the brotherhood, told of the history of Braddock.

A. Z. A. to Mark Sixth Anniversary

In celebration of the Sixth International A. Z. A. Day, the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Aleph Zadik Aleph, Junior Order of the B'Nai B'rith, presented a program at the Y. M. & W. H. A. Sunday afternoon.

The program was arranged by the newly-elected Aleph Godol of the chapter, Joseph S. Hepner. Harry Caplan was chairman.

Braddock Women Plan Benefit Dance

The Junior Woman's Club of Braddock will hold a benefit dance January 1, in the Knights of Columbus Home, money to be used in the club's relief work. Miss Florence Davis will entertain the club next Monday evening at her home, 807 Fourth street, Braddock.

Concert January 17 By Choral Society

The Y. M. & W. H. A. Choral Society will present its opening concert of the new year January 17. The program will include Negro spirituals, Hebrew and Czecho-Slovakian folk songs. Harvey Gaul is director of the society.

Traffic Signal Operated by Pedestrians

The Bureau of Traffic Planning has installed a new traffic signal at Second avenue and Elizabeth street, Hazelwood, which is controlled by pedestrians. Traffic on Second avenue is given the right of way by a light that is normally green, the light may be changed to red by pedestrians by pressing buttons on the traffic light poles.

If this signal light proves successful, a similar light will be installed at Second and Hazelwood avenues, according to City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre.

5 ARTISTS SHOW PAINTINGS

Miss Jeanne Renee Chez, of 208 North Lang avenue, hostess at the first annual exhibit of the Oil and Water Color Club, at Gilbert's, 632 Smithfield street, reports that East End visitors to the exhibit display the greatest curiosity. It has been largely because of their comment that the sponsors of the exhibit believe it to be a success.

The club is composed of five young Pittsburgh artists who decided on an experiment to learn whether Pittsburgh people appreciate paintings enough to want to purchase them. Their exhibit has resulted.

The members of the club include Paul O. Bower, Joseph Durson, Everett W. Glasgow, Robert Reamy and I. T. Sharp.

Byers Art Exhibit To Open January 7

January 7, 1932, will be the opening date of the exhibition of paintings assembled by the late Alexander McBurney Byers, at Carnegie Institute. The collection will include such famous names as Van Dyck, Rubbens, Rembrandt, Hals, Gainsborough, Constable, Moreland, Romney, Reynolds, Raeburn and Corot.

Showing of these paintings has been made possible by Mrs. J. Denniston Lyon, E. M. Byers and J. Frederick Byers, heirs of A. M. Byers.

East Pittsburgh Names Fire Heads

Fred Pipolo is the new president of the East Pittsburgh Fire Department as a result of elections held last week in the municipal building. Other officers are William Jarrity, vice president; B. J. Simon, secretary; William Stack, treasurer, and Albert Forenfen, trustee.

Charles Stack was re-elected chief of the volunteer department.

20th Century Club Hears French Critic

Leon Vallas of the French Sorbonne and the Conservatory of Music, Paris, lectured Saturday night in the Twentieth Century Club for the Pittsburgh group of the Alliance Francaise. The speaker is a writer of note on the theater and music of the seventeenth century. His subject was "Moliere la Musique et le Cinema."

Kiwanians Hear Mine Safety Talk

Graham Bright, of the Mine Safety Appliances Company, described inventions that have increased safety in mining and allied industrial work, at last week's meeting of the Wilkinsburg Kiwanis Club. Jake Meyers and William Meyer were in charge of the meeting.

Coraopolis Girl To Wed Teacher

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Adams, of Coraopolis, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jane Adams, to Archy T. Schrock, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Schrock, of Avalon. Mr. Schrock is a teacher in the Edgewood High School.

The Mendelssohn Choir of Pittsburgh will sing the "Messiah," first performed in Dublin in 1742, tonight in Carnegie Music Hall. Guest soloists will include Martha Roberts, soprano; Nevada Van der Veer, contralto; Harold Haugh, tenor; Eddy Nelson, bass.

Ernest Lunt is conductor, and Earl Mitchell will accompany at the organ. Mrs. J. D. McIntyre is manager.

BLIND CHILDREN IN YULE FETE

The Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street, presented its annual Christmas program Friday afternoon at the school. The program included songs by the kindergarten group; recitations by Charles Wims, Homer Schauer and Edith Shumar; a duet by Eileen and Maxine Newcomer and songs and carols by the kindergarten group.

A musical play was featured on the program, entitled "The Toy Shop." Characters included Mary Ann O'Donnell, Mary Carruba, Harold Bleakley, Joseph Korowiczki, Anthony Grassi, George Zerr, Alfred Shumar, Jay Erwin, Mary Bolombini, Mary Baroni, Magdalaine Lyon, Doris Dille, Marie Rupert, William McBurney, Leonard Staisey, James Wright, Thelma Rodgers, Nellie Stokes, Anna Hudak, Josephine Swietak, Pauline Kociban, Elsie Motta, Shirley Heuston, Bernice Riley, Nellie Serafino, John Drake, Junior McCracken, Frank Raffaeli, Joseph Roop, William Dolinski, William Sporsic and James Hood.

4th Ward Benefit For Needy Tonight

The women's division of the Fourth Ward Relief Association will hold a card party tonight in Hotel Schenley for the benefit of needy families of the ward. Officers of the newly organized club are Howard Neely, general chairman; State Senator James J. Coyne, vice chairman; John A. Freyvogel, secretary, and O. C. Young, treasurer.

East End Vassar Girl Plays Lead In Greek Play

Miss M. Rosalind Wickander, 900 South Negley avenue, played the lead part of a Troezenian woman in the play "Hippolytus," presented by the Vassar College Experimental Theater last week.

Miss Frani Blough, 4811 Howe street, was a member of the technical staff in charge of setting. The play was given in the original Greek and the cast was made up from faculty members and students of the college.

Blough are both members of Miss Wickander and Miss the Vassar junior class.

LAUNCH DRIVE FOR NEEDY

Securing aid for 600 needy families in the Fourteenth Ward is the object of a drive launched by the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade, plans for which were completed at a special meeting of the trade organization last week under the leadership of President Thomas O. Hasley.

George W. Luppon is chairman of the committee which will conduct the drive. Other members are P. F. Casey, Mrs. Margaret Meanor, George Russler, Lewis Schwartz and Margaret Frew.

TWO BOYS, GIRL PUBLISH PAPER

Three youthful East End journalists are publishing a weekly community paper called The Glen Arden Bugle, the little paper with the big toot. Donald L. Miller, 13, son of D. Edwin Miller, principal of Peabody High School, is editor-in-chief of the miniature sheet.

Hunter Davidson, 13, a freshman at Peabody and a prize winner in the recent Better Traffic essay contest, is business manager, and Muriel McKaig, 13, stepdaughter of M. B. Holland, vice president of the Pittsburgh Peoples Trust Company, Squirrel Hill branch, is managing editor of the one-page weekly.

The paper, published every Monday by the three 13-year-old owners and publishers, consists of three columns of editorial, news and fiction and advertising matter. The first three issues, beginning November 16, were typewritten by the staff of three with carbon copies for circulation.

As circulation mounted to 50 subscribers, mimeographing became necessary.

A special Christmas edition of two pages was issued by the editors Monday.

132 JOBLESS GET DIPLOMAS

The adage about "all work and no play" doesn't apply to the 132 "pupils" who received their certificates of merit last Friday at the Wilmerding Christian Association's School for Unemployed. These young men and women, temporarily out of work for the past six weeks have been going to school. Friday was commencement day.

The exercises were held in the association's auditorium. C. W. Shaffer, chairman of the educational committee, presided, and Scott W. Rudy presented the certificates that indicate satisfactory completion of the courses taught at the school.

James A. Ralston, president of the association, thanked the teachers, all of whom gave their service to the school.

A "CO-ED" and Her Mother AMONG HOBOES

WHEN Jane Peploton, "co-ed" at New York University, started out on a long tramping trip, last summer, with her mother, she had no idea that their tour across the country and back would turn into an expedition among hoboes. But it did because the collegian and her mother found it the most inexpensive way to travel. And during their ten interesting weeks, Jane found out all about "Knights of the Road." She learned their secret symbols, how they lived, exactly how they traveled—and had many unusual experiences among the "weary willies."

The college girl hides nothing in articles she has written for The American Weekly about her escapade. You will be surprised at some of the facts she reveals in her first article—appearing next Sunday—in The American Weekly.
